Institute of Genealogical Studies Returns!

The Dallas Genealogical Society is pleased to announce the return this summer of the Institute of Genealogical Studies. The Institute will be held 26-31 July at the Harvey Hotel-Plano.

Invest a week of your research time with America's leading genealogical instructors. The 1998 course offerings focus on practicality and application to real research situations. Solve your problems through a more organized research strategy, using untapped sources and heightened analysis skills. Choose from one of the following:

The Intermediate Genealogist Sammie Townsend Lee

If you are self-taught or have progressed beyond the basics, this course is tailored for you. Emphasis is on sources and repositories, realistic research trips, courthouse visits, library resources outside genealogy departments, periodicals, manuscripts, state archives, newspapers, and report writing.

The Advanced Genealogist John Philip Colletta, Ph.D.

To be proficient, absorb these necessary sources and skills under the tutelage of master teachers: Federal records, migration patterns, military service records, successful European research, genealogical writing, and opportunities for professional genealogists.

Case Studies—Winning the Research War Leslie Smith Collier

Bring your problem for in-depth analysis. Sessions on methodology alternate with interactive discussions of students' case studies. Topics include development of evidentiary arguments, advanced census research, identification of prior locations, the pinpointing of ancestral property, land projects, typical patterns of contact among relatives, and the search for living descendants.

Ethnic Roots of the South George K. Schweitzer, Ph.D., Sc.D.

The U.S.A. is a melting pot, but your ancestors maintained ethnic patterns far more strongly than credited. Understand your families. Examine the three major groups who populated the South: Scots-Irish, English, and German—movements, characteristics, history, culture, and records in Europe and America.

The Expansionist Period—1784- 1830

Lloyd DeWitt Bockstruck

If your research bogs down, enter into this vital time frame when seemingly untraceable ancestors have migrated far from their colonial origins. This course is directed towards the southern and lower midwestern regions of the new United States.

Creative Problem Solving Tentative

(Desmond Walls Allen was scheduled to direct this course, but she will be unable to participate due to illness.)

Concentrate on developing a creative mind set and develop strategies for genealogical problem solving. Designed for the advanced researcher, this course covers the legal system, maps, historical research methodology, source citation, 20th century research, conducting oral history investigations, and unusual sources.

In addition to the marvelous course offerings, there will be optional activities throughout the week, beginning with a welcome reception Sunday, 26 July. Other activities include evening lectures on the Dallas Public Library, Computers and Genealogists, and the National Archives and Library of Congress, and the IGS Celebration Dinner Thursday evening, 30 July. And, of course, your favorite vendors will be there all week!

Membership

Individuals, libraries, or societies may apply for membership. Dues are $20 for twelve consecutive months, with membership beginning the month of payment. New member dues and renewals should be mailed to DGS at P.O. Box 25556, Dallas, Texas 75225-1556 and marked to the attention of the Vice-President for Membership. Current members receive The Dallas Journal and the DGS Newsletter.

The object and goals of this Society are:

- Create, foster and maintain interest in genealogy and family history;
- Raise standards of genealogical research through educational programs, workshops, and the publication of data;
- Promote the collection and preservation of material relating to the early history of Dallas County and those pioneers who settled the area;
- Copy, index, and publish records, documents, inscriptions, and other genealogical source materials;
- Support the Genealogy Section of the Dallas Public Library; and
- Stimulate the exchange of information between Society members and genealogical researchers across the nation.

Newsletter

The DGS Newsletter is published monthly from January-May and August-October, with bi-monthly issues published in June-July and November-December. Copy deadline for the June-July 1998 DGS Newsletter is 15 April 1998. All articles and correspondence for the DGS Newsletter should be mailed to the Society at P. O. Box 12648, Dallas, Texas 75225-0648 to the attention of the Newsletter Editor.

Articles appearing in the DGS Newsletter may be reprinted only upon receipt of written permission from the author. Credit should be given to the author and acknowledgment given the DGS Newsletter as the source. Letters requesting reprint permission should be sent to the Newsletter Editor.

Beyond the Compiled Service Records

Peggy Fox, Director
Confederate Research Center

April Meeting:

Lesson Seven of the Three R's

Peggy Fox will describe the resources and services available at the Confederate Research Center in Hillsboro, TX. These include over 5,000 books, brochures, and pamphlets on the War Between the States, with emphasis on Confederate military history. There are capsule histories of all 3,220 military regiments, special units, and Confederate ships. Archives contain original letters, documents, maps, and photographs. Magazines and newspaper clippings are also included.

Many of us may not have had ancestors in the Confederacy at the time of the war, but we have learned that our families later moved there, married into southern families, or perhaps had relatives or collateral families from this area.

Information about the activities of Confederate civilians is contained in an unindexed series of documents accumulated by Union Provost Marshals. Our speaker will focus on how we may research beyond the commonly known resources.

Come join us 27 April and learn about resources in this unique research center.

Special Interest Groups

The Computer Interest Group, led by Art Rubeck, will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, 9 April 1998 in the auditorium of the J. Erik Jonsson Library. The program will be a live demonstration of the new PAF (Personal Ancestral File) 3.0 program by Art Rubeck and the new UFT (Ultimate Family Tree) program by Dave Heston. The May program will be held 14 May. This program will be a live demonstration of the new TMG

(The Master Genealogist) Version 3.5 program by Don Raney and the new FTM (Family Tree Maker) Version 4.4 by Karen Miller.

The Latin-American Interest Group, led by Sandy Fritz, will meet at 7:00 p.m. Friday, 3 April 1998 at her home, 506 Granada in Garland. The program will be a working session to develop a beginners handout for new Latin American researchers. It is planned to have the handouts available at the library for Latin American research inquires.

The African American Interest Group, led by Emille Betterson and Emma Harrell, will meet at the Library Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday, 21 April 1998. The program will be "Some Firsts in African American History of Dallas County," presented by Eva McMillan and Emma Harrell.

DGS News from the Past

From the April 1988 issue of the DGS Newsletter:

Mr. Lloyd Bockstruck announced at the last DGS Board meeting that he had placed book number 50,000 on the shelf of the Genealogy Department last week. This means that the Genealogical Department of the Dallas Public Library now has 50,000 volumes plus microfilm and microfiche that are available for all to use for research. Contact someone in the Genealogical Department or a DGS Board member to see how you can help this number of books continue to grow, "Adopt a Book."

Have early Tennessee ancestors? The Watauga Settlements were among the earliest settlements in Tennessee before statehood. A new book, The Wataugah Land Purchases, by Troy R. Keesee tells the story "plat by plat, of the first settlers who came across the mountains, defied King George and made their own transactions with Native Americans." The land purchases are platted together in one book for the first time, and also the first documented settlers of Tennessee will be found in this book. The book is available from the author at 151 Skyline Lane, Powell, TN 37849 for $25.00 plus $3.00 s/h. (The Family Tree, Feb/Mar 1998 p. 13A)

The Ancestry Link Station is a fully searchable database containing descriptions of genealogy sites throughout the Internet. You can even nominate your own Web page or someone else's site that you admire for inclusion within the database. An Ancestry representative will review the site. If they agree with your assessment, the site is added to the Link Station's database which has its data grouped into four categories: Geographical Location, Record Type, Ethnic/Religious, and the ever-popular Miscellaneous. To access the free Ancestry Link Station, go to <<http://www.ancestry.com>> and then click on "Link Station." (Dick Eastman's Electronic Newsletter, 14 Feb 1998)

Planning a trip to South Carolina for research? Take note that the South Carolina Archives will be closed from 20 April-4 May 1998 to move to its new home at the South Carolina History Center, 8301 Parklane Road, Columbia, SC. The plan is that they will reopen at the new facility on 5 May 1998. (The Family Tree, Feb/Mar 1998, p. 32B).

Does HTML overwhelm you, but you'd like to have your own Web Page? You might want to check out the possibilities offered by the popular Switchboard site at its My Studio section. My Studio is a simple, user-friendly web page design tool available for free. To create your homepage you simply select a layout and a theme, enter your home page text—including links to your favorite web sites—upload your own pictures or select from an extensive gallery of clip art images, and you're done! A Rainey/Raney Genealogical Research Conference will be held at the Holiday Inn in Franklin, TN (20 miles south of Nashville) on 26-27 June 1998. For additional information call (501) 821-2811 or Fax 501-821-2877. Dr. George Schweitzer and Marynell Bryant, editor of the Rainey Times will be the featured speakers. (flyer from Rainey Times.)

Down to the Sea in Ships On The Web. In Lloyd Bockstruck's February lecture he made us aware of the wide range of printed sources available for New England Research. However, electronic sources are now becoming available, and one that combines genealogy and the history of Gloucester, Massachusetts, is now online. This town is famous for its fishing industry and is almost as famous for the many Gloucester men who lost their lives at sea. The Web site includes the chronological list of vessels and men lost fishing out of Gloucester, with over 3,000 names. (Information from the Gloucester Death Records, the Gloucester Telegraph, the Cape Ann Advertiser, and the Gloucester Times.) For anyone with Gloucester ancestry, there are detailed databases of the genealogy of a number of Gloucester families. This Web site reflects a lot of hard work by a dedicated person. <<http://www.star.net/misuraca/down2c.htm>>

SOFTWARE REVIEW

The following article is from Eastman's Online Genealogy Newsletter and is copyright 1998 by Richard W. Eastman and Ancestry, Inc. It is re-published here with the permission of the author.

PERSONAL ANCESTRAL FILE COMPANION

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, often referred to as "the Mormons" or "the LDS Church," produces one of the more popular genealogy programs in the world. In fact, I suspect that Personal Ancestral File is THE most popular MS-DOS genealogy program, although I do not have any statistics to prove that. The Church released version 3.0 of Personal Ancestral File (which I will refer to as PAF) last April. A few months later the LDS Church announced "Personal Ancestral File Companion," and I had a chance to use that program this week.

PAF Companion, unlike PAF itself, is a Windows program that will operate on Windows 3.1 or any later version of Windows, including Windows 95 and Windows NT. It uses PAF's database as input and creates great printed reports and charts. The regular printed reports in PAF 3.0 can perhaps be described as "stark." They do the job but will not win any prizes for beauty. PAF Companion changes all that. Not only does the Companion produce great-looking reports, but it also adds several new reports not available in PAF 3.0.

Personal Ancestral File Companion

will print family group records, pedigree charts, ancestor charts (including a variation with siblings), descendant charts, a Register Report, and a fan chart. In addition, these reports can be printed on any size paper. Not only will PAF Companion print on 8.5-inch-by-11-inch paper, legal-sized paper, and A4 paper, but it supports other sizes as well. PAF Companion will print on smaller sizes for inclusion in books and it even will print wall-sized charts. These wall-sized charts may be produced on one large sheet of paper on a large plotter or on multiple sheets of paper on any Windows printer. The multiple sheets can then be pasted together to produce the large reports. PAF Companion will print on any printer supported by Windows, including laser, inkjet, dot-matrix or plotters. My guess is that the use of a dot-matrix printer will not produce satisfactory printouts; I would strongly suggest the use of a high-quality inkjet or a laser printer.

I have written in the past about PAF*Mate, an excellent printing program produced by Progeny Software in Canada that produces printed reports from PAF databases. I have always felt that PAF*Mate and its twin program GED*Mate had the best printed reports of any genealogy program. Now I'll let you in on a little secret: the new PAF Companion appears to be identical to PAF*Mate. It has the same screens and the same reports; only the copyright statements have been changed. Well, there are a few other differences too, such as a different user's manual. It appears that the LDS Church "outsourced" the development of this program to a commercial company, a move that I think benefited both parties as well as PAF users. You have heard of a win-win situation? With the combination of the LDS Church, Progeny Software, and PAF users, this one looks like a win-win-win.

My favorite printout is the fan chart. I found that my old Hewlett-Packard LaserJet II would not print a fan chart on the older PAF*Mate, but it worked perfectly with PAF Companion. Obviously there are some improvements to the original program. I created one fan chart that was about 8 feet tall, an impressive printout to take to the next family reunion.

One feature that I particularly liked was the ability to create Register Reports. These are text reports in a narrative that follows rigid formats. Many genealogy books are printed in Register Report format, and almost all scholarly genealogy quarterlies follow one of the variations of Register Report. PAF 3.0 does not have anything like that, but PAF Companion allows you to select from the New England Historic Genealogical Society's version of Register Reports, the National Genealogical Society's version of Register Reports or from a version that uses Henry numbers. A complete description of these reports is beyond the scope of this article.

The Register Reports do not print directly to paper. Instead, they create disk files that can be imported into Microsoft Word, WordPerfect, Lotus WordPro, Windows Write, Windows WordPad or any of a number of other word processing programs. All text formatting, such as bold, underline or italics, is maintained. The more powerful programs can add indexes, tables of contents, and even more formatting, as well as the insertion of scanned images. This use of a powerful external word processor is an excellent idea; PAF Companion does what it does best, and the word processor is used to do what it does best.

I experimented quite a bit with the PAF Companion printouts and found them all to be excellent. It's tough to describe them verbally in this newsletter; phrases like "they looked great" do not do justice to the quality of these printouts.

PAF Companion ships on only one floppy diskette. That is a surprise in this day and age when software always seems to require a CD-ROM to hold the many megabytes of bloated code. Obviously the LDS Church and/or Progeny Software have compressed a lot of functionality into that one diskette. The user's manual is 91 pages long; I'll describe it as "falling off a log simple." Every step is detailed with examples, and the book includes many illustrations of reports as well as screen shots showing the program in operation.

OK, now for the big question: How much does PAF Companion cost? Are you ready for this?

Ten bucks. Yes, that is one-zero U.S. greenbacks. And they even pay the postage to U.S. addresses! When was the last time you found a printing utility with this much horsepower available for ten dollars? If you have Personal Ancestral File 3.0 and you use Windows, I strongly recommend that you invest the ten bucks.

Personal Ancestral File Companion is available from the same place from which you ordered Personal Ancestral File: The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Salt Lake Distribution Center, 1999 West 1700 South, Salt Lake City, UT 84104-4233. While postage within the U.S. is included, you do need to add sales tax. I would suggest that it is easier to call 1-800-537-5950 and charge it to a credit card. Anyone in

This society is a member of the Federation of Genealogical Societies, a confederation of more than 450 societies in the United States and Canada. One benefit to you is that you are entitled to a subscription to its quarterly magazine, Forum at the discounted price of only $11 per year.

Forum has the most complete Calendar of Events of any genealogical magazine. A typical issue shows as many as 50 different seminars and lectures being held throughout the United States. A handy Calendar of Events by State allows you to easily pinpoint which events are in your area.

The column "State Reporting," lists many activities of various genealogical societies and other groups that might advance your research. The "Record Access" column describes the status of accessibility of information by state. Other regular columns appear for family associations, ethnic/international, book reviews and new briefs. If work of a particular society is unusually significant, their efforts appear on the "Society Spotlight" column.

Did You Know?

by Shirley Stertz Hawn

Did you know that the National Archives are constantly increasing their microfilm records that are available to the public? In The Record, published by the National Archives and Records Administration, I recently found the following microfilm Record Groups listed under "Recent Genealogical Microfilm Publications:"

M1321 - Passenger Lists of Vessels Arriving at Gloucester, Massachusetts, October 1906 - March 1942 (1 roll).

M2072 - Lists of Confederates Captured at Vicksburg, Mississippi (1 roll).

M1819 - Compiled Military Service Records of Volunteer Union Troops Who served with the United States Colored Troops: 1st United States Colored Infantry, 1st South Carolina Volunteers (Colored), Company A, 1st United States Colored Infantry (1 year) (19 rolls).

M2019 - Records Relating to War of 1812 Prisoners of War (1 roll).

According to the person I talked to at the Archives, there is not a descriptive pamphlet for every record group listed above. If you call the toll-free number shown at the end of this article and ask, they will send the pamphlets that are available at no charge.

The reference number preceding the description is the number to use when ordering either the film or a pamphlet. The microfilm can be purchased for thirty-four dollars ($34.00) a roll.

Check the Dallas Public Library to see if they own a copy of the film that you are interested in seeing. If they don't, you might consider purchasing the film and donating it to the Library.

Are You a Gene-Aholic?

Here are the top ten indicators of Gene-Aholicism:

10. You introduce your daughter as your descendant.
9. You have never met any of the people you send E-mail to, even though you are related.
8. You can recite your lineage back 8 generations, but you cannot remember your nephew's name.
7. You have more photographs of dead people than living ones.
6. You have taken a tape recorder and/or notebook to a family reunion.
5. You have not only read the latest GEDCOM standard, you understand it.
4. The local genealogy society borrows books from you.
3. The only film you've seen in the last year was the census film.
2. More than half of your CD collection is made up of marriage records and pedigrees.
1. Your elusive ancestor has been spotted in more places than Elvis!

A Broader Look at the Federal Census

A year before my 50-something-year-old ggg-grandfather answered President Lincoln's call for volunteers, he was a farmer in Putnam County, Missouri. His farm was small, representing only a few of the county's 52,724 improved acres. When the census taker strolled through the county that summer of 1860, he found a community of 9207 people, comprised of 1582 families. Of those, only 12 were slaveholders, owning a total of 31 slaves. On Sundays, the population worshipped at one of Putnam's four churches.

I like to ponder what life was like there, before the war took Grandpa John and his three sons to "bloody Shiloh" and beyond. And too, I can't help but think of the differences between this farming community and the one just a little further to the southwest, in Jackson County, home to the other side of my family. The staggering statistic that caught my eye was Jackson's 898 slaveholders, and the 3944 slaves they owned.

The dissimilarity in slave ownership between the two counties certainly reflects, at least partly, the migration patterns of the populace. Although both lie in the northern portion of Missouri, many of Putnam's citizens came in through the Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa gateway, while Jackson attracted people from North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and points south.

What's this have to do with the census? The numeric statistics (not the migration patterns) about my two Missouri counties were gathered at an internet site (<http://icg.fas.harvard.edu/~hist1651/census/>) called Historical, Demographic, Economic and Social Data from the US Decennial Census. The site details the historical background of the U.S. Census and allows you to request a specified set of statistics for any county in the United States between 1790 and 1860.

The page is designed to display certain "themes," including population, agriculture, manufacturing, churches, property and personal worth. Within each theme are a variety of variables to pick from, i.e., "show me the number and value of the Baptist churches and how many free blacks are in this county in 1840." You can pick up to 10 variables with each search and if requesting the results broken down by county, you can choose a maximum of two states at a time.

When many of us search census records, we're generally just looking for a particular family. While this furthers our research, it doesn't give a picture of their neighborhood. For me, this Internet site's statistics helped paint a broader picture of my ancestors' world. No, it won't add another name to the pedigree chart, but that's not the only reason I research. I want to know who my family was, and for me, that necessitates understanding their everyday world. In a way, analyzing the county statistics made me feel like I was walking a little way down that dusty road with the census taker.

Many DGS members are aware of the well-publicized Confederate Research Center at Hillsboro. There is, however, another civil war research collection, not far from Hillsboro in Corsicana at the Navarro College. It is the Charles and Peggy Pearce Civil War Document Collection, and it contains about 700 letters, diaries, and other original documents that cost more than $1 million. (Dallas

A unique family research concept of a Family Genealogy Traveling Library is being pioneered by Dale and Clara Ann (Brees) Phillips. In 1998 they will be taking their traveling Phillips and Brees libraries to several cities in the midwest. For more information about their concept contact Dale F. and Clara Ann Brees Phillips, 1927 S. 7th St., Chicasha, OK 73018, E-mail dfp@ionet.net.

The Austin Genealogical Society's Annual Seminar will be held on 25 Apr 1998 at the Highland Park Baptist Church, 5206 Balcones Drive, Austin, TX, and will feature popular genealogical author of Southwestern Virginia, Mary Kegley. For additional information contact Kelly Barnhill at (512) 478-4268 or barnhill@io.com.

Brøderbund Software Announces Second Annual Genealogy Scholarship Program

Brøderbund Software is offering a number of genealogy scholarships in an effort to build the professional genealogical community. They will be awarding ten $500 scholarships to individuals pursuing the designation of "Certified Genealogist" (administered by the Board of Certification of Genealogist); three to those pursuing the designation of "Accredited Genealogist" (administered by the Family History Department of the LDS Church); and four to individuals who are pursuing formal education at a recognized institution for genealogical instruction. Details of the application process can be found at www.familytreemaker.com, or look for informational sheets at the DGS volunteer desk while the supply lasts. The deadline for submission of applications is 18 May 1998. DGS President, Karen Miller, has contacted Brøderbund to see if the DGS Institute of Genealogical Studies falls under the category of 'recognized institutions of genealogical instruction.' It appears that it may very well be acceptable—if interested, look for details as stated above.

Standards for Sound Genealogical Research

Recommended by the National Genealogical Society

Remembering always that they are engaged in a quest for truth, family history researchers consistently-

- record the source for each item of information they collect.
- test every hypothesis or theory against credible evidence, and reject those that are not supported by the evidence.
- seek original records, or reproduced images of them when there is reasonable assurance they have not been altered, as the basis for their research conclusions.
- use compilations, communications and published works, whether paper or electronic, primarily for their value as guides to locating the original records.
- state something as a fact only when it is supported by convincing evidence, and identify the evidence when communicating the fact to others.
- limit with words like 'probable' or 'possible' any statement that is based on less than convincing evidence, and state the reasons for concluding that it is probable or possible.
- avoid misleading other researchers by either intentionally or carelessly distributing or publishing inaccurate information.
- state carefully and honestly the results of their own research, and acknowledge all use of other researchers' work.
- recognize the collegial nature of genealogical research by making their work available to others through publication, or by placing copies in appropriate libraries or repositories, and by welcoming critical comment.
- consider with open minds new evidence or the comments of others on their work and the conclusions they have reached.

German Genealogical Society of America

Shirley Stertz Hawn

There is a wonderful jewel that you won't find listed in the guide books for California, and I don't think it has made the top ten list of things to do when visiting the city of La Verne. But if you are looking for your German ancestors, you need to know about the German Genealogical Society of America and all of the wonderful help that is available to its members.

First, let me say that it should be listed among the top ten places to visit while in La Verne, California.

Their library is open to the public on Wednesday and Saturday from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. They have over 3,000 books, CD-ROMs, maps, microfiche records, periodicals for many genealogical societies in Germany, and a large selection of European telephone directories.

Now, if you don't think you will be touring that part of the country anytime soon, guess what... they will search their records for you and the nominal fees they charge go directly to the library.

FGS Tapes Available at DGS

Just a reminder—all the tapes from the FGS/DGS Conference are available for rental from the DGS tape library. You may rent any of these tapes for only $1.00. If you would prefer to have your own copy, they may be purchased from Repeat Performance for $7.50 each; you will find their order form reprinted in this issue of the DGS newsletter. If you were unable to attend the conference or would like to hear some of the lectures you missed, check out these tapes at the next meeting.

You can request they search:

- ▶ European church records
- ▶ Selected European City Directories
- ▶ German and US military records
- ▶ Surname Researchers worldwide
- ▶ Selected European telephone books
- ▶ Published families histories
- ▶ Surname search

For a small fee they will send you addresses of genealogists in Germany and form letters that will enable you to write to cousins, archivists, and clergy, German with English translation. They also have French/English form letters.

There is a newsletter published ten times a year with free queries to members, and translation services are available by a native of Germany who is experienced with dialects and script.

There are many, many more good reasons to belong to the German Genealogical Society of America. These are just a few of their services I have used, and if you are looking to discover your German origins, I feel you also will benefit from membership in this Society.

I first joined in 1989 and can tell you one more really good reason to join...everyone I have met or talked to in the GGSA is very friendly and sincerely interested in helping you.

Their address is: Post Office Box 517, La Verne, CA 91750-0517. Phone 909-593-0509.

Internet Site of the Month

By Art Rubeck

The Beginner's Guide to Family History Research is both a book and a site on the Internet. Created by Desmond Walls Allen and Carolyn Earle Billingsley of Arkansas Research, this collection of thirteen informative chapters provides a comprehensive tutorial for beginners as well as a thorough review for those with experience. Everyone will find something in here of benefit, I believe. The material is clearly written, well organized, and very current.

Starting with reasons to explore your family history, the chapters progress in the same steps as your research: home and family, previous research, then into libraries and archives. Methods of organizing your records are included. Topics include census records, courthouse research, military records, and ethnic genealogy. The chapter "A Broad View of the Research Process" should appeal to everyone. Their chapter on correspondence includes e-mail and electronic queries. "Sharing your heritage" is both thought-provoking and thorough, as is the chapter on special interest. It concludes with information on computers for genealogists.

The appended Glossary is useful to all levels of genealogists, as is the list of currently available Resources, which includes the Internet links of many organizations and providers. An extensive Bibliography completes the trio of useful lists.

Whether you read part of it online or decided, as I did, to print the entire publication, you will find something to aid you in your research. The Guide's URL is:

<http://biz.ipa.net/arkresearch/guide.html>

Queries

Queries do not require a Texas connection and are free to members of the Dallas Genealogical Society. Nonmembers should include $3 for each query. DGS reserves the right to abbreviate and condense queries and assumes no responsibility for their accuracy. Send as many queries as you wish, and they will be printed as space permits. Mail to Queries; DGS Newsletter Editor; P. O. Box 12648; Dallas, TX 75225-0648.

BOOK REVIEW

The following article is from GRS Monthly Newsletter and is copyright 1998 by GRS. It is re-published here with permission of the author.

If you are researching any family in Tennessee before 1800, you now have a remarkable resource in the new book "Tennesseans before 1800: Davidson County" compiled by Marjorie Hood Fischer; this follows the format of her earlier useful and similar book on Washington County, Tennessee. Davidson County, Tennessee, became the starting point for many of our ancestors' migrations westward. Working with this comprehensive guide, Fischer helps you locate your family in records otherwise overlooked.

This all-inclusive book of over 100,000 names was carefully transcribed from every record available on microfilm for Davidson County from 1783-1800. Fischer not only includes the name and name of record, but also the book number, page number, and the Tennessee State Library microfilm number. Records indexed include inventories, court minutes, wills, and deeds.

With this resource in hand, you may now avoid hours of tedious research and simply look up the page number to quickly find any mention of your family. Fischer's book is available from Frontier Press, P.O. Box 3715, Suite 7, Galveston, Texas 77552 for $49.50 plus $4.00 shipping and handling. Texas residents add $4.41 for state sales tax.
