Tracking Your Ancestors In The New Millennium

With the new millennium just around the corner what would be better than to learn how to prepare and produce a "Quality Family History?" Patricia Law Hatcher will speak on Saturday, 20 November on preparing that family book you have always said you would do. On 12 February Lloyd Bockstruck will tell us about settlers and migrations in the Midwest areas of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. And 8 April brings us James Slade who will teach us all about using Technology to enhance our research.

Saturday, 12 November
Patricia Law Hatcher, C. G.

WHAT IS A QUALITY FAMILY HISTORY?—TODAY'S STANDARDS

Today's technology makes it relatively easy to produce a family history that is pretty to look at. But, as the saying goes, "Pretty is as pretty does." What does it take to make that pretty family history do something—contribute something worthwhile to genealogy? A few key items determine if a book is well-received by your family and by other researchers.

ORGANIZING FAMILY INFORMATION—NUMBERING SYSTEMS AND PRESENTATION

Genealogical numbering systems are much more than numbers. They are ways of presenting multigenerational information. But the numbering system is just the tip of the iceberg when presenting family information. The way you format and structure the text can make a significant difference in how readable, understandable, and interesting your family history is.

HOW DO YOU KNOW?—DOCUMENTATION & EVIDENCE

Source, citation, documentation, evidence, analysis, proof . . . What do these terms mean—and how do we record them to share with others? How much do we need to include in our family history—and where and how do we include it?

MORE THAN DATES—TURNING PAPER INTO PEOPLE AND WRITING THE NARRATIVE

Help your readers understand that these aren't names on paper—they are your family, they are real people. By learning about the context of our ancestors' lives, we can perform magic. We can turn those scraps of paper, those pieces of data, into people—and share that magic with others.

1999-2000 LECTURE SERIES

Tracking Your Ancestors in the New Millennium

Saturday, 12 February

“Finding Them in the Midwest; Illinois, Indiana & Ohio”

Lloyd DeWitt Bockstruck, F.N.G.S.

From Whence They Came; Migration Patterns to the Midwest explains origins of the first settlers who came to the Midwest. Settlers came from places such as the Carolinas, Tennessee, Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New England. Researchers must know migration routes and the history of an area to begin their search.

Records & How to Access them Throughout the Midwest explains and describes the records that resulted from the settlements from their beginnings through the 1920's. Addresses the records created by individuals, and guides the researcher to records in courts both at the state and county level, archives, and other public locations. Other pertinent research tools are covered.

Research in Midwest Records discusses how we can prepare for researching records in person, through correspondence and using microfilm. How to conduct the search of records using repositories of the Midwest, published indexes, maps, and other research tools.

The Ancestor's Final Destinations examines the original records and published materials available to discover the particular facts of your own ancestor's story, and shows how to assemble those facts into a story that conveys both the drama and individuality of the migration experience.

Saturday, 8 April

“Technology, Software & Mapping Tools”

James Slade

Tracking Ancestors Using Technology explains ways to track our ancestors using computer technology methods. Case studies will be used to demonstrate how a family can be tracked using deeds, wills, marriage records acquired via internet, email and various other software programs.

Mapping Ancestors: Using Technology and Software to Locate Where They Lived discusses mapping software programs and demonstrations on how to use these programs to locate your ancestor's land.

Getting the Most from the IGI discusses using the IGI, what to look for in the collection, and what will help with locating vital information on your ancestors. Techniques are given to best utilize the International Genealogical Indexes.

Technology Visits the Courthouse, Library, and Archives Explains how using technology at these locations will assist you. Examples are shown to illustrate how to use technology at repositories and how to make the best use with records to be found at there. Mr. Slade uses computer technology and software programs with records, and will help us to understand and use this technology at repositories.

DGS Service Awards

It will soon be time to honor DGS members and others for their service to DGS and the field of genealogy. The Awards Committee consists of Susan Powdrill, chair, and Judy Johns from the board, and Barbara Baylis and Alan Miller from the membership. This committee needs your nominees for the following awards:

- DGS Volunteer of the Year for outstanding service during the past year.
- DGS Award of Merit for outstanding service over a period of years.
- Lloyd DeWitt Bockstruck Distinguished Service Award for outstanding contributions to the field of genealogy and recognition for entire body of work that benefits the genealogical community.
- Heritage Preservation Award for outstanding contributions by individual or groups for preserving our historical heritage.

Please help this committee choose worthy candidates for these awards by submitting in writing the name and a brief summary of accomplishments. You can also call Susan at 972-458-8580; fax 972-458-7164; or email powdrill@flash.net with your suggestions. These awards are very meaningful to DGS and we want to recognize dedication, but we do not always know who has been doing behind-the-scenes work that goes unrecognized. Anyone may submit any name including his own; however, the committee will need a list of accomplishments in order to make the best choices.

Thank you for your help in this matter. Awards will be given at the December Awards Ceremony on 13 December in the O'Hara Exhibit Hall on the 7th floor. Mark your calendars for this important occasion.

President's Message

Carole Chew Ruska

Since this is the month for giving thanks, I would like to list some of the things that Dallas genealogists should be thankful for:

- Active and progressive genealogy society
- Hard-working board and committee members who make things happen
- Successful events that raise money for the Society and its beneficiaries
- Excellent genealogy material and staff at the Dallas Public Library

I, as president, am thankful for:

- Those hard-working board and committee members
- Members and others that support our fund raising events
- The opportunity to lead this Society into the new millennium (if you believe that it is this coming January)

What I hope to be thankful for in the near future:

- Hard-working DGS members who will fill our shoes in the coming years
- Continued success and growth for the Society
- Members sharing their genealogical finds and experiences in the DGS Newsletter (this can begin right now!)

I mean what I say about the sharing of material and experiences in the Newsletter. We are begging for articles because this is what makes the Society alive for its members. We publish Dallas records in the Journal; we microfilm/fiche other Dallas records to sell; we will sponsor Writing Awards of family histories and other genealogical writing. What we need now are the real-life experiences of everyday genealogists—how you solved a problem, what you learned from an experience, how you used a research facility or material. Put that in writing and send it to dgsnews99@aol.com to our Newsletter editor or mail it to DGS Newsletter, P. O. Box 12446, Dallas, TX 75225-0446. This is not a contest, and you will not be graded. You will be sharing your experiences with others who will benefit from them and enjoy them at the same time. DO IT NOW!

Give thanks for those elusive ancestors who keep us going in this field and keep our brains active and ever-searching.

Program – 22 November Writing and Remembering: Creating Your Own Personal Timeline Margret Pearce

How many times have you recalled a wonderful moment or event in your life or your ancestors' lives only to immediately lose it? Too many I'm sure. On 22 November, Margret Pearce will give us insights into how to capture these fleeting glimpses and make them part of your family history.

According to Margret, memories and thoughts do not happen in a straight line nor in chronological order, so it's important to train ourselves to write down everything we remember and everything we were told, no matter how insignificant it may seem, even if someone else tells us we're wrong. She will also show us some tricks for taking all these bits and pieces and putting them into a timeline to help create your story, with and without the help of a computer.

Margret Peace is a 20-year member of DGS, a past DGS president, and an active participant in many other DGS activities. She is a native Texan and Dallasite.

Please bring your family, friends and your memories and join us on 22 November, in the DPL auditorium. Social time is 6:30-7:00 P.M. The business meeting starts at 7:00 P.M. followed by the program.

ADOPT A STATE

A Fundraising Project of the DGS Grants and Gifts Committee

OHIO

The DGS Board has designated that these three states, INDIANA, ILLINOIS, OHIO, the subjects of Lloyd Bockstruck's upcoming seminar in February, shall be adopted in order to add new books, microforms, and materials about these states in the genealogy section of the J. Erik Jonsson Central Library. These members have volunteered to be a Foster Parent for each of these states:

Illinois - Karen Miller

Indiana - Beverly Holmes

Ohio - Sammie Lee

The Foster Parent for each state will be promoting contributions for the selected state at each special event, such as fall conference, seminars, and meetings. They will also write an article about the state and the need for materials in the library from that state. Money donated to each state will be kept separately and donated at the end of the board year (May) to the library. The goal will be to see which state and its supporters can raise the most money for new materials.

Perks of Adopter (one who contributes $30 or more, by check please, or who contributes a book, film, or set of fiche.)

A special bookplate in a book
Mention in newsletter
Certificate as "adopting parent"
Other ideas from Foster Parent

NOTICE !!!

The membership directory did not get proofed and printed in time to distribute at the October meeting or mailed to those who ordered. Therefore, we will still accept orders until 13 November. It will then be distributed at the 22 November meeting and mailed as soon as it is printed. Barbara Dossett is sure that many e-mails have changed since your membership registration, such as those on chrysalis. Please update your email on our database by notifying Barbara Dossett ASAP at bdoss75995@aol.com. Sorry we could not get it ready by October meeting.

BEING CREATIVE WITH TROUBLESOME KIN

You are working on your family genealogy and for sake of example, let's say that your great-great uncle, Remus Starr, a fellow lacking in character, was hanged for horse stealing and train robbery in Montana in 1889. A cousin has supplied you with the only known photograph of Remus, showing him standing on the gallows. On the back of the picture are the words: "Remus Starr: Horse thief, sent to Montana Territorial Prison, 1885. Escaped 1887, robbed the Montana Flyer six times. Caught by Pinkerton detectives, convicted and hanged, 1889."

Pretty grim situation, right? But let's revise things a bit. We simply crop the picture, scan in an enlarged image and edit it with image processing software so that all that is seen is a head shot. Next, we rewrite the text: "Remus Starr was a famous cowboy in the Montana Territory. His business empire grew to include acquisition of valuable equestrian assets and intimate dealings with the Montana railroad. Beginning in 1885, he devoted several years of his life to service at a government facility, finally taking leave to resume his dealings with the railroad. In 1887, he was a key player in a vital investigation run by the renowned Pinkerton Detective Agency. In 1889, Remus passed away during an important civic function held in his honor when the platform upon which he was standing collapsed."

Treasures Hiding in Supplemental Censuses

Barbara Dossett

There are many records available to researchers today in the family hunting game. Many people have learned to locate city directories, state censuses, tax lists, territorial censuses, as well as courthouse records. However, many people don't realize that along with the Federal Census taken every ten years there were other supplemental schedules created at the same time. Further, many of those particular records are readily available. I hope to show that with an understanding of these schedules and charts to show you where they are located and that you will add them to your research sources.

The first step in Federal Censuses that the researcher will do is locate an index to the population schedule and then the schedule itself. The information is then extrapolated into the family information and then the search continues to the next population schedule. However, the government began taking extra information with the 1850 Census count and created those supplemental schedules. The Federal government created Agricultural, Mortality, Industry/Manufacture, Defective, Delinquent, Dependent, Slave, and Social Statistics Schedules. There are some early Manufacturing schedules in 1820 and 1832. Some of these schedules continue even to today. Now that is a mouth full of schedules. They can be overwhelming. But good research means that you should collect all available records.

A simple method of collection that I have developed to gather my records is AIMS, DDD, and SS. By following this pattern with each and every ancestor you will create a fuller picture of the family and the community he lives in.

AIMS is the Agriculture, Industry/Manufacture, Mortality, and Slave Schedules. In the following pages I have created charts for each of these schedules and their locations.

The Agriculture schedule includes questions about the farmer, his lands, his crops, produce, his animals, and those things that the family manufactured on the farm such as eggs, butter, and homemade goods. This gives a good picture of the family at work and being self-sufficient.

For those individuals who don't have farms, the Industry/Manufacture schedules come into play. You could find your blacksmith, tailor, or some other business. Again you can see how your family fits into what the neighborhood is doing.

The Federal Government also asked about the deceased for four of the Censuses—1850-1880. It wanted to know who died the year prior to the census. This makes for a wonderful death certificate substitute. The questions included the name, age, sex, color, the cause of death, occupation and month of death. It makes you wish everyone were on the Mortality Schedule.

For the 1850 and 1860 the Federal Government asked questions about slaves. They wanted to know about the number of slaves, their ages, sex, and color. Most schedules do not reflect the names of the slaves, but be sure to check because some schedules have the slave names. Again this is part of your ancestor's life.

If you are having some trouble locating all these schedules be sure to pull the tax roll for the year in question. You want to be sure that you match as much as possible the information from all the sets of records available.

In 1880 there was a new schedule called the Defective, Delinquent, and Dependent schedule. Again the government wanted more information about certain situations. It wanted to know about those people who were in poor houses or prisons. The government wanted to know if there was certain afflictions such as deaf-mute, blind or homeless children, insane or indigent persons that made them dependent on others. Again this is another snap-shot of your ancestor's community.

Finally one further schedule made which doesn't show individuals but rather the community is the Social Statistics Schedule. This report shows the breakdown of the county by number of schools, churches, libraries, newspapers, paupers, and wages earned in the county. This could help you determine what existed in the community and should send you searching for those records.

The following charts help you locate where those supplemental schedules are hiding. I have shown where they might be hiding. As you can see, the Dallas Public Library and NARA contain many of them. The difficulty is how to gather them. Contact the librarian for the special collection at the institution or repository where the records reside. Ask if they have been microfilmed. If they have, ask for their number and order them through interlibrary loan. For example: the Texas Agriculture Schedules have been microfilmed and are available from the Texas State Archives and can be ordered from your library and usually for free.

I hope that these charts (see following pages) will help you overcome some of those brick walls in your research. This group of records should be part of your search when you do the population schedules. The Federal Census is not complete unless you have all the parts.
