REVOLUTIONARY WAR BURIALS IN TEXAS

In hopes of encouraging people to help locate more Revolutionary War burials in Texas, Mrs. Lucile Boykin, Division Head of Texas History and Genealogy, Dallas Public Library, calls our attention to the series of books entitled Graves of Soldiers In the American Revolution published by the DAR.

A group of these books comes to our library once a year, and in 1969-1970, there were only two names reported as graves located in Texas. Do you know of any "lost" burials?

DANIEL HOWELL, PETERS COLONY, TEXAS

Introduction

Daniel Howell, born in Ohio in 1821, played an important part in the settlement of Collin, Denton and Wise Counties, Texas.

Prior to 1845, he settled on a 640 acre Peters Colony survey in present Collin County, and a few years later moved to Old Alton, Denton County, where he established a trading post. He subsequently moved to Wise County, his activities there later to be recounted in Cliff D. Cates' book, Pioneer History of Wise County.

The personal experiences of early settlers such as Daniel Howell certainly illuminate the history of this region of Texas during those formative years. A complete biographical sketch of Daniel, his wife and children, will soon follow, in Part III of this article. Part I, which immediately follows, will deal with the first Howells in America. Part II will cover Daniel's parents, in particular his father, Dr. Benjamin Howell, who at the age of 81 years, wrote to Daniel a series of letters in which he gave his account of the Howell family history. In these letters, hitherto unpublished, there are instances when Dr. Howell's account differs slightly from other sources, and these instances will be noted.

PART I - Early Howells In America

Thomas Howell and his wife, Katharine, from Staffordshire, England, purchased land in New Jersey in 1677, but came over in the Welcome in 1682. They settled on the north side of Cooper's Creek in Waterford (now Delaware township). They moved to Gloucester (now Camden Co.). He sat in the legislative council of the colony and was a member of The Church of England. He died in 1687 and his widow in 1695.

His son Daniel also came in the Welcome in 1682. In 1687 he sold the 250 acre plantation "Livewell" (a gift from his father) to his brother Mordecai. Daniel inherited the proprietary interest of his father in New Jersey. He married Sept. 4, 1686, Hannah Lakin of Philadelphia, sister of Moses Lakin of Cooper's Creek, N. J. Daniel died in Salesbury Township, Bucks Co., Penn., September, 1739.

Daniel's son, Captain Daniel Howell, was born in 1688 and died in 1733. He married Elsie Reading at "Livewell". Captain Daniel was a farmer and a miller, and engaged in mining copper, the earliest industry in Hunterdon County. He gave his copper furnace to his sons, Joseph and Benjamin. More information about these follows in Part II.

PART II - Dr. Benjamin Howell

Benjamin Howell was born in Hunterdon Co., New Jersey, May 8, 1794. He lived in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and New Jersey, and in about 1848 he moved to Missouri. Then in 1850 he and his family crossed the plains to Oregon and settled on Sauvies' Island, between 10 and 12 miles north of Portland where he died in 1887.

His first wife was Peggy or Polly Kelly and he was married to her in 1819. The name of his second wife was Elizabeth Matthews.

His son, Daniel Howell, was the early Texas pioneer. Whether there were other children we do not know.

Here following are the letters Dr. Benjamin Howell wrote to his son Daniel from 1872-1875. The first letter or letters are missing.

DR. BENJAMIN HOWELL'S LETTERS

Sarah Howell daughter of Job Howell was born about the year 1692 and was a remarkably stout strong and courageous woman. When she was about twenty years of age she married William Rittenhouse, son of Nicholas Rittenhouse (The Rittenhouse family will be noticed hereafter) William Rittenhouse was a tanner by trade. His property and dwelling house were situated about a mile from Sarah's brother Daniel's. As a specimen of her deeds of daring: She had a tame doe,, one day this doe came home accompanied by a buck. Sarah was alone and took down her husband's rifle and killed the buck; William returning soon after found her preparing to skin the buck. When she was somewhat in years, having been on a visit to her Germantown relations, she came to the Delaware river on her horse with her child in her arms, she forded the Delaware River at Thames Falls, as the ferry boat was out of water for repairs -- this was a deed not one man out of ten would care to perform. Still later, she took on herself the profession of midwife and was considered very skilful in her profession. She often used to upbraid her daughters-in-law who were generally quiet timid women for their timidity, saying that they would produce a cowardly race of offspring. She was a Baptist by religious profession and paid strict attention to bringing up her children in what she considered the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

John Howell, son of Daniel Howell, and Mary (Elsie) Reading Howell, his wife, together with his two younger brothers,, I think were raised under the care and guardianship of their Uncle John Reading; and I am of the opinion that he was a miller by trade; he was born about the year 1714 and under the will of Mary Reading Howell was bequeathed the mill and 100 acres of land of the Old Mount Amwell tract of her father, Colonel John Reading (I never heard what family his wife was of) This John Howell very foolishly sold his mill and land and with the money bought a large tract of poor land in the Kingswood swamp where he resided until he died at not a very advanced age. He left three sons - Reading, John and Daniel Howell, among whom this poor swamp tract of land was divided. Reading Howell, son of John Howell, born about 1745, sold his patrimony and went to the city of Philadelphia to live where he was employed as city surveyor. He had no sons, but was blessed with several children all girls; the eldest one of which married a Norton -- a clock maker by trade.

John Howell, son of John Howell, born about the year 1747 was a very familiar sociable man, but somewhat dissipated; he was never married but lived as a bachelor; spent his estate gradually, and died at the age of about 60 years old.

Daniel Howell, son of John Howell, born about the year 1750, was also a very clever sociable man. Unfortunately, he married a woman that was silly enough to say her husband, "Dan", had an estate so large that it was impossible for him to ever spend it. They lived somewhat fast and she died at about the age of 35 years by which time his estate was all spent and almost all their children had to be bound out as apprentices. Their names were Samuel, William, Rhoda, Mary, Susan (who married a Mr. Cummings) and Elizabeth (who married a Mr. Welliven.)

Joseph Howell, son of Daniel Howell and Mary Reading Howell, his wife, was born about the year 1720. This Joseph Howell was a blacksmith by trade and married a girl by the name of Montgomery of a high family; they had but one child, William Howell. This Joseph Howell took to strong drink and became involved in debt. His son, William, being grown, endeavoured by hard work at boating, to redeem his property which consisted of the Old Mount Amwell farm of 300 acres willed to him by his mother, Mary Reading -- Howell but soon William's health became impaired and he died of consumption and his mother soon followed him by reason of grief to the tomb, and Joseph Howell was obliged to sell to pay his debts. His brother, Benjamin, offered to give him $1,850 which he would not take, but at the same time sold to a Mr. Ely for $1,600. This offended Benjamin and he and his brother Joseph remained ill friends during life. After being relieved of all his property, he made his residence in a cabin belonging to some fishermen where by fishing and the charity of some good neighbors he kept himself as a kind of hermit till he died at about the age of 70 years.

Benjamin Howell, youngest son of Daniel and Mary Reading Howell, was born about the year 1730 and was left an orphan by the death of both father and mother. An infant he was taken under the guardianship of his uncle, Gov. John Reading, and was brought up a weaver by trade. His mother, before her death, willed him a tract of 250 acres of wood land also a tavern house ferry, and a lot of 70 acres improved. These were considered as the poorest share of any among the three brothers. He married a most excellent girl by the name of Agnes Welliven (The Welliven family will be noticed hereafter). He built himself first a log house and subsequently built a good stone house and frame barn and was every way a man of thrift. He was very temperate - never drinking any liquor stronger than wine. A few years before his death he was bitten by a copperhead snake. This rendered him an invalid; but on the 8th day of November 1794 in the evening he said to his wife, "Agness, I feel unwell and will lay down". He went to bed and when she went to bed after some time, she found him dead. They never had but two children Jacob and Joseph Howell. In dividing the estate, Jacob Howell got his father's farm of 250 acres. Joseph got the tavern ferry and seventy acres of land. Jacob Howell, the elder son of Benjamin Howell and Agness his wife, was born about the year 1757 and he was one of the best men in the world. He was a good farmer and had a good common education for his day and time. He lived a peaceable and quiet life with all men and he lived a bachelor never being married and always worked very hard on his farm. He never seemed to make much money in a single year and spent but little till in the latter part of his life. His receipts as near as I can make out were about as follows: In 1800 he had in cash $500 and received soon after on bond and mortgage of a neighbor $300 and receipts of his farm to 1820 at a low rate $2500. The same till 1835 - $1500 and received of his mother's estate $400 -- in all, $5,200. Soon after this time he told me he had no money left. All these sums of money he had been relieved of by some extravagant housekeepers and other very good friends. He died about the year 1847 when he was about 90 years of age. At his death he left nothing much but his farm of 250 acres of land.

Joseph Howell, the younger son of Benjamin Howell and Agness Welliven Howell his wife, was born about the year 1762, and at about the age of 20 he married Sarah Rittenhouse, daughter of Lot Rittenhouse, who was then about 24 years of age. He was a very industrious saving man and they had eight children - seven of them girls: Mary, Agness, Hannah, Nancy, Clarissa, Rebecca and Delilah. Of these, Hannah, Nancy, and Rebecca died in infancy - Delilah was afflicted with epilepsy and lived to be about twenty five years of age when she died in convulsions. Mary married Matthias Case, Agness married Samuel Hunt and Clarissa married Marjoram Belford. This Joseph Howell was a man who had much trouble in this life; when about 35 years of age he lost three infant daughters which lay most heavily at his heart; and a few years after, the marriages of his two eldest daughters grieved him sorely as he accounted them as ruined. There were sore domestic troubles one can only know who has the sad experience of the like afflictions. From about 1806 till near his death he was involved in several law-suits which soured his temper and rendered him unsociable; and also he owned the ferry where Centre Bridge now stands - which ferry the legislature took away from him by granting a charter to a company for to build a bridge. This affair worsted him in about the sum of $5000 which almost set him crazy. His father-in-law, Lot Rittenhouse, got in debt by going security for his son, Elisha Rittenhouse, then Joseph Howell advanced the money to relieve his father-in-law. Lot Rittenhouse died soon after and by the settlement of his estate Joseph Howell lost over $1000 as Lot Rittenhouse's estate proved insolvent. In about the year 1814 he sold his pleasant residence on the Delaware river for about $10,000, with but little paid down. He removed to Ohio with his business unsettled. The men to whom he sold proved insolvent; the property sunk in value till all that could be recovered was about $2,000. This business occasioned him to have to make many journeys from Ohio to New Jersey and back. Now for many years he had been afflicted with rheumatism and on the last of these journeys as he was returning home in the winter, he was taken ill and the disease seized on his brain which was the occasion for his death which occurred about in the year 1822.

Yours of the 20th of May - All well Aug. 25, 1872.

2nd THE READING FAMILY

Col. John Reading was born in Cumberland England about the year 1660; he chose the profession of arms and was promoted from a lower rank to be a Colonel in the British army and he married a lady in England, her maiden name I never knew - only that her name was Elizabeth. Col. John quit his profession and himself and wife both joined the Quaker religion along with Gov. Penn -- subsequently they left England and their friends and came to America along with Gov. Penn and they chose a place for their residence on the Delaware River in New Jersey which he named Mount Amwell. Near the place now called Trallsville, he erected a house at this place 99 feet long. When asked why he did not make it 100, he replied that 99 sounded longer than 100. This was the beginning of the settlement in that part of the country. Now in consequence of his former services in war and his great services in favor of Charles II, the King gave him several thousand acres of land; a part on which was situated his residence and still a more and greater part at Readington, N. J. about 15 miles from his home.

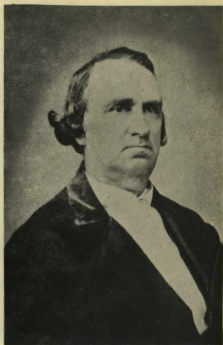

Col. John and Elizabeth his wife, had but two children - Mary (Elsie) and John; Mary was the elder. When John was 13 years of age his father sent him accompanied by his mother, to England to receive his education. (They stayed there seven years) After Mary got married he wrote to Mrs. Reading for her and John to return as he could do without her no longer - accordingly both came home as soon as possible. Col. John Reading died May 30, 1717 and his widow did not long survive him. They were both buried in the graveyard at Buckingham Meetinghouse in Buck County, Pennsylvania. To his daughter Mary he willed his homestead with the improvements Mill Ferry and Farm, embracing about 600 acres. The rest, a far greater part of the Delaware tract and the Readington tract, all of which he willed to his son, John.

Mary Reading, daughter of Col. John Reading, was born about the year 1683; with no one to educate her but her excellent mother who on repairing to England, left her daughter as her father's housekeeper -- which Mary continued to be until her marriage with Daniel Howell, son of Daniel Howell, when her husband became her instructor in politeness and she became the most refined lady of any in the neighborhood: -- In opposition to her father's will, she married the man she loved as before stated, and to her as our good angel I am indebted for all the good fortune I ever possessed. Was any neighbor woman sick, Mary Howell was by her bed side to smooth down her pillows and with some dainties for her nourishment, together with good words of comfort. She remained not long a widow, but died a short time after her husband's death. Among her orphan children the youngest, Benjamin, was of very tender age and he was taken by his uncle, Gov. John Reading, where he received an education and when old enough was instructed in the trade of a weaver.

John Reading, son of Col. John Reading, was born about the year 1685 and after returning from England got married and settled on the Readington tract of land. His wife's name I never learned, but believe it was Rebecca, and that she was a Presbyterian by religious profession inasmuch as all her children were brought up in that faith: John turned his attention to politics, was elected member of the state council and subsequently by the council to be President of that body.--The king of England neglected to appoint a Governor for New Jersey knowing that the state was in good hands--John Reading being the next higher officer below a governor ruled the state of New Jersey in the place of Governor for many years and hence was styled Governor Reading. --Some anecdotes are related of him for instance, he was walking with some gentlemen from England one day and a poor man was seen standing at a distance with his hat off. The Governor left his company and joined the man in conversation for a while about the title of his land and then returned to the gentlemen. They chided him for leaving them - he replied "That is a poor man who needs all his time to support his family, we are gentlemen of leisure and can spare a few minutes for his benefit." -- Another instance, he was one day with his harvest hands and complained that they did not make clean work. One whose name was Rake said, "You cannot do it better yourself. He said, "But I can" Rake took up his cradle and cut some distance. The Governor bound up the wheat very nicely, but Rake stopped -- threw up his hat and hollered, "Hurrah, I now can say that I have had the Governor to rake and bind after me!" "Lookey once now what a fool", said the Governor and left the field. Governor John Reading had three sons - Joseph, George and Thomas, and one daughter. I never knew her name - she married a man by the name of Holmes and they lived in Freehold, N. J. Joseph Reading, son of Gov. John Reading, lived on the Delaware River where he was Justice of the Peace and a judge of the county court for many years. He married Amy Pearson and his children's names were John, Pearson, Samuel, Rebecca, Amy and Mary. John died before his father and left orphan children Elisha, Asher and Mariah. Mariah married Edmund Rittenhouse. As to George Reading I know nothing about, only that he had a very pretty granddaughter whom I once saw, named Mary. She was a noted beauty. Thomas Reading and his family I have seen. They lived in great style at Readington, New Jersey.

3rd THE WELLAVEN FAMILY

Peter Wellaven (or Welliven) lived in the wine district of Germany near the River Rhine. He was married and had two sons five and seven years old respectively. Also had a small vineyard--But Peter made up his mind to emigrate to America: This was while Queen Ann reigned in England. He got what money his other effects would bring, but the vineyard he had to leave as it was entailed property. After descending the Rhine and taking ship, they run into London harbor. Here, as the children of emigrants were enjoying their play on the shore, Queen Ann came to see them with a large quantity of pennies in her apron which she sowed among them as a farmer would sow wheat, that she might see them scrambling for which should get the most money.-- Next they set sail from London for America (a long voyage at that day) and when out a few weeks, Peter's wife sickened and died and was buried in the Atlantic Ocean; thus his two little boys were left motherless. On landing at New York, Peter became acquainted with a widowed German lady whom he married. She had but one child, a daughter, by her first husband and never had any children by Peter. He bought a farm at a place now called Racktown in New Jersey; it was somewhat poor land, yet Peter made money on it and when his sons grew up to manhood he bought a farm near Esopus, New York for his elder son, Peter, and another near Flemmington, New Jersey for his younger son, Jacob. In course of time, the elder Peter Wellaven died and while he was dying his wife was seen to give her daughter through a back window a large purse of money which the daughter bore away and no money was found by his executors after his death.

Peter Wellaven, son of Peter Wellaven. Of this gentleman I never had any knowledge except that he had a good family and a very good liver near Esopus in the state of New York.

Jacob Wellaven, son of Peter Wellaven, I think married a Miss Flag, daughter of a German emigrant, and settled on his farm near Flemington, New Jersey. She was probably born in Germany; their children were all girls. Eve Wellaven, the eldest, married Manning _____ Force; her grandson also named Manning Force became a talented Methodist preacher and subsequently was elected a Congressman from New Jersey. Margaret Howell, while yet a girl, was one of his converts.

Margaret Wellaven married John Edmunds an Englishman, their son Jacob Edmunds was one of the brave soldiers in the revolutionary war and was wounded in the battle at Munmoth. Anna Wellaven, if I remember right married Jacob Flag, an innkeeper near the city of New Brunswick in N. J. Catharine Wellaven married Frederic Evelyne, a respectable farmer. Angess Wellaven born the year of the hard winter, 1737, and the youngest sister, married Benjamin Howell, son of Daniel Howell as before stated.--On mentioning the name of this lady I cannot write the half of what I feel in her praise; brought up in the German Reformed Church, a true and devoted Christian -- an esteemed neighbor by all that knew her --- a tender and loving wife while her husband lived: a mourning widow for twenty five years subsequently; an affectionate and dutiful mother; and above all women, an indulgent grandmother; in fine to be acquainted with her was to love her; she was without fault only that she was too good and to her alone I am indebted for the knowledge of almost all things I write in these pages; she died about in her eighty-second year, much lamented by all her posterity.

4th THE RITTENHOUSE FAMILY

Aaron Rittenhousen (if I mistake not, his name was Aaron) lived in the Douchy of Guelders of United Netherlands; he must have been born about the year 1625. He was married and had two sons - Nicholas, the elder, and Zacheus (if I mistake not, Zacheus was his name). These three ancient worthies were papermakers by trade or profession and their religious profession was that of the Baptist persuasion. Times being not very good for dissenters, even in that country of religious liberty. Aaron, his wife and two sons, embarked for New Amsterdam (now New York); they landed there about the year 1675. Here they stayed and accumulated considerable property and Nicholas got married to a Dutch lady. The government of New Amsterdam (now New York) being changed by its passing into the hands of England and their religion in disrepute, they emigrated to Germantown in Pennsylvania where there was a Welsh settlement with some Germans, all chiefly of the Baptist persuasion. This was about the year 1680 -- here I may say that Germantown was settled before Philadelphia; and Aaton procured a farm on which he spent the rest of his days.

Nicholas Rittenhousen, son of Aaron Rittenhousen, born about the year 1650, left Europe with his father and mother, came to New York, stayed with his parents, got married, emigrated with them to Germantown, Pennsylvania, as before stated; then by the assistance of his father and his own exertions, procured a site and erected a paper mill not far from Germantown (I believe this paper factory is still in the hands of some of his posterity yet; this paper mill proved quite a profitable investment; Nicholas became quite wealthy and died, leaving two sons, William and Matthias Rittenhousen.

Zacheus Rittenhousen, son of Aaron Rittenhousen, born about the year 1655, lived on the homestead with his parents. I never heard whether he had a family of his own or not (but as was the custom in Netherlands, the younger son heir the homestead of his father) He was divided his father's homestead at Germantown.

After this time on, the Dutch name of Rittenhousen was changed to English, Rittenhouse.

William Rittenhouse, elder son of Nicholas Rittenhousen, was born about the year 1683 at the time when Governor Penn established a Post Office in Philadelphia. When old enough, he was instructed in the business of a tanner. He married Sarah Howell, daughter of Job Howell, as before said, and his father bought him a tract of land off the Reading Delaware tract. It contained three or four hundred acres on which he erected improvements -- a house and buildings, also a tannery and cleared a large farm. As tanner's oil was very dear at that day and sturgeons were very plentiful in the Delaware River, he used to catch quite a number of them and try out the oil for to put on his leather. Young people seeing him have his pot over the fire asked him what he was cooking, he told them he was making a pot pie of sturgeons for which speech they gave him the sobroquette of "Sturgeon" by which name his decendents answer to about as readily as that of Rittenhouse. William was a man every way well thought of both as a neighbor and in the Baptist church of which he was a member. When he became well stricken in years, he laid by his tannery and he and his wife lived with his youngest son, Lot. He had a neighbor by the name of Case whom he thought much of and used to go to see him and would stay two or three days at a time. On a time he left home to pay his usual visit to Case, he did not return for three days and had not been to see Case. His little dog accompanied him - the dog returned home for something to eat, they fed the dog and he immediately returned to his master; they followed him and found William Rittenhouse and the dog at his feet in a bed of leaves. He had been dead in the woods three days. He and his wife had three sons, Benjamin, Isaac and Lot.

Benjamin Rittenhouse, son of William Rittenhouse, born about the year 1715, married a woman whose name was Molly (I never heard her maiden name) they lived on a farm about three miles from his father's and were very respectable. Their children's names were Moses, Peter, Elisha, Piety and Ann. Benjamin Rittenhouse did not live to be very old; he died when about fifty, His widow married a neighboring farmer by the name of Albertus Ringold and he also died soon after. She had no children by Ringold and at his death she heired his farm. Also she practiced as a midwife for many years.

Moses Rittenhouse, son of Benjamin Rittenhouse, was a carpenter and married - they lived with his mother; he died about the year 1800, leaving four orphan children, Edmund, Molly, Sally and Betsy. Edmund married Mariah Reading before said.

Peter Rittenhouse, son of Benjamin Rittenhouse, was married and had but one son, George Dansil Rittenhouse. Peter was a great buffeter and in so many fights he received so many hard licks that he soon fell into consumption and died.

Elisha Rittenhouse, son of Benjamin Rittenhouse - the youngest son - by will became possessor of his father's farm and in course of time became very wealthy. He raised quite a large family of children.

Piety Rittenhouse, daughter of Benjamin Rittenhouse, married John Hyde. They had but one child, a daughter, and Piety died in early life.

Ann Rittenhouse, daughter of Benjamin Rittenhouse, married George Dansil, after whom her brother Peter's son was named. Dansil took his wife and her nephew and went to Bedford county Pennsylvania where he settled some thirty miles east of the town of Bedford, and George Dansil Rittenhouse eventually became his heir. It was at this place that Joseph Howell, son of Benjamin Howell 2nd died and was buried; this happened when Joseph was on a journey from New Jersey to Ohio. Dansil and his wife had no children of their own.

Isaac Rittenhouse, son of William Rittenhouse, born about the year 1720, married Susan Baker and settled on a part of his father's farm, which part his father deeded to him and on which he built a good tavern house and lived there to a good old age of upwards of eighty five years. He was a gentleman of much politeness, in every way well calculated for the occupation he followed. His children's names were William, Samuel, John and Deborah, Amy, Susan, and Sally. All married but William and Sally. William heired his father's homestead.

Lot Rittenhouse, son of William Rittenhouse, born about the year 1725, was a good man and an elder in the Baptist church. When he grew to manhood he married Hannah Huggens (Higgins) a very devout Christian lady -- she was a member also of the Baptist church. (I am not well enough informed of her family to write her biography, I only remember attending her funeral and that her brother's name was Jediah) (Note: Hannah Higgins 4, Joseph 3, Judiah 2, Richard 1, who came to Plymouth in 1630) She died about the age of sixty. Lot married a second time (1800) to a widow named Caroline Shamp. As Lot was the youngest son and according to the custom of Netherlands, he was willed his father's homestead on which he was born and resided till his death where he took care of his widowed mother in her declining years. He was well to do, but letting his son Joseph reside on a part of his farm for over twenty-one years, the son took that part of it away from his father by right of possession. Also, he went bondman for his youngest son for several hundred dollars which by his son's failure, he had to pay and therefore, but little was divided among his children after his death. He died at about the age of ninety years and had been a man much esteemed by all his acquaintance. He had no children by his last wife, but by his first wife, Hannah, he had nine children -- William, Joseph, David, John, Jesse, Elisha, Sarah, Nancy and Mary.

William Rittenhouse, son of Lot Rittenhouse, married a widow lady by the name of Howell they settled near the north bend of Ohio river, his farm joined General Harrison's farm and lived to a good old age; I do not remember his children's names.

Joseph Rittenhouse, son of Lot Rittenhouse, married an Irish lady named Ann Wright. After settling upon and taking away from his father the land, lost his wife and became somewhat dissipated; they had ten children. Wright and George and Susan, Hannah, Lettitia, Sophia, Prudence, Ann, Mary, and Margaret. He died at an advanced age of about seventy years.

David Rittenhouse, son of Lot Rittenhouse, while a boy used to brag about being named after David Rittenhouse, the great Philosopher. When grown up he followed the seas as captain mate or sailor - I never learned, but at length he was missing and never after heard from; was supposed to have been shipwrecked and perished.

John Rittenhouse, son of Lot Rittenhouse, married a Miss Green, for his first wife by whom he had four children: Alexander, William (born the same hour with myself) Samuel, and Mary. He bought a piece of his father's farm where he lived a few years, but his wife died. Then he married Mariah Stull, a German lady who used to wear calico caps at which the youngsters used to laugh. He sold his farm and they all moved to Indiana. (I think he had no children by his last wife) and I have not heard from him since.

Jesse Rittenhouse, son of Lot Rittenhouse, always lived with his father. He married Mary Shamp, a daughter of his step-mother. He did not live to be very old, but died about seven years before his father. They had but one child; her name was Rebecca.

Elisha Rittenhouse, youngest son of Lot Rittenhouse, learned the merchantile business and learned it so well that he failed and ruined his father's estate. Also, he had a natural daughter by a girl named Miss Rake. The daughter's name was Amy Rake. I called to see her once, she was a very nice girl and used me with great politeness. After breaking up in New Jersey, Elisha went to Dayton, Ohio, and there married a Widow Karson. They moved to a little town on the Ohio River, 15 miles above Cairo called America, a very sickly place. He there took the fever and died; his wife said he would have recovered if she could have got medicine and nourishment for him but none were to be had then in that new country. She returned to Dayton and that is the last I have ever heard from her.

Sarah Rittenhouse, daughter of Lot Rittenhouse, born about 1760 as before said, married Joseph Howell, son of Benjamin Howell 2nd. She was four years the elder. She was a true christian of the Methodist church and one of the best mothers in the world. After the death of her husband, she and her afflicted daughter, Delilah, (who soon died) lived with her daughter Clarissa. Soon Clarissa also died, which left her lonesome. Soon after this her daughters, Mary and Agnes, went to her relief. She resided with Mary a while and then Agnes took her, with whom she ended her days, and was there buried in Indiana where her daughter and several of her grandchildren lay. I have had many regrets that my circumstances were such at the time of her afflictions that I was not able to visit her.

Nancy Rittenhouse, daughter of Lot Rittenhouse, married William Wertz, a wealthy farmer. They lived in Hopewell, New Jersey, in very good style. I do not remember the names of their children nor how many of them there were.

Mary Rittenhouse, daughter of Lot Rettenhouse, married an Irishman by the name of Hugh Magee, he was a merchant by profession and kept a store in Kingwood, New Jersey. He was some 15 years her elder. They had no children, and when well advanced in years, Magee died. She then moved to Indiana where she married a Mr. Robertson, and I have never heard from her since.

I may or may not quit here: if I keep my health and memory I may write a few pages on your Mother's ancestors and also on the ancestors of the mother of the rest of my children although I know but little about them. Your Christmas letter and letter of the 18th of April are duly received. Please acknowledge this if you receive it. It leaves us all well.

2. BEATY FAMILY CEMETERY

The Beaty Family Cemetery is located in the Sunshine community about 5 miles southeast of Woodson, Throckmorton County, Texas. Ewing Beaty and his wife, Cassie, were early settlers in Throckmorton County, coming from Ellis County in a wagon which Mrs. Beaty drove, while Mr. Beaty drove cattle to the new home. An interesting story was told us by Rayford Matthews, grandson, who went with us to locate the cemetery. He said as his grandfather looked after the cattle, it behooved his wife to drive the team pulling the wagon. The children were in the back, and one time she drove down into a river or creek bed and as she came up on the opposite side, which was very steep, the baby, Tom, who was asleep, rolled out the end of the wagon, landing on heavy grass and never woke up. He was not missed for awhile and when the mother made the discovery, she called Mr. Beaty, and they went back looking for him. He was still asleep when found. Mr. Matthews also told several other interesting incidents of early days. One was about a boy who drowned in King's Creek and was buried nearby. When the railroad from Cisco was built to Throckmorton, the right of way went across his grave, so his remains were removed.

The names in the Beaty family plot were:

1. Ewing Beaty, husband of Cassie Beaty, Feb. 12, 1838 - Feb. 15, 1918
"There shall be no night there"
2. In loving memory of my wife Cassia A -- wife of Ewing Beaty, Oct. 22, 1848 - May 23, 1911 - "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God"
3. Twins of Ewing & Cassia Beaty
4. J. C. Matthews - Tex. Corporal 315 Engineers - 90th Division WW II
October 3, 1895 - September 22, 1939
5. In memory of Callie Beaty, wife of J. C. Matthews - 1886 - 1923
6. (Mrs. Beaty's mother, Mrs. Johnston, and Mrs. Johnston's son, Nathaniel Johnston, who died up in years, were also buried here. - J.Y.)

Ewing and Cassia Beaty had three sets of twins - the set above, and twin boys, Joe and Alex, and twin girls, Nora and Cora, all who lived to a ripe old age.

THE SNIDER FAMILY - COLLIN COUNTY PIONEERS

Submitted by Mrs. Ron Samuels - Recollections of Charles Marion Snider

The author wishes to thank Mr. Charles Marion Snider of McKinney for being so gracious as to grant the privilege of jotting down a few of his rememberings of early life in Collin County. Mr. Snider is a most remarkable man not only in the fact that he is still able to share so much of his former life with other, but his present self as well. He has a keen sense of humor and is able to recite many poems he wrote when he was still able to hold a pencil. These poems are heartwarming and occasionally bring a tear to the eye with the incites he shows into the very basics of human life. He is truly a person to know, love and enjoy.

Between 1844 and 1848 William Snider and his wife, the former Mary Sandusky Estus and their nine children came to settle in Collin County, Texas. William was born March 22, 1806, in Kentucky as was his wife, in 1812. It is assumed they, too, were married there as their first two children were born there: Jno (?) in 1828 and Elizabeth in 1832. They settled somewhere in Illinois where Eliza J. was born in 1834, Aaron in 1835, Catherine in 1837, William T. in 1838, Ellen in 1840, Emily in 1841 and Amanda in 1843. Martha was born in Texas in 1848.

William brought with him his skill as a carpenter and is listed on census records as a wagon maker. When the Sniders came to Collin County they received a 640 acre land grant ten miles southeast of where McKinney now stands. On the land at the time was a lake which came to be known as Snider Lake. William helped build the first corn mill in this part of the country. He also had a bois d'arc mill. The bois d'arc apples were ground up then deposited in a barrel of water. The pulp of the apple floated to the top and the seeds settled to the bottom. The seeds were then gathered and sold. At this time bois d'arc trees were used as fences and the seeds were quite valuable. Mr. Snider raised horses as well as bees. He even had a hive under glass in his home, a log house. William died June 12, 1882 and Mary died January 14, 1889. Both are buried in the Fitzhugh Cemetery in Forrest Grove, Texas.

Of all the Snider children, the later life of only four is known at present to the author. Those being Elizabeth, Aaron, Catherine and Ellen.

Sarah Louise Elizabeth Snider married Thomas T. Bradley on October 16, 1850. They had three daughters: (1) Sarah Jane Bradley O'Brien Parker; (2) Mary E. Bradley Faires, and (3) Margaret Ann Bradley Smith. Elizabeth died December 18, 1865, and is buried in the Bradley Cemetery on the old Kirkpatrick place in McKinney, Texas.

Aaron married Rue Heimy Scott. He was a tall man and wore a moustache and chin whiskers. His wife was also tall and weighed around 160 pounds. She had dark hair and was very tender hearted. Aaron was a little more fiery tempered, but his children never heard him use profanity. He was very definite in rearing his children and they took him at his word. They farmed and raised cows, mules and horses.

Aaron and Rue had seven children: James Adam, Joseph Ben, Missouri Pettus, Charles Marion, Cordis Elbert, Mary Catherine and Albert Henry. Rue died either at the birth of or shortly after the birth of Albert Henry. An aunt offered to take the infant to raise, but Aaron said the baby was his and he would raise him. Aaron gave the baby milk from a particular Jersey cow. A goose quill was wrapped with a rag and placed in a bottle of milk and it was through this that the baby sucked. At the time of his mother's death, Charles Marion was eleven years old. He at present resides at the Parkview Nursing Home in McKinney and celebrated his 100th birthday in December, 1971. It is through his remarkable memory that much of this article was compiled. He recalls from the time he was eleven until he was fourteen he did the housework with his older sister. He knew how to cook, sweep, clean and make the feather beds as well as any woman. When he was younger he remembers following Jim, the Negro field hand, behind the plow. They had two black and white spotted oxen named Broad and Bright. William Snider had made the yokes and each oxen followed verbal commands and would incline his head each in turn so the yoke could be placed around their necks. Jim had a long whip which he also used to kill the field larks which followed the wooden plow with the possibility of gobbling any seed left uncovered.

When Charles was fourteen, his father came to him and said, "Come with us, Charles, I'm going to make a field hand of you." Charles was taken to the field and the straps to the plow were placed over his shoulders and back and, thus, he was changed from a housekeeper to a farmer.

William Snider helped build one of the first schools in Collin County. It, of course, was a log house. The land for the school was donated by a Mr. Lucas. On the land was a big willow tree over a spring. The tree and spring were only a few feet from the school. Hence, it was called Willow Springs and was later changed to Lucas. Charles Snider walked three miles to school and three miles back each day. His teacher's name was John Wyles. He was only about five feet tall and knew little more than his ABC's and how to count, according to Mr. Snider.

Charles Snider went on to marry Della Kirby. They raised poultry, cattle and had orchards of berries and pecans. Mr. Snider's brother, Joseph Ben, became a Baptist preacher. His younger brother, Albert Henry, became a preacher in the Christian church. Charles and Della had the following children: Mary Delmina Hogge, America Almada Sullivan, Paralee Blythe (named after the family doctor) Ussery, Truitt Hasting Snider and Marion Benjamin Snider.

Catherine Snider, daughter of William and Mary, married Daniel Bradley, brother of Elizabeth's husband, Thomas, on September 21, 1856. They had one son, George. After Daniel's death during the Civil War, Catherine married Reverend Ben Falkner. They had four daughters. Catherine died March 25, 1879, and is buried in Fitzhugh Cemetery in Forrest Grove, Texas.

Catherine's sister, Ellen, married Joe Scott. They had one son, Albert. The Scotts raised pigs. One day a pig managed to free himself from the confines of the sty. Joe suggested that the then ten-year-old Albert go one way around the barn and he would go another to try to find the lost swine. After splitting up, Albert discovered a hat in the thicket. He called for his dad. After looking, they found a boot and finally the body of a Mr. Golden of Illinois. It seems Stephen Ballew had been dating Golden's sister. When he learned Golden was going to Louisiana to sell some cattle he asked to go along. On the way back from Louisiana, they stopped to camp for the night on the Scott property. Mr. Ballew killed Golden for the money received from the cattle. He then took Golden's hat and boots and left his own with the body. He went to Missouri and married Golden's sister in her brother's boots and hat. The sheriff of Collin County tracked Ballew down and returned him to McKinney where he was hanged.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Just as the Quarterly was going to press we read regretfully in the June 22, 1972, McKinney, Texas, "Courier-Gazette" the following:

"Funeral services for Charles M. Snider, 100, of McKinney, a retired farmer and stock man, were at Forest Grove Christian Church at 3 p.m. today. Interment was in Oak Grove Cemetery."

We are very sorry Mr. Snider could not have lived to see his recollections in print, but are thankful to Mrs. Samuels for collecting this material and sharing it with us.

THE FIRST COLLIN COUNTY FAIR - OCTOBER, 1860

"The first exhibition of the Collin County Agricultural and Mechanical Association commenced on Tuesday the 13th inst., and continued five days... The number of people in attendance on the first day did not amount to more than eight hundred or one thousand, owing to unfavorable appearance of the sky. But this being entitled "Ladies Day" a goodly number of them, nothing daunted, made their appearance, contributing for exhibition almost every variety of domestic manufacture.

The display of the production of the loom and needle, gave a feast to the eyes of all admirers of such handiwork, and showed that the ladies of Collin not only possess great skill and taste in these manners, but had been industrious and emulous in the race for the prize....

In the list of embroidered articles, Mrs. A. A. Frost of Denton had many rare pieces of work on exhibition. An embroidered portrait of Washington, the result of her skill, elicited great admiration. A fine linen shirt made by Miss Eliza Graves could not have been excelled in neatness and beauty of workmanship.

The productions of the Dairy, Preserves, etc. ... would have been tempting to the most dainty epicure. The display of Garden Vegetables was very fine. Few persons would have thought that such Turnips, Potatoes, Melons, Squashes, etc., could have been raised in any soil, in so short a time as has passed since the Fall rains began.

The Pie-Melons exhibited were very fine. This is a vegetable, having the appearance of the Water-Melon, of which the finest pies are made. Mrs. A. E. Oldham, who took the premium on them, first introduced them into this country. In the fruit line the display was meager. There were, however, one or two entries of fine Apples and Peaches.

After the labors of the forenoon of the first day were ended and a repast given to the "inner man", Mr. R. DeArmond of McKinney delivered an address of twenty or thirty minutes in length, instructive and well suited to the occasion.

The number of people present on the second day was greater than on the first. Some articles on exhibition in the Mechanical line seemed to have been the result of much skill and ingenuity. A gang plow, invented and patented by the Messrs. Wilson of Dallas, attracted great attention and is calculated to save a great amount of labor. A Bureau made at the shop of Messrs. Hocker & Kalfus, would have been very hard to beat had there been competition....

This part of Texas has the name abroad of being naturally adapted to stock raising and certainly everyone who attended our Fair will at once concede that the farmers of Collin are beginning to develop all the natural resources of the country in this particular.

The entries of sheep consisted of the finest bloods to be found anywhere. This branch of husbandry is receiving much attention by our stock-raisers, and capital promises to be more remunerative invested in sheep than in anything else.

Messrs. E. L. Huffman of Collin and W. C. McKinney of Dallas, are taking the lead in this matter Messrs. Bush and Jones of Collin are also raising some very fine sheep.

The entries of Cattle were of good stock. Mr. John Huffman, Sen., is doing good service for Collin, in bringing some fine bloods into the country.

On the third and fourth days, the number of persons present was estimated at about three thousand, a large portion of them being ladies. All the classes of stock exhibited on each of these days were considered very good. The ring of aged Jacks was said to be as good as could be exhibited in any country, and mules of all ages would compare well with the best in any of the eastern states. Mr. W. W. Wheat of Grayson had on exhibition the finest two-year-old harness mule we have ever seen...

In the ring of aged blooded stallions, eight entries were made, and some little time was occupied by the judges in making a decision. Finally the premium was awarded to a noble animal belonging to Mr. Charles Shultz of Collin.

The array of draft and saddle horses, mares and colts, on the Fair ground last week, might have caused a stranger to imagine himself in a country where fine horses were "all the go." It at least would convince one that Mustang ponies must soon give place to a nobler breed.

The equestrian rings were entered by the little boys and young men, and even by old men, with alacrity, and the spectators were as much delighted with their movements as with the performances of a circus. In the ring for ladies, only three entries were made. Miss Fannie McReynolds of Kaufman took the premium. The competitors, Miss M. E. Herndon and Miss J. Dooly, both of Collin, rode very gracefully. The judges being unable to decide as to superiority, a certificate was awarded to both... Mr. P. A. Huffman deserves a special notice for the inimitable manner in which he performed the onerous labors of ring master

A high degree of sociability was manifested by all, and almost unbroken good order prevailed evidencing the fact that no country so lately rescued from barbarism surpasses ours in morality or refinement....The auction sales during the Fair amounted to $2,546.08. The editorial corps present return their thanks for the compliment paid them at the table on Saturday while the good qualities of the pig, tastefully served up by Mrs. A. E. Oldham, were being discussed." ...From A News Clipping In The Scrapbook of Miss Eliza Graves.

In the search of my ancestor, Samuel Moore - Margaret Donahey, I have collected many "Moore Family" records. Perhaps the following "Moore Marriages" will help another researcher. I can not credit any one book or record for this information ... it was collected from many sources.

My ancestor settled in Bosque County, Texas. My mother and all her children were born there.

OLD HAUNTED CROSSING

The Old Haunted Crossing on Indian Creek in the Squeeze - penny area of Collin County, Texas, has now been almost erased by progress. At the time of the War Between The States, this much used crossing about seven miles northeast of McKinney, lay on the road to Bonham. The stages crossed here where the creek was usually dry. A rather spooky place even in daylight because sunlight could not penetrate the arch of overhanging tree leaves, this old Indian site even recently looked-the-part of its name.

Bush Knob Cemetery is on farm to market road a few miles northwest of Woodson, Throckmorton County, Texas. This well kept cemetery has no fence around it, and has an archway where a road goes into the cemetery from the main road. This was once a community with a church, school house, store and a few houses nearby. Everything is gone now except one abandoned old house north of the cemetery. On the north side of the cemetery are the following graves:

More of Great Grandmother's Beauty Secrets Revealed

"Queen Bess Complexion Wash -- Put in a vial one drachm of benzoin gum in powder, one drachm nutmeg-oil, six drops of orange-blossom tea (or apple-blossoms put in half pint rainwater and boiled down to one teaspoonful and strained), one pint of sherry wine.

Bathe the face morning and night; will remove all fleshworms and freckles, and give a beautiful complexion. Or, put one ounce of powdered gum of benzoin in pint of whiskey; to use, put in water in wash-bowl til it is milky, allowing it to dry without wiping. This is perfectly harmless."

"THE LAST TIME THE CONFEDERATE FLAG WAS FLOWN ON THE HIGH SEAS"

(A News Clipping From "The Old Scrapbook")

Goliad, Tex., April 26. - To The News: In the autumn of 1870 Mr. J. C. Heaton and wife, of Victoria, Tex., who had long been residents of that pretty little city, decided to re-visit their old home at Potsdam, N. Y. Being so soon after the war, as a curiosity Mr. Heaton had secured a large silk Confederate flag that had floated at the head of a gallant Texas cavalry regiment in a number of hard fought actions in the Northwest. The flag was packed in the baggage and Mr. & Mrs. Heaton left Victoria for 'Powderhorn', or Indianola, its new name, the port from whence they were to sail for New York. The town of Indianola being almost an island, in crossing an arm of the bay to reach the quay, their carriage was upset and their baggage thrown into the water. They were rescued and reached their vessel, the Morgan liner St. Mary, Captain H. Talbot, master. After the vessel had crossed the bar and was at sea, Mr. Heaton went to Captain Talbot and asked permission to unpack his baggage and dry it on the forward deck of the ship. The request was granted and the various articles spread out. On the ship as passengers were a large number of cattle raisers, many of them very wealthy, and nearly all of them ex-Confederate soldiers. When the shining silk folds of "the conquered banner" were spread before them its appearance was greeted with a cheer, a rebel yell that shook the ship. Every hat was lifted and swung to the gulf breeze. The excitement spread like prairie fire, the ladies on board, always intense in their devotion to the South, joining in it. Finally the climax was reached when an old sailor, grasping the flag, rushed to the fore halyards of the steamship, rapidly wove the rope through and with a mighty force sent the flag flying to the top of the foremast. As it fluttered out in the breeze, pandemonium broke loose. Cheers, wild yells with every other noise possible sent the gulls that hovered around shrieking away. The ships officers rushed forward and even the engineers and stokers from below ran up, thinking the ship was on fire or some terrible accident had happened. The St. Mary was a U. S. Mail ship and Captain Talbot intensely patriotic, being an ex-navy officer in the U. S. Navy. When he realized what had taken place he was fairly speechless, and what he said will not be repeated. The "stars and bars" were hauled down, never again to float to the fore of the splendid ship St. Mary.

Gabriel S. Fitzhugh (1831-1861)

Excepts from Newspaper Tributes at the Time Of His Death

One of the bravest and most generous officers in the Confederate Army, Gabriel S. Fitzhugh, the first lieutenant in Capt. J. W. Throckmorton's company of the 6th Texas Cavalry, was born in Missouri, 4th December, 1831. His parents, John and Sarah Shelton Fitzhugh, moved from Kentucky to Cooper county, Missouri, when that country was the home of the Indian. John has ever since been a frontiersman of sterling worth and merit. In the spring of 1845 the family moved and settled in the State of Texas, a year before that State had been annexed to the United States. His new home (south of present Melissa, Collin Co.) was again made while hostile Indian war whoops were as familiar to him as were the screams and howls of the wild beasts of the forest.

In 1848 the intrepid and daring youth, as a captain under Col. M. T. Johnson, entered the service of the State of Texas as a ranger, on the bleeding frontier of his State, and by his chivalrous conduct won the admiration and profound respect of his Colonel and soldiers.

In the winter of '58 and '59, he was again in the State service as captain of a company under Col. James Bouland, one of the illustrious and determined sons of the republic and State of Texas, where again young Fitzhugh distinguished himself as soldier and officer.

In the spring of 1860, our lieutenant was in command of a company again under the gallant Col. Johnson, in defending helpless families whose blood from the tomahawk and scalping knife was crimsoning the translucent streams of the Brazos and Trinity upon their sources.

In the spring of 1861, under the accomplished Throckmorton, he went into the State service, in Col. W. C. Young's regiment as the first lieutenant of the company, and there gained the confidence and respect of his brother officers and Texas soldiers. On the 12th day of September of the same year, the entire company enlisted for 12 months into the 6th Regiment Texas Cavalry commanded by Col. B. Warren Stone. While heroically leading his brave men to fight, surrounded by Texas heroes, Capts. Ross, Wharton, Throckmorton, Hardin and others, with their fine Lieut. Col. Griffith, Lieut. Gabe Fitzhugh gave his life for his country the day after Christmas, 1861."

Masonic Lodge, No. 209, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, paid respect to their esteemed and worthy brother, Gabriel S. Fitzhugh, who was killed in battle with the Creek Indians on 26th Dec. 1861. (A copy of the tribute was sent to the deceased's parents and to the McKinney Messenger and the Dallas Herald on Jan. 17, 1862, by a committee composed of C. R. Breedlove, M. S. Pullian, and J. W. Throckmorton.)

THE OLD WHITE ROCK CAMP MEETING, DALLAS CO., TEXAS
Recollections of Miss Eva Hughston, Plano, Collin Co., Texas 1970

Submitted by Mrs. James H. Merritt

When I was ten years old, I started going to camp meeting of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. This was about the year 1889. On the third Friday in August, when all crops were gathered, Methodists from North Texas gathered on White Rock Creek, about three miles west of Richardson, Texas. (To be exact, this location is the present Northwood Country Club clubhouse site.), on Alpha Road west of Hillcrest, Dallas.

The site was on a small elevation. The tabernacle was located on the highest point of this elevation; and the tents, camps and frames for camps were located north of the tabernacle. Cotton-bale bagging or brown domestic was stretched around the camp frames for rooms or living quarters. Curtains were stretched inside to partition off bedrooms. The dining rooms and kitchens were set up outside under a brush arbor or large oak trees.

Some camps had bed-steads brought along from home. Bunks were built and mattresses put on them. Some of the bunks were long enough to hold four mattresses. Others just spread mattresses or quilts on the straw floor. Most of the camps were close together under large shade trees.

As I said, Thursday, before the third Sunday in August was "moving in" time. In our house we got up very early on that morning to have breakfast. Early breakfast was essential so that the stove could cool enough to be put in the wagon. The stove was usually put in the wagon first and at the front. Next, the dining table was laid top down, legs sticking up, then, mattresses, tubs of dishes - trunks - boxes - grips-hat boxes - chairs. There was room also for containers of food - meal, flour, and other staples. Oftentimes a crate of chickens was fastened on and under the back of the wagon bed. Wagon loaded, the family got on and sat where they could. Sometimes the wagon would give a jolt as it traveled and one would find himself sitting on a table leg - then, more shifting and settling. Sitting on the load was one of the "funs" of the trip.

The eggs were usually in a box or a basket held in somebody's lap - well guarded. "You hold the eggs awhile" - so the eggs got passed around.

The Beverly-Hughston camp was a box house - with an opening on the south and one on the north. Outside the north door were the kitchen and dining area. Across the east end was a bunk containing four mattresses. Women and children slept there. Men and boys took a pillow and quilt and slept under the tabernacle, on the straw.

At about sun-up, a colored man blew a cow horn to wake up the campers. Later on he had a conch shell to blow. As the first service was morning prayers, the men had to get up and get their quilts back to the tents before people came "up to prayers." (Women often wore bonnets to this meeting, for lack of time to fix their hair.)

At 9:00 a.m., the first service began - sometimes a sermon often a testimonial meeting; the preacher giving the admonition, "Get up and tell what the Lord has done for you!" Sometimes, the man or woman giving the testimonial would stand up and say, "I want you all to pray for me that I might hold out faithful." The conductor of this meeting would usually start a song between testimonies. Often some one would give a lusty shout. Once a woman got so happy, moving about shouting and jumping, her petticoat fell off. A preacher picked it up and put it on a seat. The children of that day can never say, "I never saw anybody shout," (religiously). People would go about shaking hands, patting each other on the back. I've seen three sisters shouting at the same time over the conversion or "come through" of their wayward brother.

A Mr. Sam Brown was a prominent conductor for experience sessions. A man got up once and told a long dream he had. Finally, he sat down and Mr. Brown sang: "How tedious and tasteless the hours, when Jesus no longer I see. If you have any more dreams to tell, I pray you don't tell them to me." A woman got up and said, "I can't get all this worlds goods I want, but thank God I can have all the religion I want." Another woman got happy and began to shout and her little granddaughter whispered to her mother, "If Grandma's going to preach I don't want to stay." Once a call was made for penitents to come to the mourners bench. Two men almost ran forward seeming to be racing each other to be first. They were brothers and were at "outs" with each other; and were converted together there at that moment.

The preachers gave their sermons at the 11:00 o'clock service, but sometimes the first service was so vital, it ran into the 11:00 o'clock service. The preachers came out to the camp grounds and stayed in a special tent, southeast of the tabernacle. This tent was furnished by contributions gathered the first day of camp from all the other campsites. Different women would go about camp asking for pillows, quilts, sheets, towels for the preachers tent. The fourteen year old son of Dr. Rankin came with him one year and one day at camp he said, "The preachers snore so much I can't hardly sleep, and Daddy snores louder than anyone else." Brother Fontain got home from a business trip on Saturday afternoon. His church had announced "No Services" Sunday morning nor night. He came out to the camp ground, he said, "I came out here where my heart was."

Here are the names of some of the preachers:

W. H. Hughes, J. C. Rankin, C. I. McQuirter, Mayhew,
Fontain, D. J. Martin, R. M. Powers, Pierce, Lively,
T. H. Morris, C. M. Harless.

Since the main service was at 11:00, non campers from near by towns were able to attend this service. Sunday was the big day. Many people came out from Dallas and near by small towns. They brought their lunches. There was no public eating place, only a place where ice and watermelons were sold.

There were no collections taken during the meeting. An organ was moved from the Renner Church, a pump organ. Nobody played games, but one time a group of young people made up and played a game called "Whip Cracker." One elderly lady shook her head and said, "Aye Law."

There were three more services in the afternoon - one at 3:00; a prayer meeting after early supper; and a night service. The prayer meetings were held separately for women, men, boys, girls. The ladies met in front of a camp for theirs. The girls went up in a grove for their meeting; and the men and boys went in another direction for theirs. After about thirty minutes, they all came marching to the tabernacle (some singing as they marched) for the night service.

We children learned a new song one year and sang it on the way home in the wagon. Papa looked back at us and said, "Go back and get your tune." Here are some songs sung during camp meeting.

1. Sinner, get a light and let's go to Heaven (3 times)
I feel like I want to fly away.
Amen, my soul is happy (3 times)
I feel like I want to fly away.
2. It may be far -
It may be near
There is a hope
There is a fear
That in the future waiting, I shall see Jesus by and by.
3. Give me that old time religion - it's good enough for me.
It was good for the prophet Danniell -
It was good for our father
It was good for out mother
Good for the Hebrew children
Makes me love everybody.
4. I have a father up in heaven (3 times)
And O, tell me if you know
Will that father know his children
When to heaven they shall go.
I have a mother up in heaven (3 times)
I have a sister up in heaven (3 times)
I have a brother who went up from the battle field -
Will that brother know his sister -
When the sword he cannot wield.
5. My father has gone to view that land (3 times)
To sing that cheering song, away over yonder on the other side of Jordan - Away over yonder
To sing that cheering song.

(Other verses are:)

Mother, sister, brother and all others have gone to view that land. (Then:)
I hope someday to view that land (3 times)

Here are some of the names of families who camped at the White Rock Camp Grounds:

Dennis	Jackson	Bachman	Armstrong	Hughes	Taylor
Beverly	Winn	Barlow	Knight	Johnson	Wells
Hughston	Smith	Coxe	Brown	Cochran
McCamy	Julian	Webbs	Bowman	Foard

The Beverlys, Browns, and McKamys all camped side by side. The chairs they took were raw hide bottoms, all made by Mr. Tommy Shelton. The Beverlys painted their blue; the Browns, brown; and the McKamys painted theirs green. If folks were sitting out and moved a chair from one group to another, your own chair was easy to spot. There was much visiting during camp meeting; and it was an especially good time for relatives and friends to visit a family that had come from afar.

Camp meeting time was a special time in the lives of those who attended Even to this day, I for one, can drive by the old camp grounds, the present Northwood Club, and get a strange, strange feeling. Something seems to envelop me - I notice where I am and wonder. A man from Cochran Chapel Church said he had the same feeling when passing there.
