"Pied Piper of Genealogy" to Speak at DGS Spring Seminar

The Dallas Genealogical Society proudly presents Elizabeth Shown Mills, CG, CGL, FNGS, FUGA, FASG, as speaker for the 1991 Annual Spring Seminar to be held on 20 April 1991.

Elizabeth Shown Mills, whose roots spread from the Gulf to the Great Lakes to the 1634 founder of Barnstable, Massachusetts, lives today along Alabama's Black Warrior River.

She has been tracing those roots since the age of eleven, when an eighth-grade teacher assigned students an oral history project entitled, "Who Am I?" Mills's grandmother told her the story of an early Mississippi horse trader named Sam Odom, who swapped off a fine bay mare for a wife—a Choctaw Indian princess. The young Elizabeth was hooked. Since then, genealogy has been both her hobby and her calling and has made her an internationally noted lecturer and authority.

Mrs. Mills, who has been called the "Pied Piper of Genealogy" for the way her audiences follow her from seminar to conference, has a knack for inspiring all who attend her lectures. Weekend tree-climbers swear she could still enthrall them if her topic were "Growing Hydroponic Butter Beans." Her audiences also draw the most experienced professionals, who expect to learn from her new techniques for resolving "impossible" research problems.

While many professional genealogists are known for expertise in their own ethnic group, Mills's knowledge and special appeal touches all types of American families. When the National Genealogical Society brought its annual "Conference in the States" to Fort Worth in 1983, drawing dozens of speakers and a thousand researchers of all ethnicities, Mills was asked to address Spanish, French, and Black research problems. At the week's end, as she waited for the hotel's bellboy to bring her car for a 16-hour drive home, she was greeted by one of the attendees—a young man from an area television station, whose arms were loaded with notebooks of his research on his

African-American lines. Three hours later, the notebooks were folded up, and the young man reluctantly bid her a safe trip, saying, "Write me if you are ever in the Southwest again. I drove 300 miles to hear Alex Haley; I'd drive three states to hear you!"

Mills lectures at a lively pace and keeps interest keen by using actual cases, maps and handouts to show the methods used to find footloose forebears. To quote her audiences, she shows how to put names and numbers together to make real, living people out of ancestors whose lives are buried along a trail of courthouse records.

Making the past come to life has always been a family affair in the Mills household. (Being married to a professor of history makes that inescapable!) Her three children, now young adults, recall "family togetherness" as weekend trips in search of covered bridges and Saturday renovations on their historic home (a nylon-hose house in a silk-stocking district, Mills describes it). Did such lessons in living history have any affect on their lives? Today, one is a certified genealogical record searcher with a master's degree in historic preservation. Another has completed his own first rehab project on a turn-of-the-century farmhouse. The third escaped to New York city at age nineteen to make television commercials! Undaunted, Mills has now begun to work on the first grandchild, who shows genuine potential; at five, he can already recite the names of all ancestors hanging on the family walls.

History, the means by which our present becomes our children's past, has a way of linking generations forever. Studying our roots, Mills says, is the way we come to know and understand this process.

This will be Mills's second time to lecture for a DGS audience. At the Spring Seminar in 1986, she spoke before a sold-out audience. Registration fliers for this year's seminar will be mailed to all members by early March. Return yours early and reserve your seat to hear the most exciting lecturer in the field of genealogy today.

Editor's Note

Plans have been made and activity set in motion to bring DGS a quality Spring Seminar featuring one of genealogy's top speakers, Elizabeth Shown Mills. This month we focus on the personal side of Mrs. Mills with our front-page story. In March we will focus on the topics, information about the seminar, exhibitors, and other features of the Spring Seminar. Also, we will tell you all about the beautiful, spacious location Madilyn Crane and Margret Pearce reserved for the seminar this year.

DGS receives a large volume of mail each month from genealogical and historical societies, family associations, book sellers, individuals, and others. Most request that we pass their information on to our members. To meet this end, a new feature, "The DGS Mailbox," begins with this newsletter on page 16 and will appear when space is available in succeeding issues. We hope something of interest is there for you. Also, if you have an item, such as a family association reunion or newsletter, that you want to pass on to the DGS membership, send it to the editor, and it will be used as space permits.

There are a number of genealogical societies in the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex area that meet monthly at various locations. On page 17 we have listed just a few of these societies and when they meet. Like DGS, each of these societies is dedicated to preserving the records of their area and most support a local library's genealogical collection. All have monthly meetings, interesting programs, and annual workshops. If your society is not included in this list, or if the information is incorrect or incomplete, please call me at home (349-1435) or the library (670-1405) to let me know.

Long time DGS member and friend Bill Jacoby is recuperating at home after hip replacement surgery on 22 January. Notes and cards wishing him well can be sent to him at his home, 5818 East University Boulevard, # 128, Dallas, TX 75206-4631. Get well quick, Bill!

DGS News, Notes, and Reports

It is with regret that we report the resignation of Kelvin L. Meyers as President of DGS, effective 10 January 1991. In his letter of resignation addressed to the Executive Board of the Dallas Genealogical Society, Kelvin stated, "My reasons for resigning are of a personal nature and concern the health of family members." Kelvin went on to express his desire that the DGS Board and the Society "move forward in many great ways." DGS owes Kelvin Meyers a debt of gratitude for his dedication and service to the Society.

In the event of a vacancy in the office of the President, the DGS bylaws call for the Executive Vice-President to act as President. Madilyn Coen Crane declined the position, citing her desire to continue with plans for the Spring Seminar. The Board of Directors appointed the next-in-line, Vice-President for Programs, Patricia Law Hatcher, to serve as DGS President through 31 May 1991. Margret Hancock Pearce, who is serving as workshop co-chairman, agreed to fill the Vice-President for Programs position.

From Pat Hatcher, President

Spring is a busy time of year for DGS, with great plans, one of the biggest being our Spring Seminar with one of the most popular genealogical speakers and a great new (to us) facility that will allow us to have more attendees, more displays, more vendors, and more fun!

I'm pleased that Kelvin will remain active in the society and help me in completing this year.

I hope that many of you will use the Annual DGS Book Awards as motivation to get your family information into print. The computer interest group is focusing on this goal at the January and February meetings.

From Linda Rogers, VP for Membership

Have you renewed your membership?

We are now in to the month of February. If you did not renew your dues prior to 31 January 1991, the renewal and new member fee is $14 for an individual or family membership. A membership form can be found on page 23 of this newsletter for your convenience. We hope you will renew right away so as not to miss any of the issues of the newsletter or the March quarterly.

Another reason for getting those membership dues in right away: publication of the 1991 DGS Membership Roster. We know you will want to be listed with your ancestors' names. A new roster has not been published since 1986. In addition to names, addresses, and telephone numbers of DGS members, up to eight surnames being researched by each member will be included with each listing. What a great way to discover if other DGS members are researching the same surnames and locations that appear in your family tree! Also, the roster will include DGS member societies and libraries, exchange societies, the DGS bylaws, and a complete index.

Hurry! To be included in the new roster, your membership dues must be paid for the 1991 calendar year, and membership information and surnames submitted on or before 1 March 1991. Prepublication price for the roster will be $3 until 1 March 1991 and $5 after that date. Expected publication date of the roster will be 15 April 1991.

To order your copy of the 1991 DGS Membership Roster, complete the membership application and roster form on page 23 of this newsletter. If you previously sent in your membership dues, but did not send in your ancestors names and/or did not order a roster, please complete the bottom half of the form, mark on the top half that you have previously paid your 1991 dues (or that you are a lifetime member), and mail to DGS at the address on the form.

Don't delay! This information must be mailed by 1 March 1991. Remember, you can save $2 on the price of the roster by preordering. More importantly, your membership information will be included in the roster!

From Edwina Dyes, Director of Research

S.O.S. Volunteers needed now! Can you give DGS four or five hours once a week to help with our project of abstracting early Dallas County deed records for publication? A group is now meeting each Wednesday morning at the Dallas County Records Building for this purpose. Arrangements have been made with the county personnel for space and use of the actual deed books. We could use several more teams. If you think you can find time in your schedule for this activity, please call me at 373-0103 for more information.

This is an excellent way to meet other genealogists, and there are no special skills required. Call today and volunteer!

OTHSA to Meet in Greenville

The Orphan Train Heritage Society of America, Inc. (OTHSA) preserves the history of an era in American from the early 1850's until 1929 when some 150,000 children, many of them orphaned, were "placed out."

Charles Loring Brace, one of the founders of the Children's Aid Society of New York City developed the placing-out system that involved taking groups of "orphans," escorted by "agents," aboard trains to rural America. At pre-selected stops, children would be inspected by prospective parents and perhaps chosen to live with new families. Thus the name, "Orphan Trains." Other institutions followed the same general plan but altered the selection procedure by arranging in advance the families in which children would be placed.

Greenville, Texas, has been chosen as the site for a meeting of Orphan Train Riders, families, and friends on 1-2 August 1991. Greenville is home to a number of living Orphan Train Riders. Pre-registration will be required as the facility will only hold 60 persons. For information, write to OTHSA, 4912 Trout Farm Road, Springdale, AR 72764.

OTHSA is a central clearinghouse dedicated to preserving all information on the children, institutions, agents, railroads, towns, and families involved in the various placing-out programs. They hope that by hosting meetings around the country, new Orphan Train Riders will be located and others will be given a chance to learn more about this part of history through exhibits, videos, and conversation with the surviving "orphans."

Guide to Resources in the Dallas Public Library Genealogy Collection

Memorials of the Seventeenth- and Eighteenth-Century South Carolina Land Titles (Microcopy No. 12)

Overview: The Land Memorials are a series of land records unique to South Carolina. A land memorial is a document that traces the history of a piece of land back through each owner to the person who was originally granted the land by the colony, similar to a title abstract. The land memorials were begun in 1731 by the newly seated royal government to facilitate the collection of His Majesty's quitrents on properties granted by the preceding Proprietary and Provisional governments. Beginning in 1756, the property granted by the crown also was required to be included in the memorials. Memorials continued until the Revolution.

Quitrents were a form of taxation on land; therefore, people did not rush to have their property recorded in the memorials. In addition, land held by virtue of a warrant or a survey was not required to be recorded. The land memorials do contain references to previously unrecorded deeds and land inherited by primogeniture and marriage. There are also references to lands granted by North Carolina that fell into South Carolina because of border surveys.

Content: The original memorial books comprise 16 volumes and are housed in the South Carolina Department of Archives and History in Columbia, South Carolina. The fourteen volumes reproduced in the microfilm series are nineteenth-century duplicates of the original books. (The duplicate volumes, completed in 1821, were chosen to be microfilmed because of extensive damage to the original books. The duplicate set of books was created before the original memorials became badly damaged.)

Generally, the memorial lists the memorialist (owner of the land), original grantee (if applicable), number of acres, county or district where the land was located, waterways and neighbors bounding the land, date the land was surveyed, date the land was granted, quitrent, and date the memorial was recorded by the Auditor General.

Location: Memorials - 7 rolls of microfilm (35mm): SC-AR-M/12, AD 643-649, Auditor General: Memorials (Copies) 1731-1778, Books 1-14, located with the South Carolina microfilm on top of aisle 3-4.

Index - 5 rolls of microfilm (16mm), A - Z: Memorials of Seventeenth & Eighteenth-Century South Carolina Land Titles Index, located with the South Carolina microfilm on top of aisle 3-4

Aids: The five rolls of microfilm index is in one alphabetical sequence. At the beginning of each roll is an introduction to the memorials by Judith M. Brimelow and Joel A. Shirley, explaining about the memorials in detail. The index itself is a computer generated listing.

The first column contains the index entries, such as names of the memorialists, names of persons connected with the chain of title, names of surrounding landholders, names of surveyors, geographic locations, and a few selected subjects. Summaries of individual memorials related to the index entry are listed below the term in chronological order. Each summary gives a description of the memorial and includes the name of the memorialist and, if mentioned in the memorial, the name of the original grantee. Other names appearing in the full text of the memorial, such as neighbors, also are used as indexed entries, but are not mentioned in the summary.

The middle column on the microfilm index is headed "dates" and lists the date of recording for each memorial.

The last column is headed "entry nbrs" (entry numbers). There are five sets of numbers, which are used for reference purposes. The first two sets refer to the record group and the series respectively and are for reference use by the staff of the South Carolina Archives. The remaining three sets of numbers indicate the volume in which the memorial can be found, the page on which the memorial begins, and the sequence in which the memorial appears on the page. For instance:

TAYLOR, WARD

TAYLOR, WARD, MEMORIAL FOR 200 ACRES 1769/04/26 0030 002 0008 00423 05
ON STEPHENS CREEK, GRANVILLE COUNTY

This indicates Ward Taylor filed a memorial for 200 acres in Granville County, which was recorded on 26 April 1769, in volume 8, page 423, number 5 on the page.

The Art of Writing Queries

Queries requesting information about our families are an excellent way to let other genealogists know what we are doing and to find unknown "relatives" who may be researching the same surnames. You are likely to receive a more successful response if you follow a few simple rules when writing your query.

First, keep your query short, simple, and to the point. Usually, fifty words or less is an acceptable length.

Capitalize all the letters in the surnames that you want to emphasize.

State your problem clearly and be specific by giving full names, dates, and locations. "John Smith of South Carolina" is too vague; "John Smith, born 1850, Edgefield County, South Carolina" stands a better chance of locating information.

Do not go into detailed information or be too vague. Request specific information, such as parents, siblings, birth, death, burial, etc.

Do not use a question mark, "?", to indicate a theory. Use phrases, such as "Possibly," "Probably," or "It could be" to make your meaning clear.

Do not abbreviate words or places in your query. Leave that to the editor.

Neatness and readability count. Do not put your query in the body of a letter. Queries should be typed or printed on a single sheet. A cover letter can be included, if desired. Proofread for typos or errors in the information.

Know and follow the rules regarding the placement of queries in the publication to which you are submitting your information. Observe the format of the editor and use it.

Be sure to include your name and address. Telephone numbers can be added, if desired.

Well-written queries can bring quick and successful results. Write those queries today and good luck!

Successful Query Results

Successful results to queries can come from many directions. DGS member Frances Lindell shares his story of how he helped James A. Morris of Arlington, Virginia, with a query he placed in the DGS Newsletter.

"In the May, 1990, DGS Newsletter, James A. Morris placed a query requesting information on Job Huguley of Georgia who had died in Dallas County in 1882. As I read the query, I realized I had known two of Huguley's granddaughters several years ago and that one had worked on a family history book. From the Dallas telephone directory I obtained names of several Huguley relatives. My wife Milta and I took pictures of Huguley's grave at the Big Springs Cemetery in Garland and sent them to Mr. Morris. We were also able to obtain the book, Plano, Texas: The Early Years, for him.

This was not complicated research, and James Morris appreciated our efforts. He has since contacted some of the cousins we helped him locate."

Writing Award

Margaret Ann Thetford's "Family Tree" column, which appears twice weekly in the Dallas Morning News, won the first place award for a Genealogical Column in the Writing Awards given by the Texas State Genealogical Society at their State Conference in Austin this past November. The column previously won third place national recognition by the Council of Genealogy Columnists in the category, Newspaper Columns of General Interest, at the NGS Conference in Arlington, Virginia, last June.

Congratulations, Margaret Ann! It is gratifying to know that Texas and the entire U.S. has discovered what we at DGS have known for years. Thanks for a job well done.

Queries

Queries do not require a Texas Connection and are free to members of the Dallas Genealogical Society (DGS). Nonmembers should include $3 for each query. DGS reserves the right to abbreviate and condense queries and assumes no responsibility for their accuracy. Send as many queries as you wish, and they will be printed as space permits. Mail all queries: Editor, DGS Newsletter, P. O. Box 12648, Dallas, TX 75225.

Help Us Raise the Texas Flag!

The Dallas Genealogical Society (DGS) 1991 Special Project is to raise the funds needed to purchase the 1920 United States Census and Soundex for the State of Texas when it becomes available in March, 1992, to place in the Genealogy Section of the J. Erik Jonsson Central Library (Dallas Public Library). An estimated $9,000 is needed, and we have less than one year to raise the money. We have enough funds in the special account to purchase the 1920 Texas Census; we are climbing toward the Soundex. Please help us raise the Texas flag even higher on the flagpole! The current National Archives price per roll is $23, but DGS will accept your tax-deductible gift in any amount.

Gifts can be made to purchase the 1920 Census or Soundex for any state. However, the National Archives will be sending out complete sets for the the entire United States or complete sets of a particular state on 2 March 1992, for orders placed by 1 September 1991. Individual rolls will not be processed by the Archives until a later date.

The following DGS members and friends have made very generous donations to the project: Mrs. Jack C. Allen; Doris F. Crance for New York (in memory of John Alfred and Hedwig Opprecht Frey); Adrienne B. Jamieson; Mildred N. Clark; M. W. Harris; Alline E. McCrary; L. J. Parsons; Billie Polk Moore; George Pettett; Renee Jackson Smith (in honor of Lea Markoff).

If you would like to be a part of the project to "Raise the Texas Flag" to the top of the flagpole, send your gift today to:
