REGISTER OF CONFEDERATE DEAD - Rock Island, Illinois
Confederate Cemetery

Originally containing the bodies of 1,961 prisoners who died while confined here during the Civil War, 11 bodies have since been removed to their home state, one as recently as 1955. Each Memorial Day, Confederate flags are placed before every headstone, a firing detail fires three volleys, and a bugler sounds taps.

Confederate Prison site - This is the site of the Confederate prison established in 1863. First prisoners were southern troops captured in the Battle of Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge by General Grant's Army, November 26-27. Five thousand five hundred and ninety-two prisoners were received on December 3, 1863. The prison doctors found 94 cases of smallpox in its most virulent form. Active as a prison for 20 months, there were 12,215 prisoners confined during this period; the most confined at any one period was a little over 8,000. There were 41 successful escapes. Some died while confined, principally from small pox. The last prisoner was discharged from the prison hospital in July 1865.

THUMBNAIL SKETCHES
A PANORAMA OF DALLAS SOCIAL LIFE III.
by
MARGARET ANN SCRUGGS (MRS. CARRUTH)

Not long after the War between the States, people poured into Dallas. Many of these were from the South, but Swiss, German, and French colonists also came. These last groups contributed much to the various crafts, and those working in leather made Dallas a famous distributing center of saddles and other equine accoutrements, as well as for plain and fancy boots, and other cowboy regalia.

At about this time railroads were extended east and west, as well as northward from the Gulf of Mexico. Land was donated to the railroads for use as a station or warehouse, with the provision that if the land was not so used it would revert to the heirs of the donor. This station, popularly known as "The Depot," was the place where train devotees (mostly old men and teen-agers) met the daily schedule religiously.

Not far from Ervay on Elm Street was Meyer's Tavern, the place for the up-town rendezvous for later in the afternoon. Here one might choose a beer and pretzels or "shot orders." Down-town was the very popular Bleu Front, which is called Blue Front, today. For social affairs at a slightly later date, there was the Meisterhan's Tavern on Bryan Street, almost opposite old St. Paul's Hospital. Both Meisterhan's and Meyer's had colorful gay "Japanese" lanterns strung here and there, especially in the summertime. Stringed instruments played accompaniments for the "Reveler's Songs" etc., sung by the customers. In season, water-melons were iced in large tubs "out back," and were served by the slice at the wooden tables. Families would take a buggy-ride in the cool of the evening, and would stop by the taverns for refreshments. The taverns had competitors in the "Ice Cream Parlors" which often had canned music as an adjunct. One noted candy kitchen was at the northwest corner of Ervay and Elm Streets. A fascinating glimpse of taffy pulling over huge hooks on the wall could be had through the open door and windows, if the weather were warm.

Another popular place of amusement was Turner's Hall, greatly enlarged from the original more or less tavern-like rendezvous known as "Turnverin." This hall was one of the few places having a large enough dance floor for the needs of a growing community. The square dances and the balls, which were the delight of the young bachelors and their dates, were held there. Printed programs with their tiny attached pencils were furnished for these affairs. The dances were designated on the program with blank spaces for the partner's name to be written. The first and last dance of the evening, and the supper dance belonged to the escort. Many times the dances in between were filled well in advance of the evening, some-times partners being traded or "swapped." This practice avoided possible wall flowers and the possibility of either partner feeling "stuck."

The rather general term "square dance" was much more elastic in regard to the character of figures danced than has generally survived. Many of these figures were long, very intricate, detailed and elaborate, graceful, lovely, and colorfully costumed. At the conclusion of each figure a unique favor was presented to each lady participating. These figures required practice, of course, and when there was to be judging, excitement ran quite high for some time before the presentation night. The judging was not only concerned with the performance of one figure over that of another, but many times the performance of individual pairs within a set, that is, pairs competing with the others in their figure. The type, theme, or the country portrayed (i.e. Chinese) made selection of partners most important, for some were naturally adept at one and not so good at others.

Getting to the dances early presented a problem, particularly when it was a costume affair. There were few cabs, called "hacks," and at one time a certain very popular driver was engaged by the escort a long time in advance. Who knows how many different escorts proudly announced to their date, "You will be royally taken care of tonight. You know Jerry always drives me!"

These days were the height of the horse and buggy days. The style of conveyance was not confined to carriages, victorias, landaus, broughams, gigs, and buggy types mentioned in other articles of this series. There was the two-seater, the Guernsey or the Hanson cab in which the driver rode up high and back of his fares. These were used to take a young lady for an afternoon drive, and in their declining days were for hire on Fifth Avenue, New York. Also, there was the phaeton, a light sport model, so to speak. Of course there were others.

For the convenience of those who did not own the proper kind of vehicle required for specific occasions, there were stables to meet the need. It took careful management to stagger the "calls" and deliver the customers, and keep everyone happy despite the shortage of equipment. This was particularly true in inclement weather, or where distance was to be taken into consideration. The time required from the stable to the girl's home, then to the dance hall had to be plotted exactly in order to reach the next appointment. There was never a dull moment on those nights when a large dance was scheduled.

Entertainment in those early days had another facet, namely the October two-weeks of the State Fair. There was the fascinating two-storied Exhibition Hall in which the encircling upper gallery running around the four sides, left the center open to the roof beams. "Women's work" consisting of needlework of all sorts, jellies, baked goods, in fact all kinds and types of women's handicrafts, were exhibited on this gallery in hopeful competition.

Out on the ground there were stands or booths operated by volunteer workers from the various churches. These Ladies Aid Societies served home cooked viands, and some achieved such fame for their deliciousness that demands were far in excess of their capacity to deliver. They served luncheon, and sometimes dinner, (rather supper) but this was not the usual custom. Of course, the net funds were for church expenses, charities, etc. It was brave, unbelievably hard work, with proportionally extremely meagre results.

In addition to the shows on "Side Show Row" there were the same games of skill attendant on all fairs. The pink lemonade, the fabulous pink cotton candy of spun sugar, the hot dogs and the corn dogs, ice cream cones, all day suckers (on sticks) brilliantly colored and variously flavored, Hughes Brothers' Sarsaparilla and famous Iron Brew (the best sodapop ever invented) all were for sale.

In those days the State Fair was truly representative of Texas' products, with particular emphasis being placed on the farmer's skill in raising livestock, poultry, etc. Each county arranged its own crop exhibit in an amazing and effective display. These exhibits, being carefully arranged on graded display steps, often extended to the ceiling of the tall halls. This, indeed, was stunning, educational, never-to-be-forgotten material for bragging.

Prior to World War I the Fourth of July fireworks displays were events of magnificence engendering awe, together with greatest delight. Sky rockets, Roman candles, giant 'crackers, etc. were fired preceding a grand finale beginning with gorgeously colored scenes or portraits of famous persons and ending with the United States Flag. This huge flag in full color and accompanied by appropriate music, was a spectacle of great emotional appeal. They stirred one's patriotism immeasurably, and were well worth the funds expended upon them. They were beautiful and showed the skill evidenced by those who designed and operated them.

Ice cream at the Fair was not as important an item as were other things that were unusual elsewhere. The summer afternoons brought the "Hokey-pokey" man with bells on his cart announcing his wares. This form of ice cream was eagerly looked for by the youngsters. He came as regularly as the wild birds flew in for bits of bread, chicken feed, or any other food regularly thrown out to them. What a commotion they made if there was a delay! Vociferous protests were made when they did not get what they were accustomed to getting at the accustomed time.

Children had another regular source of excited delight when the ice man made his delivery. This was long before the day when the gas or electric refrigerator deposed the block ice box, or the automobile replaced the horse or mule. Nothing was any better to a child than a chip of ice off the floor of the wagon to suck. Certainly no thrill was greater than permission to step on the lowest step at the rear, or, - joy of joys! be allowed to hold the reins, thinking they'd be guiding the horse. The horse knew his route thoroughly and was usually unruffled by strange hands on the reins.

When jelly making, watermelon or other pickling days arrived there was sure to be a picnic lunch out under the trees. Canning was seldom done except in glass until the stress of World War I, then many were taught to do so who had never done it before. Many put in vegetable gardens who knew little of the art of growing things. This was when the old fashioned ways of grandmothers came into their own, when they received due appreciation. It pointed the way for the establishment of garden clubs in the 1920's.

Until the turn of the century there were very few paved streets in Dallas, practically none in the outlying districts of East Dallas, West Dallas, Oak Lawn, and Oak Cliff, which were for some time entirely separate units. Down town major arteries, Main, Elm, and Commerce, were paved with bois d'arc blocks, the last being removed about the time the Adolphus Hotel was built. Gravel and macadam were the usual materials for street paving for many years. The macadam was a tar based material boys relished chewing with bits of ice to suck.

It has been said that the first home of the telephone company was on the corner of Elm and Stone Streets in the 1880's or thereabouts. It boasted a rather primitive PBX type board, the length of a center table. Here two operators, and later three, made connections on each side when a customer rang and asked, "Central, please connect me with ___." What a far cry from automatic dialing today! Needless to say, there were not a great many telephones. These curious looking box-like instruments with a bell and a crank to ring central, hung on the wall generally not unlike those in booths today.

Another more or less standard equipment in down town stores was the system of cash or credit "O.K.'s." This was done via a metal basket on wires, the earliest propelled by releasing a spring, later by electricity. The merchandise purchased was placed in the basket at the counter where the purchase was made. The sales record slip was placed in a leather and metal cylinder and put in the basket with the merchandise. The basket was then sent to the bookkeeping department, the purchase was entered on the books, the merchandise was wrapped, replaced in the basket and returned to the clerk for the purchaser.

Drugstores, too, were different from those of today. In the windows were tall covered vase-like bottles filled with colored water in blue, green, etc. This was very decorative, and a trade mark of the place where prescriptions were filled and various medicines and herbs could be bought. Practically nothing other than things pertaining to illnesses and their cures was available in a drug store. Inside the store there was a pleasant aromatic odor, as distinctive as in the cigar store, where tobacco exclusively was for sale. The trade mark of the cigar store was the gaily painted, full length wooden Indian Chieftain, with feathered headdress, tomahawk, leather and beaded clothes. He was most impressive, in fact so realistic that children became frightened at the sight of him standing there as life-like as a real tall man.

Ladies often had their clothes designed and hand made in the days before the "garment makers." For many years what Worth created gowns meant in New York City, the Mme. Snow gowns meant in Dallas. Later the Mme. Bartelle and the Mrs. C. T. Hansen creations were equally popular. There were others, but the artistry and skill of these were acclaimed and acknowledged by all.

A young lady going to a ball carried her dancing slippers in a bag, used exclusively for this purpose. She protected herself from the cold in the drafty carriage or hack by wearing rather tall velvet boots (usually fur lined) over her regular foot gear, a fur or lined cape or cloak, and a lace scarf on her head. Her knees were covered by an impressive lap robe. The men wore spats to protect their ankles from the cold and neck scarfs decorated with embroidered initials.

At least two buildings were called "Opera House." The earlier one was located on Commerce Street near Lamar Street, the other on Elm between Saint Paul and Harwood Streets. High School graduations as well as theatrical performances were held in the latter. Nearby and across Elm Street was the Majestic Theatre where the Monday evening vaudeville performances were attended by holders of reserved seat season tickets. One would not miss "seeing and being seen" on that night! Despite vehement protests to the contrary, neither the Majestic Theatre nor the newer Opera House had the glamour of the Old Opera House where such great personages as Joseph Jefferson, Sr. and Jr., Sarah Bernhart and others of their caliber, held audiences spellbound.

At one period performances which would command extra large audiences were held at the Fair grounds in an exhibition building. Local color was supplied by the exhibits of wheat sheaves and cotton plants around the walls and to the ceiling. The possibility of a fire hazard was blissfully ignored until the famous "total loss" Cotton Palace fire in Waco in the 1880's.

That fire was a gorgeous sight, once it was ascertained all of ones party of friends and relatives were safely out of range of the flames. Girls in evening dresses, some with long trains and mantillas, were so emotional they swooned (not faked). At least one who swooned, being solicitously attended by her future husband's bachelor brother, had her closely guarded un-announced engagement guessec when the brother vehemently denied his interest in her, saying he was merely taking care of his brother's "intended." The secret was out.

Afternoon receptions were supplied with music from stringed instruments to provide most effective background. The musicians were usually screened by palms or ferns or were on a balcony. Dallas did not lack musical talent, either vocal, instrumental, chorus, or soloist, and later orchestras and symphonies. To outline a brief summary of the sort of development natural to a growing community entails apparent disregard of overlapping.

PREECE FAMILY HISTORY

Preece Family History Required Patient Work

by

Henry P. Scalf

(Floyd County Times, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, Feb., 1966)

William Martin Preece, young Pike County Kentuckian, and his wife, Elizabeth Gideon, left their native land in 1838 and moved westward with the tide of empire and settled in Texas. For a century and a quarter their ties with their land of origin were broken. The Texas Preeces were busy fighting Comanches and their Confederate neighbors, for they were loyal to the Union when it was fashionable and safer to hurrah for Jeff Davis. One of them became a famous Texas Ranger.

The Preeces created estates in Texas, educated themselves and their posterity. One of them, of today, Harold Preece, became a famous writer; THE DALTON GANG, the incredible story of four notorious outlaws, became a best-seller and Texans forgot the historic Yankee sentiments of his people and took him to their hearts.

The tangled skein of the Preece or Priest family history began to intertwine with regional and state history back in 1775 when William Priest headed a group of eight or ten men to build a fort in Powell's Valley in Southwest Virginia. There, ensconced in Priest's Fort and bulwarked by occupants of nearby Martin, and Mump's Forts, they fought the Indians for a year but were forced to leave. In a few months they returned and stayed through the Revolution and the trying post-war troubles. Migrating over the Cumberlands, they settled in southern Floyd county, on John's Creek, and in the present Martin County. It was from a section of Martin county, then Pike, that William Martin Priest left for Texas.

William Priest, father of William Martin, after his Indian fighting days were over, moved out of the fort and became a prominent Russell county (Virginia) settler. Having need to preserve family and legal papers, he began to store them in an old trunk. There were land patents, one of them signed in 1783 by a governor of Virginia. There were copies of deeds and family letters, and when he died in 1803 a member of the family put a copy of his will in it. Soon, a son migrated over the Cumberlands and took with him the old trunk. It fell into the hands of Polly Preece, who married the Floyd county pioneer, Tandy Stratton in 1811. Tandy died in 1828 and the trunk, each generation storing valuable papers in it, went to Tandy's son, John Jackson Stratton. He died at the turn of the century and the old trunk, gathering papers through the years, finally reached the home of a Stratton descendant in southern Floyd county. He died and his widow decided in the early 1930's to clean it out. She took the old papers out into the back yard, built a fire under them. Her step-son, returning from work, attempted to put out the fire but succeeded in retrieving only a few scorched documents. Most of the family's history for 150 years had perished.

Meanwhile, down in Texas, the Preeces retained little more than a tradition of their Kentucky mountain origin. Harold Preece, the writer, did make an abortive attempt to learn of his people here and, having been given the name of Emmons Preece, late Martin county court clerk, exchanged a few letters with him. Emmons Preece died soon afterward and the writer, failing to find another correspondent, dropped the matter. Between the Texas Preeces and their relatives in Kentucky a genealogical void prevailed, deepened by a century and a quarter and two thousand miles.

One day last summer the writer of this article spent a lazy, sunny day on the lawn reading Harold Preece's THE DALTON GANG. It is one of the greatest of true

Westerns and the impact of the story survived. A few weeks later, while glancing over a newstand in Prestonsburg, REAL WEST magazine stood out in blue, red and gold. Featured was an article, "My Grandfather, Dick Preece," by the author of the Dalton story. I bought the magazine, took it home, settled in a chair to read. Paging idly through the magazine, I came to the Preece story and after one brief glance at the picture of Dick Preece at the beginning of the story, almost stood upright in surprise.

The old gentleman, whose picture was taken when his Comanche fighting days and lawman career were ended, wore white mustache, burnside and whiskers. I remembered a Dick Preece, Betsy Layne, miner, back in the 1930's, who wore such a hirsute adornment. The two men were as much alike as if they had been identical twins. That night I wrote Harold Preece a letter in care of his New York publisher. Back came a reply. Yes, he said, Dick Preece was an Eastern Kentuckian, close relative of the Preeces in this area. Dick Preece, Harold wrote, was born in Kentucky, and had gone to Texas at the age of six with his father. Beyond that the author knew very little. He requested I write his sister, Louise Preece, in Dallas. The family was very much interested in their history and would like to reconstruct it.

Louise Preece is a tireless worker, combining imagination with intelligence, both necessary for success in research. Forest Preece, of Inez, Martin County, joined and the three of us organized an intense effort to reconstruct Preece history. Scores of letters were written, many important libraries were combed, church records were viewed, interviews with oldsters were held.

Slowly the Preece history took form, Harold Preece had already done research on his grandfather before he wrote the REAL WEST story. Louise Preece put together the story of William Martin Preece and Elizabeth Gideon Preece, but was unable to find the parents of either. Were they Kentuckians, Virginians or North Carolinians? The job devolved upon me to find at least the father of William, the Texas immigrant.

I thumbed through countless books, manuscripts and old court records. Scores of letters brought little or no information. Finally, I had a bit of luck when in looking through Robert M. Addington's HISTORY OF SCOTT COUNTY, VIRGINIA, I found a three page quotation from a manuscript written by Capt. John Redd, Powell's Valley, Virginia pioneer Captain Redd had noted that William Preece had founded a fort in the valley in 1773. Could this be the father of William Martin Preece, who had gone to Texas? His life span would be about right for him to be his father. How to prove it seemed hopeless, for the Russell county, Virginia, records had been partially destroyed in the Civil War. For weeks there was stalemate. Forest Preece continued his interviews and search of church records. Louise Preece continued her search in Texas and marshalled many of her friends to assist her in Kansas, Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina.

Stalemate on the problem remained until one day while pouring over a history of the Stratton family I had written a bell rang. In consulting some old records in the archives of a Stratton descendant at Stanville, he had particularly wanted me to see the records he had rescued from the fire when his stepmother burned the papers in the old Preece trunk. Little interested in the Priest or Preece families the spelling is a matter of preference in different locales. I made a few hasty excerpts from an old will copy, deeds and land patents. I filed them away and forgot about them.

Forgot about them until I began to thumb through the Stratton family history when the association of Strattons and Preeces caused me to remember. I went to my files, took out the brief excerpts. One of the papers Stratton had rescued was a copy of the will of William Priest, the original lost in the Civil War, made in 1803 in Russell county, Virginia. In it the old pioneer and Indian fighter had named Richard Preece, his son as executor. Other heirs were named and their portions of the estate defined by the testator. The long hunt was ended. William Priest, of Powell's Valley, was the father of William Martin Preece, Texas immigrant.

Perhaps no other genealogical and historical problem ever had so many little events to bear so fruitfully on its successful solving. There had been the reading of THE DALTON GANG and a sudden interest in the writings of Harold Preece. There was the magazine story in REAL WEST that had prompted communication with the famous writer. There was old Dick Preece, the white haired miner at Betsy Layne who resembled his Texas cousin, Dick Preece, Comanche Indian and outlaw foe. There was the rescue of the family papers by a Preece descendant, one of them a copy of his ancestor's will, the original of which was lost in the holocaust of war. Finally, there had been a sudden remembrance of the old will by association of the families of Stratton and Preece while glancing through a Stratton family manuscript.

These little events or incidents had been pivotal in reconstructing a family history.

Since the appearance of this article in The Floyd County Times, further research in Thwaite's Dunmore's War shows that not only William Priest, but Samuel and David Priest, were on the Muster Roll of Capt. Daniel Smith's Company, Fort Elk Garden, in August, 1774. William Priest was one of the scouts of the Upper Clinch Valley during the summer and fall of 1774, and was also stationed at the Maiden Spring and Crab Orchard Forts. Samuel and David Priest "found bread." This discovery documents Preece family tradition that they came with a kinsman, Daniel Boone, but that Boone left them to construct a fort while he went on and founded Boonesborough. With the Priests in the Powell Valley were men whose name correspond with allied family sur names: Andrew Hatfield, Christy Martin, Phillip Martin, William, John, and Hugh Moor, Sam and John Savage, Samuel Vance, Arthur Blackburn, Dangerfield and John Harmon, and most of all the names of Shannons.

These Shannon names are especially significant because of their inter-marriage with the Strattons and Preeces (or Priests) and because all three groups came from Amherst County, Virginia into Kentucky and Tennessee. The Powell Valley muster roll of Capt. Daniel Smith also included the names of Samuel, Thomas and John Shannon. It was Samuel who drove in cattle to feed the hungry men of Fort Blackmore, although he pled for more protection, and it was undoubtedly about Samuel when Maj. Arthur Campbell wrote to Col. William Preston under date of October 16, 1774, Royal Oaks, "I am obliged to continue Shannon out here sometimes as he is a forward careful hand, and I am of late much put to it to get provisions carried out to Blackmore."

Interesting biographical data is given on the Shannons by Henry Scalf, who is a descendant of Solomon Stratton. This Stratton was with the Illinois Expedition with Gen. George Rogers Clark. (Later on a younger brother, William Clark, was to have with him a Pvt. George Shannon on the famed Lewis and Clark Expedition). Mr. Scalf, well known writer on Kentucky history, and publisher of a genealogical magazine, THE EAST KENTUCKIAN (on the Dallas Public Library shelves) states that the Shannons of this area came from Balcony Falls, Amherst County, Virginia, in 1796. This line was descended from the marriage of William Laine, a Revolutionary soldier, to Nancy Shannon in Amherst County. James Shannon Layne founded the family in Lawrence County and the surrounding area of Kentucky. He further cites from an old manuscript, of which the author is unknown, that the Bible records of James Shannon Layne showed that William Layne Shannon of Tazewell County, Virginia, was born October 13, 1772, and that apparently a Methodist minister by the name of Billy Shannon from Tazewell County was of this same family of Laynes. Billy Shannon died at the home of his son, Thomas. (Amherst County marriage records reveal that in 1780 marriage occurred between a Thomas Laine, Jr., and Mary Stratton, who was the daughter of Henry Stratton. - L.P.) The manuscript further showed that William Shannon had a brother by the name of Layne Shannon. This brother died in Wyoming County, West Virginia.

"These Shannons," Mr. Scaif related, "had intermarried with the Strattons in Amherst, and they continued to intermarry after they came to Kentucky. There are plenty of Strattons here today with 'Shannon' as a middle name. They have been important people in the development of the region....I think William Laine's (Layne) father was also a William Laine."

This Shannon line, with branches in Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri was perpetuated in Texas when William Martin Preece (Priest) and Elizabeth Gideon (Giddens) Preece came to Red River County, Texas after leaving Pike County, Kentucky in 1838. They had a land grant in Hopkins County, but moved on through Lamar and Hopkins Counties, and then into Travis County about 1845. Theirs was a sad mission in the latter county. They wanted to search for the grave of their son, Reuben R., who went with the Red River Volunteers from Clarksville (The Northern Standard, June 3, 1846) "to help fight Santa Anna." When the Preeces reached Travis County they settled in the hills near Austin. Like their ancestry, they did not want civilization to encroach too much on them. Today the site of their last homestead includes part of Hickmantown (named from Hickman kin) in the Highland Lakes area. (As a little girl I could climb one of the chinaberry trees in my grandmother's yard and see the capitol dome-L.P.) The Preeces left behind in the Red River area other kin, including another Tandy Stratton, grandson of the Tandy who married Mary Preece, and Elizabeth Gideon Preece's brother, Absolem, who secured a land grant in 1832. There was also Reuben Gideon (only the name was later known as Giddens), of Floyd County, Kentucky, who came in 1839. A Methodist Episcopal minister, he performed the marriage ceremony of William Martin Preece and his daughter, Elizabeth in Pike County, Kentucky, in 1825. His wife is believed to have been Nancy Stratton, since marriage records of Wilkes County, North Carolina for 1797, a trail of migration for these related individuals, show such a marriage, and a Reuben Gideon is shown on the 1810 and 1820 Census records along with Strattons, etc.

In time to be listed on the 1860 Census of Travis County, Texas, came Elizabeth Watkins Shannon, also of Stratton descent, who was born in Washington County, Arkansas. Lately widowed, her husband, David Wilburn Shannon, had died in Neosho, Newton County, Missouri, where he had taken his family. He is shown on the 1850 Census of Newton County, Missouri to have been born in Tennessee, where Elizabeth Gideon is also said to have been born. The Shannons' children were born in Arkansas and Missouri and then again in Arkansas as they returned there. The 1830 Census of Washington County, Arkansas lists the names of Granville, Hugh, and Joseph Shannon. The Watkins' came from Wales into Kentucky, and thence into Arkansas. Elizabeth Shannon is buried in the hill section near Austin, in the Preece cemetery while William and Elizabeth Preece are buried in Post Oak Bend Cemetery "up the river."

The Shannons first settled at Gilleland's Creek, once a fort. Then followed the usual family pattern, established among the early pioneers when the population was smaller and distance was great. Three sons of William Martin Preece married three daughters of Elizabeth Watkins Shannon: Richard Lincoln Preece (my grandfather- . . . L.P.) was married to Mary Catherine Shannon; Wayne Pulaski Preece, whose son, Wayne, is now the patriarch of the Preece family in Austin, married Margaret Shannon; Zachary Taylor Preece was married to Francis (or Fanny) Shannon. Their many descendants today live in Austin and some remain in what is left of the hill country.

The sons of William Martin and Elizabeth Preece fought no less bravely in our country's hectic but victorious existence than the sons of Alexander Boone Preece and Louvenia Stratton, back in Kentucky. Louvenia, who was married to Alexander Boone Preece, in 1823, was descended from Solomon Stratton, the Revolutionary soldier who left Amherst County, Virginia, and came to the Big Sandy Valley in 1796. With him were other Strattons and allied lines. He founded Prestonsburg, in Floyd County, and the Stratton Settlement at Mare Creek Narrows. Both Forrest Preece and Mrs. Winnie May Preece Allen are descendants of this couple. Mrs. Allen now lives in Arlington, Virginia, and handles the research in the Library of Congress. Forrest Preece has a son busy in the London libraries.

The early historical background of this entire clan is merely the background of bitter struggle, of victory, and of the ever-onward push of civilization by those early pioneers who helped to build a nation. The complex pattern of migrations and formations are like jigsaw puzzles--they join, break apart, and join again--but always there is the marvelous continuity that makes the final superb picture. Research leads not into one trail, but many, until there is an emergence of lines other than one's own to be recognized by the intrepid genealogist. History lives, it blossoms and even fades, but it regenerates itself through tradition, historical records, perhaps in some tattered book on a shelf or some forgotten tombstone, as in the Preece Cemetery on Bull Creek near Austin. These shafts of sunlight penetrate the cedarbrake where lie the graves of Union soldiers, their widows, and some of their descendants.

In this connection the following letters are reproduced as a contribution of inestimable value to the history of certain regions, and to genealogists in particular. Research has not been undertaken to connect the Canadian Preece line with the Preece line about which this information has been compiled, but there is indication of a tie-in. The letters cover a period of 30 years during which they were written to members of the Preece Family in Kentucky and Texas.

The first two letters, now in the possession of Mrs. Katherine Preece Luparello of Beaumont, Texas, were written to Harold Preece, brother, at Austin, Texas, in beautiful penmanship. It is dated December 17, 1936.

Dear Sir:

Mr. Bentley of Preeceville gave me your address and I thought I would like to write you a letter as my name was Preece before I was married. Now I will tell you something of myself. My father was John Walter Preece born in Birmingham, England, and came to America when he was 9 years old. He would have been 80 years old now if he were living. He died thirty yrs ago by accident--his father and mother lived in Toledo, Ohio, for many years and both died there, and I have many cousins there at the present time very well to do people. I was born in the state of Illinois and am fifty one years old. I have two brothers and three sisters living and one sister dead. I have lived in Canada for 31 years. I came from Toledo, Ohio out here. My mother is still living here one mile & half west of the village of Preeceville. She is 75 years old. The land that Preeceville is built on was my youngest brother's homestead. His name is Fred Preece. I have a brother, John Walter Preece, living in Portland, Oregon. This Mr. Bentley you wrote to is a friend of ours. I might say a relative of ours, as his youngest son, D. W. Bentley, married my oldest daughter and lives in Preeceville. It is not a very large place but consists of four elevators, seven stores, three restaurants, two barber shops, three implement shops, three garages, two churches, a small hospital, two doctors, one dentist, one butcher shop, three livery barns and a post office, two lumber yards, and quite a number of nice homes; taking it as a whole it is a very nice little town. I was named after my mother and brother. I heard my father say he lived in Texas once as a small boy and also in Tennessee. Now if you see fit to answer my letter I would like to hear from you, and I will send you a few snaps of the little town of Preeceville.

So wishing you a Very Merry Xmas and Prosperous New Year, I remain

Yours truly,
Mrs. M. H. Reynolds
nee Minnie Myrtle Preece

(Note: The snapshots of Preeceville and members of this Preece family were sent and carefully preserved. - L.P.)

The second letter, dated January 8, 1937, reads:

Dear Mr. Preece:

I am writing in answer to you and also your sister Louise as that is my name also. My daughter, Mrs. Reynolds, let me read a letter from you and was pleased to do so. Her daughter is married to Mr. Bentley's son that is my grandson. I have six living children-- four daughters and two sons, all married. Three daughters and one son live in Canada near here. My oldest daughter has four children. My second daughter lives in Portland, Oregon and has five children and all but one married also. My oldest son in Portland has no children of his own but there are two boys but they belong to his wife by her first marriage. Those that live in Portland live near one another. My third daughter lives near here also. She has six children, four boys and two girls, two married. My youngest son, Fred, lives at Preeceville, next to my home. He is married and has five boys but he had to move up to the Hudson Bay junction this winter to be nearer to his work, as he works for the government that is 90 miles north of Preeceville. I live on the homestead my husband and I settled on here at Preeceville in 1904, and the CNR road runs through the farm. My husband died the next year we came here. The CNR officials of the road named the town in honor of my husband and I as we were the first settlers here. My son John lived with me until he married and went to Portland and the Preeces that live here are Fred, my youngest son, and his five boys of which I am very proud of, and myself.

I will tell you where my husband was born. It was in Birmingham, England. He had folks in Wales also in Woster and Coventry and also in New York that kept a riding school, also Sir William Preece that was in with Marconi the wireless telegrapher. Well, I will tell you something of my life. My name was Louise Stephenson before I was married. I am a descendant of George Stephenson on my father's side. He came to America in 1851 and my mother came to America in 1854. She was a nurse all through the Civil War. She was trained in St. Thomas Hospital, London, England, with Florence Nightingale. She went to the Crimean War and my mother came to America. My mother was married to my father in 1856 and I have one sister three years older than myself. I was born September 28, 1861, and my sister stayed with my grandmother and my aunt took me and I stayed with her until the war ended. I was married to my husband at the age of fifteen and he was twenty, so you see we was a very young couple but he was a model husband and father. I never heard him speak a cross word in his life. He has been dead since 1906 but I still live on the homestead that we homesteaded on when we came to Canada. My husband's folks lived in Toledo--that is where I was born. His brothers' sons live there now. They are all retired businessmen. They correspond with me. There are John, Fred, and William in Toledo, and Richard lives in Florida. Well, I think I have told you as near as I can of the family. Now I am going to send you some snapshots of the family, also of some of the scenery of this District. I will write on the back what they are and who, so I will close with best wishes for a Prosperous New Year.

(Signed) Mrs. Louise E. Preece

The last correspondence thus far in connection with the Preeces of Preeceville, Canada, came to Forrest Preece of Inez, Kentucky, from a descendant of these Preeces, Dr. Tom Preece of Yreka, California. This letter, reproduced with the permission of Forrest Preece, bears the date of June 25, 1965:

Dear Forrest:

It is interesting to receive a letter from someone with the same name. My stepfather told me many years ago that there were large numbers of families by the same name in Toledo, Ohio, and in the Chicago area. In 1903, he and his family migrated to central Saskatchewan, Canada. A little town known as Preeceville is located on my Uncle Fred's homestead in that province.

To the best of my knowledge, the only male adult with the name of Preece from the group that moved to Canada is Kenneth Preece (son of Fred). Kenneth is a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and is stationed in Regina, Saskatchewan. Herbert, Walter, and Lloyd, sons of Fred are deceased. Fred and my stepfather, John, were the only two sons of Louise and John Walter Preece, who were the parents also of the following daughters:

Annie - married to Fred Miller. (She is now deceased)

Minnie - married Marshall Reynolds. (She is still living near Preeceville.

She must be in her eighties.)

Sophia - married John Smith (lived in Portland, Oregon, for a number of years but is now deceased)

Elizabeth - married to Elmer Dalton (both are deceased)

Pearl - married to Sam Mitchell (both are deceased)

Uncle Fred also had four daughters by a second marriage. I did not know this family. Both my father and Uncle Fred are deceased.

A number of years ago, I met a young man who was a counselor in a boy's camp who also has the name of Preece. He came from Salt Lake City, Utah.

There are three Preeces listed in the San Francisco telephone directory: Harry G., 2040 Laguna Street, San Francisco; Sheldon W., 508 Ninetieth Street, Coloma, California; William, Jr., 512 Jersey Street, San Francisco.

To the best of my knowledge, there are none listed in Los Angeles, California, and in Portland, Oregon, only children once or twice removed from the Preece name. You will note that John was my stepfather and had no direct descendants.

It is interesting to note that some of the Preeces settled in Texas prior to the Civil War. My father's grandparents and their children were in the Union Army and the Nursing Corps. No doubt some of the Texas clan participated with the South.

Sincerely,
Tom W. Preece

McDUFFIE FAMILY

Submitted by
Mrs. A. E. Lush

Member, Local History & Genealogical Society

(The following material was taken from the History of Monroe County, Alabama, which was compiled in 1939 by Mrs. James (Grace Simmons) McNiell who, at that time, was Principal of the Elementary School, in Monroeville, county seat of Monroe County, Alabama.)

The McDuffie family is of Scotch-Irish descent. They came from the Isle of Wright, which is a small island off the coast of Scotland. My Uncle John has visited there. The family name was originally Mac Fil. Mac means "the son of" in Scotch. The emblem of the family is the oak. The insignia is "Pro rege", which means "for the king".

Three brothers came to America in the year 1659. They were James, John, and Archibald McDuffie. The King of England gave them a grant of land in North Carolina. It is near the town of Fayetteville in Albemarle County. There are some McDuffies still there. There are also McDuffies of this family in Columbus, Georgia, and in Florala, Alabama, and many other states.

Archibald McDuffie married Mary Murphy soon after he came to America. They are our direct ancestors. Years later Archibald came to Alabama from Fayetteville, North Carolina, as a young man in the early 1827. He settled in the Mississippi Territory at a place which is now Peach Tree, Alabama. He came across the river to work for John Searight Johnson. Mr. Johnson had settled the piece of land that is now Franklin, Ala. He had a large plantation and many, many slaves. He had come in 1789 from Abbeville District, South Carolina.

Before Mr. Johnson knew it, his young and very pretty daughter, Nancy Miller, had fallen in love with his overseer, Archibald McDuffie. Mr. Johnson objected but later Nancy Miller and Archibald were married.

To Archibald and Nancy Johnson McDuffie were born 6 children, 3 boys and 3 girls. The boys were Archibald, William and John. The girls were Laura, Margaret and Belle Mary. Archibald died in Mobile in his 14th year. He had typhoid fever and was taken down on the steambot to be treated. His uncles, Captain Frank and Andy, were in the steambot business. One of the steamboats that they owned was named Tensaw. There is an oil painting of Captain Frank Johnson that hangs in the old home at Franklin. William, who was called Willie, also died in Mobile when he was about 11.

John McDuffie, my grandfather, was the only son who lived to be grown. Margaret, who was called Maggie, married Robert McCants and lived at Bells Landing. She taught school there and taught my father, Charles Louis Hybart, when he was a little boy. She died young and had no children.

Belle Mary married Marcus P. Stallworth. To this union were born 7 children; Leon, who died when an infant; Blanchard Huston; McDuffie; Mary P. Stallworth, Jr.; John D.; Laura; and Margarite.

Blanchard Huston Stallworth married Daisy Barge Grimes of Pine Apple, Alabama.

They had two children; Mary Jane, who married Dr. Llewellyn of Gadsden, Alabama, who had one child; and B. H. Stallworth, Jr. who married Rebecca Kern of Greenville, Alabama. They now live here and have two children, B. H. the 3rd and David Kern Stallworth.

McDuffie Stallworth married Juliet Norred of Pine Apple, Alabama. They live there now and have no children.

Marcus P. Stallworth the 3rd married Nell Barge of Pine Apple and they have 5 children; Marcus P. the 4th, John D., Edward Barge, Nell McDuffie and McDuffie Stallworth. Marcus P. Stallworth, Jr. married Eleanor McMillan, daughter of Dr. Charles and Julia Tait McMillan of Beatrice, Ala.

John D. Stallworth married Marion Cannon of Bells Landing. They lived in the old Stallworth home near Vredenbug, Ala. John D. only lived a few months after he was married.

Laura McDuffie Stallworth married J. T. Moore of Perdue Hill, Ala. They had two children, Laura and Marcus. Laura married John Taylor of Florida and they have one child, Jenny Laura Taylor. They live in New York. Marcus Stallworth Moore married Angil McGuire of Pensacola, Florida. They have two children, McDuffie Stallworth Moore and Laura Stallworth Moore.

Marguerite, the youngest child, married Floyd Walston of Beatrice, Ala. They lived in Florida and had four children, two girls and two boys. The children are all of high school age now and their mother is no longer living.

Laura Stallworth Moore, who was called "Sweet" since she was a young child, is no longer living, either.

Laura McDuffie was the youngest daughter of Archibald and Nancy McDuffie. She died unmarried at the age of 26. She was a lovely young lady and had many suitors, so my Big Mama has told us. All three McDuffie daughters were educated in the Convent of Visitation in Mobile, Alabama. Their mother and father died when they were quite young. They had one brother, who was my grandfather, to take care of them. He took charge of the plantation when he was 15 years old. He was very fond of his cousin Leslie of Monroeville. Judge Leslie's daughters, Corrine, who was afterwards Mrs. John Slaughter, and Emmie, who soon became Mrs. Harris of New York, attended the Convent of Visitation at the same time that their cousins, the McDuffie girls, did. Mrs. Harris has five sons now living who are each a millionaire. The youngest boy was President of the New York Stock Exchange last year. He was the youngest man ever to be president.

John McDuffie, the youngest son of Archibald and Nancy McDuffie, was married to Virginia Marion Lett (called Jennie) on June 30, 1876. She was the daughter of Edward and Elizabeth Hunter Lett of Burnt Corn, Ala. John and Jennie were married in the Baptist Church at Burnt Corn. He took his bride to live in the old Johnson home, now known as the McDuffie home, at Franklin. The Lett family came from Richmond, Virginia, and the Hunter family from South Carolina. Virginia Marion Lett, who was my Big Mama, was the third daughter in a family of 11 children. Henry Lett, the oldest son, married Alabama King and lived in Peach Tree, Ala., and they had 8 children.

Edward Lett went to Texas and settled in Dallas. He married Annie Archinand and they had 5 children.

Mary Howard, the oldest Lett daughter, married a Watkins and had one daughter, Lena, who became Mrs. Hatcher of Bessemer, Ala. Lena Lett Hatcher had five children; Lena, Leslie, Mildred, Howard and Erin.

Mary Howard Lett (called Minna) later married Mr. Claude Shields of Dallas County, Alabama, and had 4 children; Bry, John, Carter and Claudin. Bry married Eugenia Foster of Monroe County and they had 2 children; Anna Mary and Bry, Jr.

Claudin married a Mr. Spottswood and lived in Mobile. They had 2 children; Jim Ellis and Jack.

Elizabeth Lett, called "Libb", married Benjamin F. Skinner, a Baptist preacher who was at one time pastor of the Monroeville Baptist Church. They had nine children. Two of the Skinner grandchildren live here, Malcom and Hugh Jones.

Anna Lett, who was called Nannie, married Captain Robert Brown and lived at Peach Tree, Ala. They had three children; Lena, Grace and Brownie. Brownie is Mrs. Tom Williams of Peach Tree, Ala. Grace is Mrs. Megetrick in Mobile. Lena is not living now.

Martha Lett, whom Mother calls Aunty Mat, was Mrs. John Shields of Dallas County, Alabama. She kept house at the Albert Hotel in Selma for many years. She had a wonderful sense of humor and a quick mind. She was beloved by everybody that knew her.

John and Virginia Lett McDuffie had 7 children, five of whom lived to be grown: John, Bessie, Mary, Hunter, Archie, Marion and Agnes.

John married Cornelia Annet Hixon, daughter of Alfred and Ella Fountain Hixon of Hixon, Alabama. John McDuffie and Cornelia Hixon were married at Hixon, Alabama, in October 1916. He was graduated from Auburn in 1904. He got a law degree at the University of Alabama in 1906 with a few months of study. In the same year he went to the State Legislature to represent Monroe County. He was elected to Congress in 1918, which he served for 14 years. In 1932 he was appointed Federal Judge of the Mobile District, which position he now holds. He has one daughter, Cornelia, who is the wife of Richard Felder Turner and lives in Mobile.

Bessie McDuffie was married to Col. Charles R. Bricken in June 1908. They have three sons; Allen McDuffie, who married Evelyn Clements and lives in Tuscaloosa; John Benjamin, who married Rose Mary Dome and lives in Washington, D.C., They now have one little girl, Berl Bricken. Reese Hutchinson, who is a highschool student, is at home with his parents. Mrs. Bricken founded the Montgomery Curb Market about 10 years ago and has worked it up to be an institution of first rank.

Mary Howard McDuffie was married in 1913 to Dr. Paul Duncan McGehee, the son of Rev. O. C. and Mary Henderson McGehee. To this union were born 3 sons; Paul Duncan, Jr.; Edward Henderson and John McDuffie. All three boys plan to study medicine at the University of Pennsylvania and in Europe. Paul is in his 4th year at Pennsylvania and Edward in his first. John McDuffie is in the 5th grade in Mobile. Their grandmother, Mrs. O. C. McGehee makes her home in Mobile with her son, Dr. McGehee. Mrs. Paul Duncan McGehee, my Aunt Mary, passed away on June 5th, 1938.

Hunter Lett McDuffie was married to Bessie Matthews in Camden Methodist Church in March 1934. They have one son, Hunter McDuffie, Jr., 3 years old. They live in the old Johnson Homestead at Franklin.

Virginia Marion McDuffie was married to Charles Louis Hybart of Monroeville on September 22, 1925. They were married in the old home at Franklin. They have one daughter, Virginia McDuffie Hybart.

Archie McDuffie died in Mobile in 1902. He was 11 years old and died with typhoid fever.

Laura Agnes McDuffie died at Point Clear, Alabama, on September 6, 1906. She was never a strong child but was lovely in nature.

The old Johnson Cemetery is one of the oldest and most interesting in the county, with some of the dates going as far back as the date of 1800. It has 4 generations of our people buried there.

If houses could talk, the old Johnson Homestead would have many interesting things to tell. It has sheltered 5 generations of honest, active, wide-awake people who loved life and gaiety. Lots of gladness, lots of sadness, lots of work and lots of play have gone on in this old home. The mantels in the home are hand-made.

Mr. John Seawright Johnson carved them with a pocket knife. A few years ago we had some work done on the old home. The carpenters went under the house to examine it, and they said it was in just as good a condition now as when it was built.

1850 CENSUS TRANSCRIBING AND INDEXING PROJECT

A program of transcribing, indexing, and publishing the 1850 census for Tennessee has been undertaken as a pilot project by the National Genealogical Society. The work will be directed and coordinated by J. Hobart Bartlett, who has accepted chairmanship of the specially formed Census Index Committee.

Tennessee has been chosen from among all other States for this first State-wide transcribing and indexing, to be done on a county basis, because of its importance as a "passage way" to the west during the 19th century. Other key states will be similarly transcribed and indexed as soon as possible. Eventually, the work will be done for all States and Territories for which the 1850 census records are available.

Initial notices regarding this project were published in the March issue of The Genealogical Helper (Vol. 20, No. 1); in the January-March issue of the "Ansearchin" News (Vol. 13, No. 1); and the Spring 1966 issue of The Southern Genealogist's Exchange Quarterly (Vol. 7, No. 37).

The National Genealogical Society is a non-profit, volunteer service organization. Thus the work will be done by volunteers, who are dedicated genealogists, and each of whom will actually transcribe and index the 1850 census of at least one county in the pilot State of Tennessee.

A newly made microfilm copy of the original census record of each county will be made available to the respective volunteers. An easy-to-use, specially designed format has been established for recording the transcribed census directly from the microfilm copy. Accordingly, instructions and a sample of the transcribed 1850 census will be furnished each volunteer.

When the census transcription and its index are published, each volunteer will be given recognition for the work done and/or monetary contributions made. Each will also have the satisfaction of having made a vital record available in useful form for all future genealogists and historians.

To volunteer, make monetary contributions, furnish equipment, or obtain further information write to:
