1991 DGS FALL SYMPOSIUM AND BEGINNERS WORKSHOP DATE SET

It's that time of year again. Fall! Or "autumn" if you prefer. Whatever you call it, with its arrival comes annual events we look forward to with anticipation: cooler weather and a change in the seasons (look quickly or you'll miss it!), the State Fair of Texas and football, the fun of Halloween and the traditionalism of Thanksgiving.

Now, as family researchers, we have another annual event to look forward to each fall—The Fourth Annual 1991 Fall Genealogy Symposium and Tenth Annual Beginners Workshop sponsored by the Dallas Genealogical Society. To be held on Saturday, 9 November 1991, this year's symposium promises to be bigger and better than ever before. Genealogists can expect a full day of interesting and informative lectures in basic (B), intermediate (I), and advanced (A) classes conducted by DGS officers, directors, members, and friends. The beginners workshop will be held simultaneously with the symposium. This all-day workshop will offer individuals with little or no experience in genealogy the tools with which to begin their research. Exhibitors will be on hand with genealogical and historical books and materials to display and sell.

Again this year, the symposium and beginners workshop will be held at the Preston Hollow Presbyterian Church located at 9800 Preston Road (northeast corner of Preston Road and Walnut Hill Lane). The location is accessible from North Central Expressway (Hwy 75), LBJ Freeway (I-635), or the Dallas North Tollway. There is free parking in the northeast parking lot behind the church and may be entered from either Preston Road or Walnut Hill Lane. The building has handicap parking and access.

Registration for both the symposium and beginners workshop will begin at 8:00 a.m. Sessions begin at 9:30 a.m., 11:00 a.m., 1:30 p.m., and 3:00 p.m. There will be 30-minute breaks between sessions for both the symposium and workshop to allow time to visit the exhibitors and move between classrooms.

"Let's Do Lunch" will be from 12:00 noon to 1:30 p.m. Again this year, we invite you to bring a sack lunch, sit at tables with old and new friends, and join in on informal discussions about your favorite genealogical topics. If you wish to go out, there are some fast-food restaurants in the area of Preston Road at Marsh Lane, Preston at Forest Lane, and Preston at LBJ Freeway.

The registration fee for the symposium or the beginners workshop is $18, if postmarked by 15 October 1991; $20 thereafter and at the door. Preregistration assures symposium registrants of the Symposium Syllabus containing the speaker's handouts and workshop registrants of the Beginners Workshop Syllabus and a package of DGS assorted forms.

A registration form is on page 95. Also, registration fliers will be mailed to all DGS members or may be picked up in the DPL Genealogy Section.

DGS October Regular Meeting and Computer Interest Group Meeting

Unless otherwise indicated, Dallas Genealogical Society (DGS) Regular Meetings are held in the Auditorium of the J. Erik Jonsson Central Library (Dallas Public Library), 1515 Young Street at Ervay, Dallas, Texas. The Computer Interest Group meets one hour prior to the Regular Meeting in the East/West Rooms across the hall from the Auditorium. Visitors and guests are welcome. Meetings are open to the public.

Regular Meeting

Date: Monday, 28 October 1991
Time: 11:00 a.m.
Speaker: Thom Cashman
Topic: To Publish or Not to Publish

Genealogists spend years pouring over old books, manuscripts, and ledgers, squinting at dim microfilm readers, and compiling scores of ancestor charts and family group sheets. The next logical step is to put it all into some type of narrative form. After all, publishing one's research is often the goal of the family researcher.

What next? What do we need to know before contacting a printer or publisher? How does one go about getting a manuscript published?

For the past twelve years, Thom Cashman has represented Henington Publishing Company, assisting individuals, families, cities, counties, and large organizations on preserving their histories through publication. In To Publish or Not to Publish, Thom will answer our questions on what we need to know about publishing.

DGS has established a special fund to purchase the 1920 United States Census when it becomes available in 1992 to place in the Genealogy Section of the Dallas Public Library. DGS will purchase the microfilm rolls from the American Genealogical Lending Library (AGLL) at their current price of $12.50 per roll of microfilm. Through Society donations, contributions from members and friends, and monies earned at DGS sponsored workshops, we have currently raised a total of $14,974.51.

DGS Symposium: Professional Speakers! New Lectures! More Choices!

The DGS Fall Symposium offers something for everyone! Additional lectures have been added to each session to give participants a wider selection from which to choose. Also, added this year, will be eight, all-day computer classes on genealogy software. Four sessions on genealogical writing will be offered. New this year will be lectures on researching in the neighboring states of Arkansas and Oklahoma. We're even offering researching in the Republic of Texas. All this, in addition to popular methodology and "how-to" lectures and an all-day beginners workshop. For the complete schedule and a preregistration form, see page 95.

10th Annual Beginners Workshop

Renee Jackson Smith, C.A.L.S.: Part I, Organization, Communication, Family Survey; Part II, Land Records, Deeds, Wills, Probate; Part III, Courthouse Research, Vital Records, Correspondence; Part IV, Tax, Census, Military Records - This is the tenth consecutive year that DGS has sponsored a beginners workshop. Held simultaneously with the symposium, the workshop offers beginners or those with little researching experience a full day of information for getting started. This course will be taught by Renee Smith, genealogy instructor at Richland College since 1978.

Session Speakers

Russell P. Baker, C.A.: Razorbacks and Rackensacks: Arkansas Genealogical Research, Part I and Part II (S-7 & S-13) - Baker, deputy director of the Arkansas History Commission and State Archives in Little Rock, Arkansas, is an archivist, historian, genealogist, teacher, and author. He knows Arkansas and her records and will give us an overview of both her history and the records. He may even tell us what "Rackensacks" are. This lecture will be in two, one-hour sessions.

Lloyd DeWitt Bockstruck: Pitfalls and Potholes: Avoiding the Traps of Genealogy (S-6); Using Periodicals Efficiently (S-9); All the News That's Fit to Print—and Some That's Not: Newspaper Research (S-16); U. S. Military Records (S-24) - As head of the DPL Genealogy Collection, Bockstruck is a genealogist who needs no introduction in Dallas or nationally, for that matter. In his lecture on the pitfalls of genealogy he will give us tips on how to avoid becoming a victim of some of genealogy's most devious traps. In his lecture on using genealogical periodicals, he will talk about the finding aids that are available to guide the genealogist to material published in periodical publications. His lecture on newspaper research is a guided tour on locating early newspapers, the genealogical information they contain, and how to obtain them. His lecture on military records is an overview of military service records, indexes, pensions, etc., of American wars from colonial times to the 20th Century.

Sharon K. Burns: Your Sooner Ancestor: Oklahoma Research (S-5) - Burns is a native of Oklahoma and currently lives in Edmond. In her lecture she will talk about some of the depositories in Oklahoma that are rich in Oklahoma records; i.e., The Oklahoma Historical Society, Oklahoma State Library, and University of Oklahoma Library. She will tell you about the records, along with information about the state and its counties.

Madilyn Coen Crane: Publishing Your Family History: From Family Stories to the Printer (S-8) - This is a lecture for anyone interested in publishing their family history. Crane operates her own business researching and publishing family histories for clients. She will take you through the steps, from the family stories and your research to sending your manuscript to a printer.

Joan Corey: From Shoebox to Showcase: Displaying Photos and Memories (S-22) - Corey's business card says she is a "Memory Consultant." She will tell you how to get those treasured photos and mementoes out of the shoeboxes, drawers, and old suitcases where they've been stored and displayed in beautiful, safe albums that will preserve them for the future.

Maxine Lytle Dodd: How to Get Your Research in Print...and Write Your Book Later (S-20) - For the past several years, Dodd headed the Texas State DAR Genealogical Records Committee. If you are not ready to publish, but would like to get your genealogical records into print, come learn about this committee. Dodd will tell you how to submit material, how to find what has been published, and how to use them in your local library and at the DAR Library in Washington, D.C.

Patricia Law Hatcher: Winning the Paper War: Organizing Your Research Material (S-4); What Did They Name the Baby? Genealogical Clues in Given Names (S-17) - Hatcher is a systems analyst, computer consultant, and contract technical writer. In her lecture on getting organized, she uses her background in designing information retrieval systems to show how to file your records so that the filing system helps you retrieve and analyze your information. In her lecture on given names, she will tell you when you can and when you cannot, use a given name for genealogical evidence.

Margaret Ann Hudson: Publishing Records: Abstracting and Indexing (S-14) - Hudson has been involved with the publication of many of the DGS books and is currently in her second stint as editor of The Dallas Quarterly. She believes that, as genealogists, we can make a contribution to genealogy by abstracting, indexing, and publishing genealogical records, whether you're compiling a book or contributing to your local society's publication. She will bring her years of practical experience working on DGS publications, as well as in her own word processing company, to tell you how you, too, can give something back to genealogy.

Weldon Hudson, C.G.R.S.: Armchair Genealogy (S-10) - Hudson, owner of Hudson Heritage Books and a researcher for 28 years, describes this as research that can and should be done from your home or office. He brings years of practical experience in research and publishing to his lecture on how to get a better response to letters of request and some seldom used ways to reach unknown family members and other researchers on your family line.

Sammie Townsend Lee: Like a Kid in a Candy Store: Researching in Salt Lake City's Family History Library (S-12); How to Use the Genealogy Collection at the Dallas Public Library (S-23) - When Sammie Lee returned from her first research trip to the Family History Library, she said she felt like a kid in a candy store: there was so much from which to choose that she didn't know which way to turn first. If you are planning your first trip to the largest genealogical library in the world, then you should hear this lecture. For our hometown researchers who may be unfamiliar with or get confused using the DPL's Genealogy Collection, Lee will explain how to use the computer and card catalog, how to find the numbers on the shelves, and give you information on some of the most widely used resources. Lee is a part-time staff member in the section.

Helen Mason Lu: Beginning at a Dogwood Sapling...Locating Land by Metes and Bounds (S-3); Maps Essential for Research (S-15) - Can you locate your ancestors land in a State Land State if the deed tells you to begin at a Dogwood Sapling thence east 100 poles, etc? Helen Lu can, and she will tell how to plat metes and bounds. Having been a genealogist for over twenty years, Helen has traveled extensively to locate the land, roads, churches, and cemeteries where her ancestors lived. She has amassed a large map collection and will cover the many types of maps, where to locate them, and their effective use in genealogical research.

Kelvin L. Meyers: Where There's Land, There's Taxes to Pay and Estates to Probate...Usually! (S-11); Finding Your Republic of Texas Ancestor (S-18) - To paraphrase an old saying, you cannot escape death and taxes. If your ancestor owned land, he had to pay taxes on that land every year. When he died, someone had to inherit, whether he left a will or not. Meyers, a part-time staff member in the DPL Genealogy Section, will tell you about locating these two very important and useful records and what you can learn from them. For those who suspect they have a Republic of Texas ancestor, Meyers will give a brief overview of the records available for locating and researching those early Texas pioneers.

Margret Hancock Pearce: Remembering and Writing: Telling All About You (S-2) - How do you trigger great Aunt Polly's memory so she can tell you the family history? What about your earliest recollections? Pearce will teach you the process of triggering a memory in order to make a time-line of a life from birth to the present, and how to remember events and impressions of events, from the most important to the smallest insignificant occurrence; and how to get them on paper.

John Sellers: Dusty Books and Musty Rooms: Courthouse Research is Fun! (S-21) - Sellers honestly believes that researching in courthouses is fun! Before he ever discovered genealogical libraries and archives, he was a regular at his hometown courthouse in Sulphur Springs, Texas, searching through their records for information on his ancestors. He will share his knowledge of courthouse records by telling you about the kinds of records you can reasonably expect to find and what they contain.

Lynda C. Suffridge: From Perryville to Perth: The Pathway to Scotland (S-1 & repeated S-19) - Once we get our immigrant ancestor back across the Atlantic Ocean, the hard work really begins. Suffridge, who spent three weeks in 1990 researching in Scotland's records, will tell you about the records for locating your Scottish ancestor. Suffridge is a part-time staff member in the Research Room of the Arkansas History Commission in Little Rock.

Computer Sessions

Six computer oriented lectures are planned, two each hour. This will include five lectures on genealogical software. If you are planning to purchase a genealogical software program for your computer, this is a perfect opportunity to see what is out there, how it works, compare prices, hear about the latest technology, updates, and advances, etc. The speakers will be local representatives or experienced users of the software. They will be able to demonstrate the software and can answer questions about availability. Lectures on software for genealogy will include: Joyce E. Jones, Family Roots (C-7); Carol Mann, The Family Edge (C-8); Travis Morris, Personal Ancestral File (PAF) (C-6); Joe Waldrop, Brother's Keeper (C-2); John Wylie, Roots III (C-4).

In addition, several experienced computer genealogists will share their knowledge: Malcolm "Mike" Basham, Computer Utilities: Tools for Genealogists (C-5); Joe Sissom, Introduction to Genealogical Computing (C-1); Joe Waldrop, How to Choose Your Genealogical Software (C-3).
