PITHY SAYINGS & PROVERBS

"Wild geese a-honking high
Winter's nigh

Wild geese a-goin' North'd

Winter now's o're."

"Jeminy-crakety - yo're slower'n winter molasses."

"Yo're stupidity's ensign." "Grab, root, 'n growl. Up & comin'."

"Stubborn as a mule - Stupid as an ox." "Dumbell!"

"Dun been bit by 'spring fever?' 'n' lazy as a hound."

"I'm plumb regusted wid ye." "Ye're too big fur yo're breeches."

"How come Pappy's a lizard?" "Aint he a-lyin' in the sun?"

"Git up frum thare licky-split - git a hump on yo'."

"Better late than never, seys yo'?" "Nuts. Yo' nuttier'n a fruitcake."

"Skee-daddle...git goin'...n' brin' home the bacon."

"Such-like" is the accepted corn-patch speech. No one takes offense. It's all in good nature, but decidedly a rough type of humor - a mixture of many sources - colorful, expressive, succulent, to-the-point.

Someone has said that it is a product of close observation, plus a gift for analogy. However, this type of expression has been evolving for many generations as it is passed down generally only by word of mouth. A few sayings have found their way into our so-called "genre-literature", but the greater part remain at the speech level.

For instance: General usage depicts an orator as "a braying ass" or "Jack-ass."

...two or more having a debate: "Couple o' tom-cats on the back fence."

...take ye're foot 'n ye're hand...git goin', fast."

...(He's) "sly as a fox...plumb smart...shore is pot-bellied."

... "onery as a mule, & more pig-headed 'ner'n."

... "crooked as a snake, or a barrel o' snakes."

... "nosey as a monkey... 'n nervous as a witch."

... "got a face like a hickory-nut doll - 'twould break a mirror."

... "a regular lyin' Arab" - been a lyin' forever."

... "rather lie than tell truth"... "Got no spunk."

... "gotter stick together, us boys; or be licked by 'em' (womenfolk)

... "never underestimate the female of the species."

There are certain weather observations that are considered truly proverbial; among them are these (usually accurate):

Foretelling heat the next day - "...sunset red-heat's ahead."

... "ziz-bugs loud, nairy a cloud."

Winter-weather, "colder'n a frog."

... "makes a feller slower'n winter molasses."

... "makes noses run like mill-dams."

Some observations regarding weather are definitely as seen:

- ... "Never rains but it pours."
- ... "As welcome as rain in this dry land."
- ... "Pure as the white, white driven-snow."
- ... "3 months no rain - dry as dust."
- ... "sloppy weather." "it's wetter'n a sponge."

In describing a person for whom "no love is lost between us" sometimes it is said: (he's) "sour'n a pickle," or "cross as a sore-tailed bear," or, "as a bear waked up too soon in spring": maybe "fat as a pig"; "100% prevaricator, a sure nuff lyin' Arab"; "greener'n grass" (unlearned); "gotta' face red as a beet", (eyes too close together); or maybe "slant-eyed, or bug-eyed, or "shifty-eyed, or wall-eyed" (none of which are considered admirable features); and might be "hard as nails, not soft like down", "pin-headed."

In contrast, a child or lively youngster may be termed "livelier'n a cricket", "light as a feather", "graceful as a gazelle", or "pretty as a peach."

Boys, however, are "noisy as crickets hard at-it makin' a racket" and "as skittish as a mare or a colt." Generally, they take-after their Ma "or just might be the "spittin' image of their Pa." "Happy as a lark" carefree, singing, etc.

Other observations regarding ones physical fitness include:

- In describing a thin person after an illness:
 - ... "No bigger'n a cake o' soap after a hard day's washin'."
 - ... "Got as many wrinkles as the map o' Ireland" and likely would crack a mirror."

- ... "plumb worn down to a nub." "Puny and peeked."
- ... "under eyes blacker'n Ace o' Spades."

- If asked how one feels, the usual reply is:
 - ... "fair to middlin'" (understatement, of course).
 - ... "not hankerin' to let-er go down the red-lane" (referring to swallowing medicine).

- ... "Just as lazy as a hound" (no desire to be active).
- ... "Been out makin' whoopee, whoopla with the boys."
- ... "Bright as a dollar" (a "shiny cart-wheel, (course)")
- ... "Wheelin' and dealin'" around.
- ... "A-comin' down the home stretch."

- On describing a person who has had smallpox:
 - ... "All the settin's dun fell out."

Certain other expressions are not readily placed in categories, therefore perhaps their meanings in parenthesis will suffice:

- ... "Short horse soon curried" (refers to a quick job).
- ... "Hold er, Newt - she's headed for the barn" (horse running).
- ... "A rollin' mule's a good buy."
- ... "Slick as glass" (unprincipled person).
- ... "Water under the bridge" (opportunities past).
- ... "Won't take more'n a split second to do" (easy job).

A little couplet ditty is often sung in praise of a beloved little girl. It goes like this (with minor variations, sometimes):

" 'Possum up a gum-stump
Raccoon in de holler
Little gal at our house
Bright as a sliver dollar."

When one seems to be going in a fruitless circle the old saying is:

"Round & round the mulberry bush" (effort for nothing).

"Let well enough alone."

"Sure as shooting ye'll git in trouble."

"Beware muddin' the water(s)"..."It's darker'n pitch,dark as Erebus."

"Anyway - 'tain't cricket to do what ye're doin'"..."Shady,"

"Simple as fallin' off a log to take your foot in yo're hand and 'vamoose' quick as a wink."

"If you don' quit, the boss'll be spittin'-tack mad."

"Yore pint-sized youngun'll squeal like a pig under a gate effen yo' don' quit."

"Yo' got sumthin' ter set yer teeth inter - so, take the bit in yore teeth and git on yore horse, pronto."

"No, yo' aint 'too old & fat' 'cause that's too lame an excuse - 'twont do...
gottter come up wid a better one."

"Maybe you tell yoreself it's purty good fur pore folks - 'tain't good nuff, tho...even if 'tis purty good what there is of it."

"Watch yore step- step lively - and yo'll be a -settin' purty."

"Oh, Tom. Tell 'em to stop"

That was the cry of Mariah

But the more she cried "Whoa"

They said "let-er go"

And the swing went a little bit higher."

Somewhere was printed the modern version of the age-old:

"Twinkle, twinkle little star"

How I wonder what you really are

An astral body genuine

Or a light alone on air-strip line"...or maybe the last line reads

"Or an UFO quick and fine"...

Proverbial Birthday Forecasts

"Monday's child is fair of face

Tuesday's child is full of grace

Wednesday's child is merry and glad

Thursday's child is sorry and sad

Friday's child is lovin' & givin'

Saturday's child must work for a livin'

But

The child that is born on the Sabbath day

Is blithe and bonny, and good, and gay."

THE EARLY BACKGROUND
OF
THE GARD FAMILY IN AMERICA

Submitted by: Major W. H. Gard, Retd., 1205 Timm Dr., College Station, Texas 77840.

(Editor's Note: A copy of this family record is in the files of the Texas, Genealogy Department, Dallas, Public Library, Dallas, Texas.)

Many, if not most, of the Gards (Guards) in America are descended from Jeremiah Gard, the patriarch of Morristown, New Jersey. The line of descent from some of his sons is quite clear. As to others a tedious piecing together of circumstantial evidence is necessary in order to arrive at legitimate conclusions.

The ancestry of the original Jeremiah himself is not in doubt. It begins, in America, with a man named Roger Garde, who was born about 1585 in Bideford, Devonshire, England. He married a woman named Philippa Gist in 1610. She died in 1634, having borne several children. Roger Garde, being at loose ends following her death, set out for America sometime before 1637.

Roger arrived at York, Maine (then called Agamenticus), and became a trusted employee of the Gorges plantation there. He was indeed made agent to "let and sell the whole estate" by Sir Thomas Gorges who was returning to England. Garde was given a grant of property in recognition of his great service to the Estate. He then became Recorder of the First General Court of Maine, Recorder of Town Court in 1641, Alderman, First Town Clerk, and finally, in 1644-5, Mayor of Old York.

York is one of the oldest seacoast towns in America. It was very important in the early days as a port of entry, and has seen much commerce. It was said to be the oldest incorporated town in New England.

Roger Garde left an estate which was subsequently passed to his son John, who at that time was a merchant in Boston, having followed his father to America. John was born November 18, 1618, in Devonshire.

By his wife, Philippa, Roger Garde had the following issue, all baptized in Bideford:

1. Elizabeth, February 16, 1613-14.
2. Rebecca, May 9, 1616; married William Champlin Sept. 29, 1644.
3. John, November 18, 1618; emigrated to New England.
4. Thomas, January 1, 1620-21.
5. Patience, July 13, 1623.

Actual details of the family of John Garde, son of Roger, are in shadow, but he had a son named Joseph who settled at Stonington, Connecticut, and there founded a family which remained in Stonington for many years. Joseph in turn had a son Joseph. The latter had a son named Jeremiah, born in 1717. This is the New Jersey patriarch of Morristown, New Jersey.

JEREMIAH GARD (named changed to Gard in Connecticut) eventually moved west to New Jersey, where he settled at or near Morristown, in Morris County. He married a woman named Elizabeth, known locally as "Madame Le Garde". She was a woman of French extraction. Their children (born in Connecticut or New Jersey) included Gershom, Daniel, Jeremiah, Jacob, Moses, Timothy, Cornelius, John, Joseph, and several daughters.

The Rockaway, New Jersey records (Croyon) show the following in part of the account:

Jeremiah, son of Joseph and Wife, Mary, born 1717, died at Morristown, July 19, 1783, and wife Elizabeth is said to have had seven sons who served in the Revolution.

Children: Ephraim married Mary Pierson, Capt. Daniel, Gerhom married Phebe Huntington; Jeremiah married Elizabeth (Roff) Moore; Jacob married Sarah Hathaway; MOSES married SARAH LYON; Jeddish; Joseph married Kesia Lindsley; Phebe married Caleb Fairchild; Sarah married Samuel Parkhurst, Rebecca married Nathan Hathaway; Hannah; and Minna.

Several of Jeremiah's sons were in the Revolutionary War, and of those who are definitely known to have been, Jacob was a Captain of New Jersey State Militia; Gershom was a Captain; and John was a Private. After the Revolutionary War several of Old JEREMIAH'S sons went west from New Jersey. Indeed, one of the sons, Jeremiah (whom we shall call Jeremiah (2) for convenience), apparently one of the oldest, west to Pennsylvania during the War and there served as a private in an Indian campaign. He settled in Westmoreland County in the Southwestern part of the state. A part of Westmoreland County later became Fayette County, with the county seat at Uniontown.

Another of Old Jeremiah's sons, MOSES, went west to join his brother Jeremiah (2) in Pennsylvania, apparently about 1787. Of the large family of Moses, at least three sons had been born in New Jersey; Jeremiah (3), born before 1775; EPHRAIM, born in 1776 and Jacob, born 1782. Aaron Gard, found later in Butler County, Ohio, and owning land there near the other Gards, may well have been a son of Moses also, as he is known to have come from Pennsylvania where he married. Since he was not one of the known sons of either Jeremiah or Timothy of Fayette County, Pennsylvania, only Moses is left of the Gards of that state from which he may have been descended.

The name Gard (or Garde or Guard as it is variously spelled) is of French origin. There is a province of Garde in Southern France, and also a river by that name. At the time of religious troubles in France in the 15th and 16th centuries many of the Gard Family left France. They were Huguenots and went to Germany, Holland, England, Scotland and Ireland. The Isle of Wight seems to have been a destination for at least one branch of the Gard family. Also as shown by the Roger Garde references, some settled in Devonshire and Cornwall.

Although no record of title in his name has been found, Moses Gard apparently purchased some land in Georges Township, of Fayette County, Pennsylvania. It appears that Moses did not stay in Georges Township long, as the Federal census of 1790 shows him residing in Union Township, where his brother Jeremiah (2) was settled with his large family, as a successful farmer and miller on Redstone Creek.

If the father, Moses, died in the 1790's, it may be assumed that the family remained intact until after his death. Besides the inference arising from the failure of later census records, or other records, to indicate his residence in Fayette County or elsewhere, we have as some authority for his death at that time, a statement made to Miss Helen Wright of Montclair, New Jersey, (herself a Gard descendent), by a very old lady near Morristown, that she had heard that Moses died in the 1790's.

About 1800, the brothers, Ephraim and Jeremiah (3), also sons of Moses, moved to Ohio, apparently joining their Uncle Gershom at North Bend. In the new Ohio country, Ephraim became a lieutenant in the militia of the Ohio region and served under General Gano from New Jersey, who may well have been known to the Moses Gard family in the New Jersey life.

NOTE: -All of the above information on the Gard families has been taken from a pamphlet published by Mr. Robert E. Gard and his brother Spencer A. Gard, in attempting to show the lineage of the Early Gards in the American country and to connect the Gard line as shown in the account printed in the book. "Early Settlers of Sangamon County, Illinois."

The following is the information on the EPHRAIM GARD line from the above cited book:

GARD, EPHRAIM, was born March, 1776, in Union County, Penn., and was married there to Susannah Sutton, a native of the same county. They moved to Butler county, Ohio, where they had twelve children. Mr. Gard was Captain of a company from that county, in the War of 1812. He moved to Fayette County, Indiana, and from there to Sangamon county, Illinois, arriving in the fall of 1839, where Pleasant Plains now stands. Of their children:-

- a. Keziah, born in 1801, in Ohio, married there to John McDowell, and came to Sangamon county, where they both died, leaving several children.
- b. Maria, born in 1803, in Ohio, married Abijah Stout, who died in California, leaving a widow and nine children in Butler county, Ohio.
- c. Rebecca, born in 1805, married in Ohio to Joseph Hamilton, moved to Fayette county, Indiana, thence to Little Rock, Arkansas.
- d. JACOB, born Sept. 23, 1806, in Butler county, Ohio, married there, March 10, 1835, to JANE CAMPBELL, had one child in Ohio, and moved to Fayette county, Indiana, in 1827, where they had three, and moved to Sangamon county, Ill., arriving November 1834, in what is now Gardner township, where they had five children. Of their nine children:
 1. Morris, born Aug. 24, 1827 in Ohio, married Rhoda Jackson.
 2. Damaris, born Jan. 27, 1829 in Indiana, was married Feb. 22, 1849 to Berry D. Stone.
 3. Susannah, born Nov. 11, 1831, married March 22, 1849 to Butler Stone.
 4. Abigail M. born June 27, 1834, married Lewis Nelson.
 5. EPHRAIM H. born June 27, 1838, married MARY E. GARRETT.
 6. Rachel E. born Jan. 27, 1840, married Alfred Ross.
 7. John L. born March 18, 1841, married May 17, 1860 to Sarah E. Miller.

Jacob Gard and his wife reside three miles south of Salisbury in Gardner township.

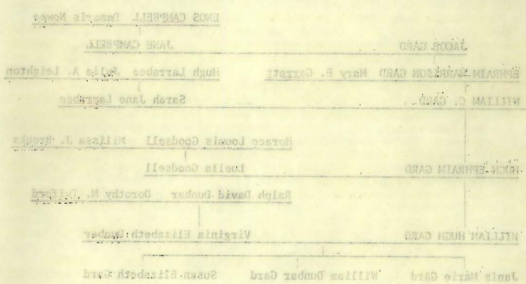

- e. James L., born Oct. 22, 1808, married Oct. 30, 1829 in Indiana to Sarah Sutton, moved to Sangamon county, Ill., arriving Sept. 21, 1839, where Pleasant Plains now stands.
- f. John S. married Mary Ellis.

- g. Harrison, born in Ohio, married in Indiana to Serena Cook, came to Sangamon county in 1838, and then to Florence, Morgan county, Missouri.
- h. Jeremiah, married in Indiana to Dicey A. Smith, moved to Little Rock, Arkansas and died there.
- i. Ephraim, born in Ohio, came to Sangamon county with his father, married in Morgan county to Pauline Parr and died leaving a widow and children in Morgan county.
- j. Lucinda, born Jan. 7, 1821, in Ohio married in 1854 in Sangamon county to Solomon Miller.
- k. David, born in Ohio, married in Indiana to Lydia Hockenberry, came to Sangamon county in 1839. David Gard and his son Albert, aged five years were killed by lightning, June 21, 1850 near Salisbury.

Mrs. Susannah Gard died Aug. 10, 1851, and Ephraim died Nov. 21, 1863, both in Gardner township.

EPHRAIM H. (Harrison), born June 27, 1838, married Mary E. Garrett and they had four living children at the time that the account of the "Early Settlers of Sangamon County" was written. WILLIAM C., Charles Elmer, Henry and Mary Ellen and they had lived near Cross Plains Postoffice. Later two other children, Grace and Stephen Grover were added to their family.

TOMBSTONE INSCRIPTIONS FROM OLD CEMETERY
FOUND IN MARSHALL COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI
By Mrs. Rebecca Henderson (Mrs. James)
127 East Ireland Dr.
Irving, Texas 75060

Mrs. Henderson writes:

In August of 1966, my Father and Mother, Mr. & Mrs. J. A. Martin of Waco, Texas went with me to Mississippi. While there, we went through several cemeteries.

This old cemetery, as far as I know now, has none of our ancestors in it. Due to the condition of the cemetery, my father and I took down all the information we could find, trying not to miss anything. We did, however, miss one tomb that was turned over, face down on the ground. This stone was too heavy for my father and I to turn over. I hated to miss this, but could do nothing but leave it.

I do hope that this will help some person in their hunt for lost ancestors.

Taken from an old cemetery, located in a pasture south of a few stores in the community of Chulahoma, Marshall County, Miss., southwest of Holly Springs.

RECORDS AND HISTORY OF THE MORRIS FAMILY OF SOUTH CAROLINA, GEORGIA AND TEXAS
By Mrs. Jackson Andrew Morris, Jr., 9986 Bowman Blvd., Dallas, Texas 75220
(Mildred E. Solley Morris)

Some of the earliest records found so far on the Morris family are in Fairfield, Pendleton, Abbeville, Anderson, Barnwell, Darlington, and other early Districts in South Carolina. These records show an early relationship with the Darling and Peeples families of early South Carolina. All history on the Morris family states that Jane Darling Peeples married a second time to a Morris, first name not known at this time. These are the Ancestors of some of the Morris' who came to Texas in the 1840's and 1850's, settling first in Harrison and later in Cass County, Texas. Jane Darling married first, Lewis Peeples and had two Peeples sons, named Henry and Lewis, Jr. After the death of Lewis Peeples, Sr. she married _____ Morris. Five sons were born of this union and all lived, at one time, in Henry County, Georgia. The two Peeples sons also settled here and married into the Lee family in early Henry Co., Ga.

Lovinski or Lovvorn Morris was a son of Jane Darling Peeples and _____ Morris. In his family information, he stated that he was born in Anderson County, South Carolina and moved to Georgia early. In Anderson and Barnwell District S.C. there is a Richard Morris who possibly married Jane Darling Peeples and is the father of the five Morris sons. No proof as yet on this man as their father. It is almost a certainty that these Morris' were of the Virginia branch of the Morris family.

In the old Mills Map of S.C. Morris and Peeples are found in the Barnwell District of S.C. _____ L. Morris on Salkatchie river and Peeples Mill on Spring Branch. They are listed 1820 Census in Darlington, Fairfield and Colleton Districts.

The Morris Emigrants from South Carolina have many records in Georgia before 1820. They settled first in many of the bordering counties on the South Carolina line. They are found in early Wilkes County and later were in Walton County, Hart Co. later in Gwinnett and Cherokee Counties. Of course many of them moved into the new land acquired by Georgia from the Indians and certainly they were following the trail always to better lands. The greatest concentration yet found of this particular branch of the Morris - Peeples families was in Henry County Georgia from 1830 until 1880. (Census Records) Since Henry County was formed from Indian lands and Walton Co., they likely were first residents of Walton Co. and later, after Henry was formed in 1821 their lands lay in the new County rather than in Walton.

Before 1850, many members of the Henry County Morris family emigrated to Texas and others came shortly after 1850. These people emigrated through Arkansas and settled first in Harrison County and after a very short stay in this County, moved to Cass County and resided there for many years. More about these later.

The Morris' who stayed in Henry County Georgia were not nearly so fortunate as the ones who came early to Texas. During the trying days of the Confederate War the people in Henry County, Georgia were caught in some of the worst battles fought in the state of Georgia. During the devastation of Sherman's march to Atlanta, many large battles were fought in the vicinity of Jonesborough, Ga. and at Stockbridge, and McDonough, all places where the Morris families lived.

During one particularly fierce Battle near Jonesborough, the dead of both the Union and the Confederacy were piled high and were all buried in one common grave where a Monument stands today to mark the spot. No family who lived near these battle scenes escaped the privation and suffering that were common for many months.

The five Morris sons born to Jane Darling Peebles and _____ Morris were: Richard, Alonzo Peebles Morris, Samuel Morris, Jesse, and Lovvorn, or as he is called in some records, Lovinski Morris. The descendants of Alonzo P. Morris and those of Richard Morris came in great numbers to Cass County, Texas. Jesse Morris and his descendants settled in Alabama and Samuel Morris' descendants likely stayed in Georgia. Lovvorn or Lovinski Morris went from Milledgeville, Ga. to Berrien Co. Ga. and is listed on Census there as well as his children. There were many inter-marriages among the Peebles and the Morris' and it would be hard indeed to figure out the relationship of the children born of these unions. It is known that Henry Peebles also moved to Berrien and then to Lowndes Co., Ga. and many of his descendants moved into Florida. Little is known of the Morris daughters who were children of the five Morris sons, where they moved to or if they stayed in Henry Co. Georgia.

Some of the children of Alonzo P. Morris and those of Richard Morris did not leave Henry Co. and are to be found still living there on 1880 Census. An older son of Richard and Naomi Morris had a large Plantation near Stockbridge, Ga. before the Civil War and later moved to Atlanta, Georgia. This was Pressley Morris who married Nancy Evaline James. Some of their children came to Texas and were very successful in both their business and civic enterprises.

Richard Morris, son of Jane Darling Peebles and _____ Morris is listed from 1830 to 1870 on Henry Co. Census in Georgia. He died in 1876 and his widow, Naomi petitioned the court for her rights to his property as he died without a Will. On 1880 Census in Henry Co., Naomi was still living and living with her was their daughter Nancy who had not married by then. Richard and Naomi were parents of 12 known children and included were one set of twin sons. Both Richard and Naomi lived to be very old.

On 1830 Census, Richard Morris of Henry Co., Ga. listed 4 males - 5 years of age, 1 male 20--30, 1 male 30--50-Females; -5 one 5-10--1, 30-40--1. On 1840 Census there were many associated lines listed along with Richard Morris, all lived in the same vicinity. Benjamin, William, James, Jesse P. Samuel W.J. Morris, Porter, Yancey, and Elijah Snow Boynton, Won Kuglar, Nathan Moffett, Lewis Peebles, all closely and intermarried with Morris'.

Pressley Milledge Morris' son came early to Texas and became a very influential man in business and political life. Judge Martin L. Morris was born on a Plantation in Henry Co., Ga. Sept. 19, 1855 and in 1879 he came to Texas. He graduated from Georgia State University in 1875 and was elected Speaker of his Class. In 1880, he was a school teacher in Wood Co. Texas and in late 1880, he moved to Camp Co., Texas where he was elected County Judge and Prosecuting Attorney. In 1890 he moved to Dallas and lived in Oak Cliff section of Dallas. He became the last Mayor of Oak Cliff, serving from 1899-1903. He was a Democrat and served as Democratic Chairman at the Texas Convention in early 1900's. He finished his legal education in Texas and was President of Oak Cliff Bank and Trust, was a large property owner there and a fine Civil Lawyer.

The first wife of Judge Martin L. Morris was Miss Lula Virginia Jones and they married Feb. 17, 1886. She died Dec. 13, 1914 and later Judge Morris married a distant Morris cousin, Miss Annie Morris. He had two children by his first wife:

There has not been enough information on the other children of Richard and Naomi Morris of Henry Co., Ga. 6. Andrew Jackson Morris, b. Henry Co., Ga. Jan. 1, 1831. d. Vernon, Texas. Dec. 8, 1918. Buried East View Cemetery, Vernon. Married Frances Boynton, b. Henry Co., Ga. November 18, 1835, d. Vernon, Texas, Jan. 2, 1912. m. Dec. 15, 1849 Henry Co., Ga. Andrew Jackson Morris served in the Confederate Army and enlisted in Marshall, Texas in April of 1861 in the T.M.V. Volunteers and served as a Gunsmith, a career he followed the rest of his life. In 1850, he and his wife and first-born son, Pressley M. came through Arkansas to Cass Co. Texas where they settled in Linden until between 1875-1879 when they moved to Wood Co. at Hawkins.

Frances Boynton was the daughter of Elijah Snow Boynton who was born in Massachusetts and his ancestors reached back to Stephen Hopkins of the early Mayflower settlers to the east. Elijah was the son of Amos Boynton who served in the Revolutionary War from Mass. and Vermont and was at the Battle of Bunker Hill. He went on the terrible march into Canada under Nathan Hale and Benedict Arnold before Arnold went over to the British side. He and his wife Sarah Snow Boynton settled early in Wilkes Co., Ga. and the son Elijah Snow made his way to Georgia early riding all the way from the east on horseback. He was an expert cabinet maker and was the father of many children by two wives, the first was Eliza Jackson whom he married in 1815 in Warren Co., Ga. Frances Morris is by his first wife. His second wife was Elizabeth Moffett, daughter of Nicholas and Abigal Moffett. The brother of Frances Boynton Morris, James Stoddard Boynton was the Governor of Georgia in the 1880's and also served as speaker of the Ga. House of Representatives before he became Governor.

Ref: The Boynton Family, by James Farnham Boynton, Records of the Morris Family, Rev. War Record for Amos Boynton.

Shortly after 1880 the Morris family were living in Hawkins, Wood Co., Texas at the Village of Hawkins, as recorded in 1880 Census. They had the sad misfortune to lose two of their children while living here. Richard Morris died at the age of 21 years and Georgia Morris died while in her "teens". The surviving children were: Pressley Milledge, James Andrew, Elizabeth Lavonia and Mary Sue Morris.

In these dim days of the late 1800's in Texas, especially in east Texas, the greatest health hazard was perhaps the bite of the plentiful mosquito which found many places to breed and multiply in the warm and humid climate of heavily forested East Texas. Having no screens to protect them from this ever-present menace, many families decided to leave for a drier and more healthful climate such as West Texas offered. Pressley Milledge Morris had married Martha Ann Ellington in Cass Co. in 1872 and they accompanied the older Morris family to Hawkins about 1877. They appear on Wood Co. 1880 Census along with his younger brother, James Andrew Morris, who is listed as the Postmaster of the village of Hawkins. Pressley M. is listed as the owner of a Mercantile store.

Upon the advice of his Doctor and due to some serious attacks of Malaria, Pressley Milledge Morris decided that the time had come to move west. He found that he could make a good trade of his Mercantile store for the plentiful timber of east Texas and he had it written into his contract that this heavy stand of timber be cut and sent on to him wherever he settled in west Texas and at whatever time he needed this timber. The way of transportation was to be the Burlington Railroad which went as far as Harold or Vernon in west Texas.

In these days in Texas, as elsewhere, the method of business was usually trading as cash was scarce and it was usually easy to find someone to trade assets for the same value. The lumber trade of Pressley M. Morris turned out to be a very good deal. He requested this sent to him when he got settled and asked for it.

One fine day, possibly in the fall of the year, about 1889-1890, the Morris family consisting of four young sons Pressley and his wife, loaded their wagon with all of the possessions they would need on the long trip to west Texas and headed west. They travelled through one very bad rain storm and had to take refuge under some trees in a lane. On the trip the little boys saw and marvelled at the first horse drawn Street car they had ever seen and the oldest one told the younger ones to quit staring at it. At this time they had some tin-type photographs made and these are still in the family.

When the Morris family reached their destination, it was the small, new town of Harold, near Vernon, Texas. They stopped here because they thought Harold would far out-grow Vernon, nearby. When they arrived they found that there were far more saloons than any other type of businesses, at count...about 27 saloons. The town was new, raw buildings, red dirt streets, no trees, and the bitter winter winds chilled them to the bone and the hot winds in the summer blowing across the plains of west Texas were no less comfortable. However, at once Pressley M. Morris saw the great need for his east Texas lumber as the barren plains did not have timber with which to build homes or businesses and all lumber was shipped in and very scarce.

Upon the arrival of the first shipment of east Texas lumber, the Morris' set up the first Lumber Yard in this area and it attracted customers from far and near. The great Indian Chief Quannah Parker came with his Braves from neighboring Oklahoma to purchase lumber. He told Mr. Morris that he guaranteed that his Braves would pay their bills for lumber. At one time, one of the Braves was long over-due on his account and Mr. Morris had about given up on him when he walked in one day and unloaded sack after sack upon the old Roll top Desk in the office of the Lumber Company. He untied his sacks and out came nickels, dimes and pennies with which he settled his account in full. They were reliable and very good lumber customers.

Sometime in the early 1900's Pressley M. Morris moved his family to Vernon, Texas which did out-grow Harold, after all. His parents Andrew Jackson and Francis Boynton Morris also moved to Vernon and lived until their deaths. From the success of the first Lumber Company in Harold, the Morris men went into the Banking business and were very enterprising and successful men. East Texas' loss was west Texas gain.

CAMP GROUND, HUNT COUNTY, TEXAS NEAR GREENVILLE, ESTABLISHED BY HARRELL FAMILY

Submitted by Mrs. James W. Cullar
3359 Shelley Blvd., Dallas, Texas 75211

(Editor's note: Five years before the City of Greenville was founded a family that took a lead in the early development of Hunt County, and whose members have continued to be leaders through the years, settled near Kingston, north of this city. This was the Harrell family, whose patriarch was Richard Harrell, a native of North Carolina who settled in the country in 1845. Harrell's Camp Ground, long noted as a site of religious meetings, was built by him. Margie Harrell Spaulding of Dallas, granddaughter of Richard Harrell, has furnished The Banner with an interesting historical sketch of the family, which is as follows):

Richard Harrell was a descendant of sturdy North Carolinians. His parents were Robert and Elizabeth Webb Harrell, natives of Gates County, North Carolina. Richard, their fourth child was born on May 11, 1813 in Perquiman County, North Carolina. He often laughingly said he missed by only a few miles, of being an F. F. V., being born just short distance from Virginia. His parents moved in 1825 to Tennessee later going to Arkansas.

In 1839 Richard came to Red River County, Texas living there two years. He had for several years been, and still was teaching school. When he went to Lamar County where he met and married Margie Ann Enochs, a native of Kentucky, another who missed by a slight margin being an F. F. V. They settled in Fannin County only four or five miles north of where Wolfe City is now located. In 1844 his wife died leaving two children, Fountain E. P. and Melvina.

After a short time he took his children to Arkansas to his family with the idea of bringing his parents and sisters to Texas, so in 1845 accompanied by his family he returned to Texas, settling in Hunt County, just south of Kingston, near where Harrell's Camp Ground is, building several small houses on the property that was later the camp-ground, and building a mill at what was afterward known as Milldale.

In 1848 he bought 160 acres of land west of the first place and built the house, establishing what has for more than a hundred years been known as the Richard Harrell place. This house was well built. The foundation was made of hewn hickory logs, the sills were half trees, the studdings were hewn of the same, only quarter logs - so it was Built that day, strong and sure

With a firm and ample base,
All parts steady and secure
Not ashamed, tomorrow to face.

Richard Harrell was married the second time in 1849 to Nancy L. Van Cleave, a widow with two sons, George and Grenade Van Cleave. She was of a fine family and an excellent Christian woman and together Richard and Nancy Harrell made this house a home by "a heap of living in it", for here was reared a large family of their children and many from less favored homes, all loved and nurtured through childhood, youth and some into mature years, or until they went forth to make homes of their own.

It was a haven for all men of the gospel who traveled that way, in fact no wayfarer was turned from their door. They opened their door to one and all - to those who pressed the ardor of hope, as well as those who were faint with strife.

Richard Harrell had been a christian and member of the Methodist Episcopal Church since he was eighteen years of age and lived a consistent Christian life, and so, with the help of a good and true wife, their family of thirteen were led and directed to be useful and righteous men and women. Names of their direct descendants and their companions were as follows: Fountain E. P. Harrell, married Annie Laurie Waggoner; Melvina Harrell married J. C. Read; George Van Cleave married Sarah Oxford; Grenade Van Cleave married Flora Cameron, Charles Wesley Harrell, died as a young man; Monroe L. Harrell, married Alice Thomas; John S. Harrell married Allie Duff; Mary G. Harrell, married B. N. Hodges; Mack Kendree Harrell married Jennie Kelley; Laura J. Harrell, married J. E. Kelley; Newton B. Harrell married Mollie Kelley; Jesse L. Harrell, married Cordia McLaurine; Mattie M. Harrell married James Love.

All of these except Charles Wesley lived to be married and reared families. None were divorced or remarried after their companions death, most of them prospered in their line of work; the sons as farmers, cattlemen, merchants, bankers, or clericals; the daughters as mothers and helpmates. One married a minister, another a school teacher.

These sons and daughters were influential men and women, always representing the best. All of them settled in or near Kingston, and the establishing of Calhoun College at least one third of those for it were Richard and Nancy Harrell descendants and other relatives. Most of these lived all their lives in Hunt County, all christian and members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Harrell's Camp Ground, named for Richard Harrell, was one of the first religious institutions established in Hunt County as early as 1850 and an influence for the betterment of humanity through the pioneering days of North Texas. People came from far and near to attend religious services there through a period of 50 years. It also furnished shelter for many families who passed that way.

This good work was begun when Richard Harrell donated the land and buildings on same, for the purpose of obtaining a suitable place for religious services for the community. He and others interested in religious work, cut timber and built a church later building the arbor for open air services. The cabins that were there were used for those coming from a distance in which to live while attending protracted meetings and in which families coming into and through this section of the country lived until they could become located, much as the tourist camps of today only there were no charges for the use. Some stopped for only a few days, others weeks, months and some locating permanently.

Richard and Nancy Harrell supported these meetings by their work, means and loving care for all who needed it. They truly fed and sheltered the homeless, cared for the sick and poor, not just then or through the meetings but through all the years. They were a fountain through which supplies were sent, the freer the flow the greater the supply. Yet Richard Harrell except for the years he taught school, pursued the quiet easy, and uneventful life of a farmer and stock raiser, at which he was reasonably successful. He did not amass a great fortune in money, his greatest treasurers was in the doing for those who needed help, and he always had plenty for anything he felt would be good for the cause.

I remember quite well when just a child the prohibition question was before the people and several of us, his grandchildren, declared we were for prohibition, so he gave each of us $10.00 and to this day I could not go against that declaration, even if otherwise I wished. There was nothing we enjoyed more than going to our grandparents. I've always had the greatest sympathy for children who had no grandparents to visit. I had two; for there was always something nice waiting for us.

We enjoyed running and playing in the orchard around the house and in the mill and gin where we had the greatest fun on the big wheel which was run by oxen treading it, and playing on the mountains, as we called the banks of cotton seed, for that was long before cotton seed had become the valuable product it is now. However, I do remember my father bringing loads of cotton seed, when returning from taking cotton to the gin, for my father fed the whole seed to his beef cattle long before most people did. One of the cautions given us in playing around the mill was to be careful not to get hurt, for it was here that grandfather was hurt very much by getting two of his fingers cut off. I think it worked unusually well for we had only to look at his hand and remember.

Richard and Nancy Harrell, after many years of living and happy home making, decided to move from the place near the Camp Ground three or four miles west and build and make another home. So with the improvements they brought fourth another very attractive and interesting Richard Harrell place, the only one many of the grand children have known as grandfather Harrell's home, but not so with the older ones for we loved the old as well as the new. But here as wherever they went they soon established a house for religious services, known as Harrell's Chapel, also named for Richard and Nancy Harrell, who supported it as they did all other religious institutions, however, they continued the meetings and supported the Harrell Camp Ground as long as they lived and their influence continued several years longer.

The Harrell descendants, in war as in peace did their part - their three oldest sons served in the Civil War; grandsons in the Spanish American War; great-great grandsons in World War I and World War II. So we see they have been active over much of the globe. Many are now located in different parts of the "Good Old U.S.A." and in many professions.

After long and useful lives Richard and Nancy Harrell passed on. Nancy Harrell died on April 30, 1888. Richard Harrell died on June 19, 1895, so they, the parents of both, all but one of their children and many of their grandchildren bodies now sleep in McWright or East Mount Garden of Rest.

Richard and Nancy Harrell supported their work means and loving care for all who needed it. They truly led and advised the families cared for the sick and poor, not just that or through the meetings but through all the years. They were a fountain through which supplies were sent, the low the greater the supply. For Richard Harrell except for the years he taught school, pursued the quiet easy, and uneventful life of a farmer and stock raiser, at which he was tremendously successful. He did not mess a great fortune in money, his greatest treasure was in the doing for those who needed help, and he always had plenty for anything he felt would be good for the cause.
