March 20, 1973

This letter is directed to you at the request of the Board of Directors of the Local History and Genealogical Society.

The Board of Directors are concerned about the small and inadequate space provided for the Texas History and Genealogical Department of the downtown Public Library

Due to the inadequacy of space, attendance and research of the some three hundred members of this Society, and literally hundreds of others involved in genealogical research are handicapped, and encumbered and impeded in their actions. The inadequacy of space not only contributes to crowded conditions of its personnel and patrons but constitutes a deterrent to persons and needed equipment cannot be acquired.

This Society has made generous contributions in funds and materials to the Texas History and Genealogical Department at the Dallas Public Library, however, the crowded conditions of this department, for all practical purposes, not only practically render the use of the materials thus contributed impossible to use, but limits the use of equipment for which contributed funds may be expanded.

Since at this time there appears to be space that could be very easily put to use of this department, it is respectfully requested that you explore this possibility:

LUCY HOLCOMBE PICKENS

Lucy Holcombe was born in 1832 near La Grange, Tennessee, a daughter of Beverly Lafayette Holcome and wife, Eugenia Dorthea. The family moved to Marshall, Texas, making their home on the plantation, "Myalucing". She met and married Col. Francis W. Pickens in 1857, the South Carolina governor who ordered the Fort Sumter attack. He was serving as U. S. Ambassador to Russia at the time he was elected governor.

Lucy Pickens was a favorite of the court in St. Petersburg, Czarina Catherine II being godmother to the Pickens child born in the Palace. During the Civil War, as first lady of South Carolina, she was known as "Lady Lucy, Queen of the Confederacy." She was the only woman with the distinction of having her picture on Confederate currency notes. Her likeness is shown on the $100 bills of 1863 and 1864 and on the one dollar notes of 1862.

Her home at Marshall served as headquarters for the Confederate Post Office Department during the Civil War and later was used as the music building of Bishop College, before the college moved to Dallas.

Lucy died in 1899 at Marshall and is buried in the family cemetery at Edgewood. Lucy Pickens and Lucile Hallmark (Mrs. E. E.) are both descendants of William Holcombe. Mrs. Hallmark of Dallas, has one of the Confederate notes bearing Lucy's likeness.

A BACKWARD LOOK

Sarah Ward Gambill always insisted that she was born in South Carolina in 1794. Records of that State indicate that her family must have resided in Laurens County. The 1790 Census there shows as household heads James, Sarah, Jeremiah, and William Ward, also James Medole and John McDole as well as one Lewis Banton. This last name probably signifies the man for whom John Ward named his last born. No Jesse is here as possible father of John, but could have been in the county without being listed or dead. The official list of immigrants into the state show no John Ward. The genealogical encyclopedia shows one Jesse Ward in N.C., born about 1750(?) and he could have been the father of John of Ky. The old Jeremiah in Laurens Co. in 1790 could have been Sarah Gambill's uncle or great uncle.

Two men named John Ward appear in the 1790 tax list for Fayette Co., Ky., Fayette and Lincoln having been formed from Kentucky County, Va., in 1780. A Will for one dated 1790 says he was "late of Greenbrier, Va." Several Ward's established families in colonial America at very early dates, so that by 1790 literally hundreds of households carried the name. In order to identify further this particular line more study is needed of those in Laurens Co., S.C., and their neighbor, Lewis Banton; also on the Lewis Ward who went to Illinois with George R. Clark during the Revol. War. Did he or his descendants relate to the large and cohesive group at "Ward Settlement" on the Sangamon when Widow Mary McDole or McDowell Ward went there?

JAMES GAMBILL AND HIS WIFE ALICE MORGAN

On the Kentucky frontier

James Gambill, pioneer of the Kentucky-Tennessee border, was on that frontier as early as 1792 and probably several years earlier, according to Goodspeed's History of Tennessee (1886 ed.) An original settlers' certificate for land number 2533 was issued Oct. 3, 1798, to Phoebe Morgan, likely the aunt of his wife. Final survey and settlers' grant 3075 were issued to him Dec. 5, 1798, as assignee of Phoebe Morgan for 200 acres in Logan Co., Ky., "North of the Barren Plains" and south of Green River. Neighbors were Huey, Pitts, Moore, Babb, and Scoggins. Eventually the final stateline bisected his holding so that part lay in Logan Co., Ky., while the remainder was in Robertson Co., Tenn. At an early date, William, eldest son, lived on the Kentucky part, the father residing the rest of his life in Tennessee near Springfield. The 1795 tax list for Logan Co., shows James Gambill's household of two grown males.

Exact date of his birth is unknown. Benjamin Franklin Gambill, who died in Denton, Texas, 1907, left testimony that his grandfather was James Gambill, born in Virginia, moved from North Carolina to Kentucky and died there. William Gambill I, the father of James, had gone from Culpeper Co., Va., to Wilkes Co., N.C. ca 1775. The marriage of James occurred in 1785 and we assume that he was born in Culpeper Co., Va., ca 1767-68.

EARLY RECORDS

First record of him in his signature as a witness to the Will of his father, William I, in Wilkes Co., 1779. John Morgan, Sr., soon to become his father-in-law, was also a signer. Morgan went to what is now Sumner Co., Tenn., as early as 1785, and it is likely that Gambill had been to Kentucky long before 1792. His brother, John, owned land in Logan Co., but seems not to have lived on it. In the immediate vicinity in which James and Alice settled lived many relatives, for example various Ward's and Morgan's.

James Gambill married Alice Morgan in Wilkes Co., N. C., July 26, 1785. Their first child, William, was born in North Carolina in 1786, later ones in Kentucky. John Morgan having gone in 1785 to his grant on Bledsoe's Creek, it is likely that the young couple moved to the frontier prior to 1790. On June 17, 1795, James Gambill witnessed the first Will ever recorded in Logan Co., Ky., that of Jeremiah Morgan (Bk. A, p. 1). The deed book at Springfield, seat of Robertson Co., shows that on Jan. 26, 1797, William Baldwin of that county sold land to him.

HIS WILL

James Gambill wrote his Will on October 10, 1841, naming no wife. Four hundred dollars were to be given to son, William, before any other claim was honored except funeral expenses. James M. Fyke, "that married my daughter, Elizabeth" to receive ownership of negro girl Mahala. After William has received his four hundred dollars, and Fyke the girl, estate to be divided equally between these "heirs": William, Sally Moore, John, Benjamin, James M. Fyke, Polly Strother, and Susan Moore. The children seem to have been: sons, William, John, and Benjamin Gambill and daughters, Sarah (Sally), Elizabeth (deceased), Polly (Mary), and Susan. The Will was proved at Springfield in 1846, witnesses John C. Patterson (?) and John Samuel. (Bk. 13, p. 25) Meanwhile in 1843 the court had issued a letter of administration to Benjamin, seemingly at request of his father, and Benjamin filed settlement report on Oct. 6, 1848. (Robertson Co., Tenn., rec. Bk. 11,453)

FYKE TESTIMONY

Affidavit of James Morgan Fyke or Fike to General John Morgan Bright, made 1864, made at Fike's Ferry, Perry Co., Ala., "on the Cahaba River", Ala., and released in Fayetteville, Lincoln Co., Tenn., Jan., 1906, by Matthew M. Bright, attorney. (Va. Hist. Mag., v. 54, p. 264):

"My great grandfather, Squire John Morgan, had five daughters, namely, Charity, Mary, Alcey, Susan." (He omitted Elizabeth)" Charity married Bradley Gambill of Sumner County, where they lived, raised a large family, and died. Mary married twice, first her cousin Jeremiah, by whom she had two children, Susan and Armstead Morgan. Susan married Elijah Fike, had two children, and lived in Sumner County. Armstead moved to Mississippi and left a large family. ...Alcy or Alice married Harry Gamble, brother of James, and they lived in Robertson County, Tenn., where she died leaving four sons and three daughters, namely, Polly and Susan (both died young) Sally married a man named Moore, William moved to Texas, John married and lived in Robertson County and Thomas died young." (Fyke overlooked Benjamin). "Susan Morgan married Lewis Powers and lived on Duck River in Tenn."

Comment on this testimony might be made as follows: In 1841 when James Gambill wrote his Will he referred to daughter Susan as Susan Moore, whereas Fyke says she married Powers. An interesting fact is that he suggests both her parents were alive when Elizabeth Fike died. Also indicated is the fact that James Gambill had a fourth son named Thomas, who had died before the Will was written. A deed dated 1-25-1829 (Bk. U, p. 105) shows that James conveyed to son Benjamin 230 acres and that one witness was a Thomas J. Gambill. If this Thomas was a son, he seems to have died between 1829 and 1841.

ILLUSTRIOUS ASSOCIATES

James Gambill participated in historic events and associated with famous men. Along the trail from Wilkes Co., N. C., to Bledsoe's Creek, Benjamin Morgan, his wife's uncle, was slain by Indians, and the widow, Phoebe, eventually assigned her land grant to him. On June 17, 1795, he witnessed the will of Jeremiah Morgan, Ensign, of Revolutionary War fame, which will was the first one ever recorded in Logan Co., Ky. (Bk. A, p. 1) Jeremiah, son of Simon, had married his cousin, Mary Morgan, sister of James' wife. Closely allied was William Hall, briefly governor of Tennessee and referred to by the historian W. T. Moore as "one of the purest men" ever in that high office. (Tennessee the Volunteer State, v. 2, p. 139) James Gambill's brother-in-law, Capt. John Morgan, also called Junior, had married Mary Hall, daughter of Gov. Hall. Charles Morgan, likewise a pioneer along the Tennessee-Kentucky border, and brother of John, married Ann Hall, another daughter of the governor.

When he went to the Logan County frontier in 1798, James must have been between 25 and 30 years old and had already seen history being made. If he had served in the Revolutionary War, we have been unable to prove a military service among the numerous ones by the same name. Probably he was barely too young. He had gone through the long trek from Culpeper Co., Va., to the wilds of Roaring River in North Carolina. Immediately his father took up a large number of land grants and established Gambill's Hollow Baptist Church, recorded in the history of that denomination. (See Land of Wilkes by Judge J. J. Hayes) Violent Indian attacks shook the settlements. Then came the cataclysm of war against England, and his father went away to soldiers' camp, only to come home in dying condition. James witnessed and signed his father's will. (Wilkes Co., N.C., 1779) Then, following the death of his parent, he helped his mother, Mary ____, in running the plantation, from which supplies were furnished the colonial troops (N. C. Rev. War Pay Vouchers, 760, 935, etc.) As recounted in the pension declaration of John Hammon (S9559) James' uncle, Martin Gambill, was a hero of the Battle of King's Mountain. Thomas Gambill, another uncle, survived several major battles. Typical of his time and place, James possessed knowledge of land surveys, grants, titles, and courthouse procedures. His name appears often as trustee or witness. And he may have been one of several men by the same name who served in the military force of Tennessee during the War of 1812.

ALICE MORGAN GAMBILL

Concerning Alice Morgan Gambill, wife of James of Robertson Co., Tennessee, only the most meager personal information exists, but much background knowledge is at hand. In 1864 at Fayetteville, Tenn., James Morgan Fike, of Fike's Ferry, Ala., a proven great grandson of John Morgan, Sr., testified under oath to General John Morgan Bright, detailing the lineage of the Tennessee Morgan's. (Va. Mag., v. 54, p. 263, 1946) Alice, daughter of John Morgan, Fike said, married Henry Gambill and lived in Robertson Co., Tenn. This statement is not altogether correct, as Alice or Alcy married James, the brother of Henry. (Wilkes Co., N.C., marriage records, 7-24-1785) Charity, the sister of Alice, married Henry Gambill, brother of James. (Ibid., 10-6-1778)

Alice was the daughter of Squire John Morgan, also referred to as "Senior", who died in Sumner Co., Tenn., 1785-86; the wife of James Gambill, who died in Robertson Co., Tenn., prior to 1848; and the mother of William Gambill who died in Fannin Co., Tex., between 1868 and 1891. She was born in Fauquier Co., Va., ca 1768 and the name of her mother was Elizabeth _____. Her grandfather, Charles Morgan, held extensive acreage in Culpeper and Fauquier Counties, while her great grandfather, Anthony Morgan is on record selling land in Old Rappahannock Co., Va., in 1669. (Bk. 7, p. 237)

Her name does not appear on her husband's transactions in Kentucky and Tennessee; nor does his will mention her. It is assumed that she had died before 1841 but no proof. By 1820 she had been married 35 years and had grandchildren. Nor only her father but also a host of Morgan kin migrated early to middle Tennessee, and James Gambill lived in close association with them, according to voluminous records.

Here are a few outstanding circumstances by which her life can be followed. The marriage of Charity to Henry Gambill in Wilkes County in 1778 indicates that the family had moved from Virginia to North Carolina by then. In 1779 John Morgan witnessed the Will of William Gambill, James Gambill also witnessing. The N.C. census of 1784-87 shows James Gambill in Wilkes Co. with wife and one child, William, the first having been born in 1786. On 3-21-1785, James witnessed the marriage of his sister Sarah to John Nawl (Nall). Benjamin Morgan, Alice's half-uncle and the half-brother of her father, made up a party to migrate to Bledsoe's Creek in what is now Sumner Co., Tenn. This was in 1784-85. On 4-17-1786 John Morgan received a N.C. grant for 640 acres on that creek, a reward for military service in the 10th N.C. Regiment, Capt. Railford, during the Revolutionary War. (N.C. Land Grant, Bk. 66, p. 184, file 1164). The original entry for the grant is dated 1783. His military service had carried him to the area. James Gambill witnessed a deed in Wilkes Co. in 1786, Henry Gambill to Wm. Clark (Bk. A, p. 483). According to Goodspeed's History of Tennessee (1886 edition) James was on the frontier of Kentucky by 1792 or earlier. The 1795 Tax List for Logan County includes his household and proves the presence of Alice and William there then. He had deeds in Tennessee and Kentucky as early as 1795 but no wife signed. His will (Bk. 13, p. 25, Robertson Co., Tenn.) lists three sons alive and four daughters, son Thomas having died young according to Fike's testimony. On 1-25-1829 James Gambill conveyed land to "son" Benjamin, witnesses including Thomas J. Gambill. The nature of the indenture indicates that the Thomas signing was Alice's son; hence, we conclude that Thomas died between 1829 and 1841.

She met great tragedies. During the winter of 1785-86 the Indian Halfmoon killed her father just outside the gate to his fort, as is described in Cisco's Historic Sumner County. In Tennessee, however, Alice had three sisters nearby; Charity in Robertson Co.; Phoebe, wife of Leonard West in Logan Co., Ky.; and Mary also in Logan Co. On 11-28-1789 Mary married in Sumner County her cousin Jeremiah Morgan. He died in 1795 and she married John Fike. (Logan Co., Ky., deed bk. E, p. 3).

Two other items of historical interest in the life of Alice Morgan Gmbill may be mentioned. James Gambill's land grant in Logan Co. later fell in Robertson Co., Tenn. The final survey, dated 12-5-1798, rested upon an original homesteader's certificate #2533 issued to Phoebe Morgan, a woman. Two women named Phoebe Morgan existed within the immediate family group, namely, Phoebe Settle Morgan, widow of Benjamin and Alice's aunt, and also Phoebe Morgan West, Alice's sister. Which had received the certificate is unknown. James Gambill's grant was made final on 11-17-1806, at which time he paid the state $68.47 for the 200 acres. Another interesting item lies in the fact that Phoebe Morgan West named one son Fielding. Mrs. Hiden's article on Anthony Morgan (Tyler's Quarterly, v. 25, p. 270) says: "...Anthony Morgan likely related to Charles Morgan of Bristol, England, who held power of attorney from Edward Fielding, administrator of Ambrose Fielding of Northumberland Co., Va."

BOOK REVIEW

A FAMILY RECORD: STEPHENS

By Donald Lewis Osborn

Published in 1973 this book is a descending genealogy of Benjamin Stephens, born in Orange County, Virginia in 1779, and his wife, Agnes Nelson - - mostly in (but not limited to) Boone County, Kentucky and Cass County, Missouri, with Calvert and Ryle kin and miscellaneous records.

The cover, extending across front and back depicts the home and family of William S. Stephens, a grandson of Benjamin Stephens, near the shores of Grand River, Grand River Township, Cass County, Missouri in the summer of 1900. Left to right they are: Ruth, Mrs. Judith F., holding Lucille, Mary, William S., and William S., Jr. The family moved from Missouri to Oregon twice and to Arkansas once and back to Missouri each time, according to William, the only person in the photograph yet living in 1973.

The book may be ordered from the author at 322 Willow Way, Lee's Summit, Missouri 64063. Price $4.00 per copy.

"ORPHAN CARS"

The Nebraska State Historical Society, Lincoln, Nebraska, has in its archives some material on the orphan trains. They are interested in obtaining clippings and personal reminiscences and any families, who have connections with the orphan-adoption movements, are invited to correspond with their Society Director.

The homeless children of the East, wards of New York City, including the Children's Aid Society, the Protestant Episcopal Orphan home and the Catholic Foundling Hospital arrived in Nebraska on Orphans Train or Cars in the early 1900's and up to the 1920's. Some prior arrangements were possible for the placement of these waifs, ages three and up, but some were heartlessly paraded before prospective parents on the depot platform.

A reunion was held for the orphans in 1962 at Grand Island. Over 50 persons attended from the mid-western states. One of the better known orphans who did not attend, is Harry Karl, wealthy manufacturer and husband of Debbie Reynolds.

Atlanta, Georgia was first named Terminus, because it was the end of a rail line. In 1843 the name was changed to Marthasville, in honor of Martha Lumpkin, daughter of a former governor. In 1845 the name was changed again, this time to Atlanta, a coined word which was believed to be the feminine version of Atlantic.

Gray Gables was a show place in Holly Springs, Mississippi, after the first bath room in the county was installed in the palatial dwelling, belonging to James House. His family kept it so. When a lovely old lady, a descendant of the family, came back to Holly Springs for a visit, she remarked, "I've always hated this house." When asked why, she replied, "Because we children were never permitted to enter the dining room. We ate all of OUR meals on the cellar steps." -- From, IT HAPPENED HERE, True stories of Holly Springs by Olga Reed Pruitt.

THE PASCHALL FAMILY
GENELOGICAL RESEARCH COMMITTEE

Bulletin No. 3 - December 1972

Why Bulletin No. 3?

Bulletin No. 1 was by Edward Early Paschall on December 1, 1924. The next was Bulletin No. 2 by Walter Bearden Paschall on May 5, 1936. Therefore this is No. 3 by Captain F. Allen Johnston.

Genealogy on the Paschal/Paschall family began in 1909 by Edward Early Paschall. In the 1920's he teamed up with Walter Bearden Paschall. After Edward Early's death in 1933, Walter Bearden obtained the assistance of Rev. Jacob Colson Paschal and his son, Rev. Paul C. Paschal. After the deaths of Jacob Colson Paschal and Walter Bearden, Rev. Paul took over. Now his health will not permit his doing this work so we, Mary and Allen Johnston, have accepted Rev. Paul's offer of continuing the research. We are in the process of making a chart for each individual who married, showing his children, wife and where known, wife's family, on all the data gathered since this research began in 1909.

Rosa, wife of John Paschal, with the assistance of Rev. Paul, in 1969 published a book, "Some Paschal Ancestors, Descendants, and Allied Families." At that time, Rose was working on mainly the descendants of Samuel, the first son of William of the North Carolina Grants; we had started a book of the descendants of Elisha, the fifth son of that William. We are trying to up-date all of this material and expand it over all thirteen children of William and keep this research alive.

WILL OF WILLIAM PASCHAL: In the name of God, Amen, the day of May, 1774, I, William, Paschal, of St. John's Parish, the County of Bute and Providence of North Carolina, being very sick and weak in body, but of perfect mind and memory, thanks being given unto God therfor, calling unto mind the morality of my body and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make this my last Will and Testament. That is to say, principally and first of all I reccomend my soul into the hands of God that give it and for my body I reccomend it to the earth to be buried in a Christian-like and decent manner at the discretion of my executors, nothing doubting but I shall receive the same again by the mighty powers of God at the general resurrection. And as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased Almighty God to bless me in this life, I give, devise and dispose of the same in the following manner and form: Imprimis, it is my will and I do order that in the first place all my just debts be paid and funeral charges be justified. Item. I give and devise to my sons, Samuel, John, Isaiiah, William, Elisha, James and Dennis, the sum of one shilling sterling to each of them, to them, their heirs and assigns forever. Item. It is my desire that my wife, Tabitha, enjoy a part of the land and plantation whereon I now live during her natural life, towit: Beginning at a Hickory in Phillip Burfords line, thence running in a straight line to a Poplar in Thomas Paschall's spring branch, said to the thence said branch to Peter Twitty's line. Item. I give and devise to my son Thomas the remainder of the aforesaid tract of land, including the whole, after the death of my wife, with all improvements and appurtenances thereunto, belonging to him, his heirs and assigns, forever. Item. I give to my daughter, Sarah, 150 acres of my tract in Granville, lying on the south side of Elisha Paschall's land, to her and to her assigns forever. Item. It is my desire that my son (inlaw) and daughter Richard and Diana King, also have the use of 150 acres of my land in Granville, during their natural lives to be laid off nn the south of my Daughter Sarah's, which said land shall descend to their son, Engles, at their decease, to him, his heirs and assigns forever. Item. I give and devise to my daughters, Rachel and Ruth, the remainder of my land in Granville, to be divided between them equally, to them, their heirs and assigns forever. Item. The forty pounds that is in the hands of Archer and Grover, I give and devise to my daughter Reliance, to her and her heirs forever. As also I give to my said daughter the two cows, with half their increase, I give to the said Richard King. I also give to my said daughter, Reliance, one bed and furniture, which said moneys, goods and chattels shall be delivered to my said daughter at the age of 18 years, or at the day of her marriage. Item. I give to my son, Thomas, one gelding horse known by the name of Lewis. Item. I also give Tabitha, my said wife, the remainder of my livestock and household furniture, to raise my said daughter, Reliance. And lastly, I constitute, appoint and ordain my sons, Dennis and Thomas Paschal, executors of my last will and testament; revoking and annulling all others. In witness whereof the said William Paschal hath hereunto set his hand and affixed his seal the day and year first above written. Signed, Sealed, Published, Pronounced and Declared by the said William Paschall as his last will and testament.

Revising the Bulletin is for the purpose of locating all Paschal/Paschall and allied lines of William Paschall who died in Warren Co., (Old Bute) North Carolina in 1774. Also, to continue the search to locate, with proof, the parents of that William, along with the Thomas of Pennsylvania, and George of Maryland.

Rev. Paul C. Paschal reproduced the Paschal/Paschall Coat-of-Arms in color. The size is 5" by 7". Copies are available as well as membership in The Paschall Family Genealogical Research Committee. Contact Capt. F. Allen Johnston, Rt. 1, Box 162, Dime Box, TX 77853.

Work on the Elisha Paschall (born 1735) is being closed out after five years of research. There are more than 6,000 names in this compilation, which goes to the printers Apr. 1, 1973. I, Mary, feel honored to contribute this time and effort to memorialize my ancestor, Elisha Paschall, under whose name I am a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A summary of our trip this past summer researching the Elisha Paschall genealogy: June 14, 1972, left Dime Box, Texas, and after a short visit in Dallas, Texas, we arrived in Brookfield, Mo., on June 20th for a five day visit with Rev. Paul and his wife, Leola, going over the records accumulating since 1909. It was during this visit Rev. Paul turned his data over to us to revive the Bulletin. June 27th we arrived in LaPorte, Indiana, for a two day visit with a distant cousin and then headed for Tennessee.

June 30, we arrived in Paris, Tennessee, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Nichols and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Nichols. Our stay in Paris found us researching records in Henry County and the five adjacent counties looking for some proof on descendants of Elisha (1735). Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Paschall and Mrs. Dorothy Sykes were a great help in getting information in Henry County. The time spent there included a visit to the home of Don Paschall near Murray, Kentucky. He took us to see Mrs. Holly Paschall who was kind enough to lend us an old Paschall Bible which had belonged to William Paschall born in 1815, a son of Jesse and Rebecca Paschall. She also furnished us some pictures. One was of the above named William and included pictures of his children and spouses. Mrs. Dorothy Byrn of Murray, Kentucky, was another wealth of information in our researching. Speaking of pictures, we have several of Paschall reunions held in Paris, Tennessee, North Carolina and Texas. These will be included in the Elisha Paschall book.

July 12 found us in Winston-Salem, N.C., our next stop from Paris, Tenn., and we spent three days with Hassel Greene Paschall and wife, Edna. He is descended from Samuel, the first son of William of the Land Grants. July 18, a day with Margie and Norman Greene in Greensboro, then on to Raleigh, N.C., where we visited with two of the descendants of Thomas, the eighth son of William of the Land Grants, Ethel (Paschall) and Wilson Massengil and Mabel (Paschall) Rountree. We spent two days in the North Carolina Archives checking old records among which we picked up a couple of interesting wills. Virginia Beach, Va., was our next stop before Fredericksburg where we made short trips of interest and then on to Philadelphia, Pa. At Independence Hall, Mary had the honor of placing her hands on the Liberty Bell, one of her childhood wishes. Returning to Fredericksburg we spent a day checking the Archives in Richmond, Va. July 27 and 28th was spent in Columbia, S.C. re-searching State Archives. Atlanta, Ga., was our next stop, with two days in State Archives, then headed home to selcome Dorothy and Roger Nichols from Paris, Tennessee.

When I, Mary, started researching the Paschall line, I read several other genealogies mentioning a Paschall who came over with William Penn, Thomas and his wife, Joanna (Sloper). They built their home southwest of Philadelphia on the Schuylkill River and proceeded to raise a family. Later the home was removed from his farm and rebuilt, "levery stick and stone of it," in the town of Paschalville, a small community which is near Chester, whis whole area now being surrounded by the City of Philadelphia. There is a very modern two-story brick building Library which bears the name of Paschalville Branch Library. A few blocks away is the Paschalville Branch of the U. S. Postal Service. A half block away is Paschal Avenue, and the old Paschal home. An historical medallion has been placed over the front door (the original back door) facing Paschal Avenue. The present owner let us see and copy from a book containing a very interesting legend of the beautiful and well preserved home.

Send your application for membership to Mr. Johnston at Dime Box, Texas; (address elsewhere on these pages) and send a query (members only) using not over 30 words and it will be published in the Bulletin free of charge, on a first-come first-serve basis, according to space available. Non-members will pay a fee of 10¢ a word.

LITTLE ARLINGTON OF THE SOUTH

By Olga Reed Pruitt

Although most of the families set aside private burying grounds on their own plantations, HILL CREST came into use in the early days of white occupancy of the Chickasaw cession, in Holly Springs, Marshall County, Mississippi.

No spot marks the last resting place of such great numbers of illustrious dead as does this little Arlington of the South. They are all here, those who make an Arlington of a sacred plot of ground, American statesmen, military and naval leaders and private citizens. Many of the earlier stones have collapsed and have been carted away but enough remain to establish the beginning of the memorial spot.

Mrs. Susan Thomas, born in Granville, S.C., died in Holly Springs, Nov. 19, 1838.

Martha E., wife of M. Blake, died September 12, 1839.

Ann W. Morgan, consort of John Morgan, died September 6, 1840.

The Unknown Soldier is here, in a uniform of Yankee blue and near him sleeps his adversary in a rebel uniform of Confederate gray.

There is a shaft to the memory of Micajah Autrey, one of the Alamo martyrs to Liberty's Cause, who perished during the days between Feb. 23 and March 6, 1836, when 150 revolutionists were killed at the Alamo Mission in the Texas War of Independence.

Samuel A. Cole, of the Marshall Guards, fell at Matamoros, Mexico, in October 1846 in the Mexican War and was brought home to rest.

In this Little Arlington all but two of the generals from Holly Springs who marched away to war in 1861 lie buried: Major-General Edward C. Walthall, Brigadier-General Samuel Benton, Brigadier-General Winfield S. Featherston, Brigadier-General Daniel C. Govan, Brigadier-General Christopher H. Mott, Brigadier-General Absolom M. West, General Henry E. Williamson, Adj-General Thomas A. Falconer, Adj-General Kinlock Falconer, Asst. Adj-General Harvey W. Walter.

Another warrior who didn't get back from World War I is honored with a memorial: Liet. Samuel C. Gholson, "killed in action on the Battlefield of France in Meuse-Argonne offensive Oct. 4, 1918. Buried in France."

On a quiet, sunny slope, John Lester, one of a group of eleven men who were the first American soldiers to be taken prisoners in World War I is at rest. He was captured with ten of his buddies in the Toul sector of France on Nov. 3, 1917.

Lieut. Commander Edward R. Freeman of the U. S. Navy came home from the sea and from his birthplace in far off Norway, Lieut. Colonel Hans Oscar Olson of the U.S. Army, served America over the face of the earth to find peace at last in this quiet place.

There are stories here -- true stories more interesting than fiction.

"Louisa A. Hill, consort of Byrd Hill, born May 15." Her husband was a wealthy man of the era, engaging in the most lucrative business of the times---slave trading.

The talented young girl who could have been the understudy to the great Julia Marlowe is here: Perle Strickland Badow. When Charles Frohman first tried to interest her in the role, illness of her mother prevented her acceptance. Three times she was ready to sign a contract with Mr. Frohman and three times devotion to her family prevented.

Sherwood Bonner is here. The woman who had the courage to be the first of her sex in Holly Springs to engage in the shocking pleasure of smoking cigarettes; Nettie Wooten is close by.

Will Coyle was the first person interred in the "new" part of Hill Crest, the section that was a baseball field until taken in as part of the cemetery in 1905. He was killed with a baseball bat.

Lester G. Fant, a friend of the late F. D. R. and ally at political conventions, sleeps here.

The beautiful iron gates at one of the west entrances form a memorial to Confederate Captain Jesse W. Wynne and Margaret Ross Wynne. Another testimonial is this stone: "Erected by J. T. Pickett, DD, Rev. Joseph H. Ingraham LLD, Minister of Christ, scholar, author, once Rector of Christ Church, Born in Maine Jan. 26, 1809, died in Holly Springs Dec. 18, 1860." Dr. Pickett sleeps near his friend.

The Press monument was unveiled June 5, 1890, "in memory of Editors of Mississippi Press Federation who died of yellow fever in 1878: W. J. L. Holland, Kinloch Falconer, W. J. Adams, O. V. Sherer, Singleton Garnett and J. P. Allen.

A stone that tightens the throat carries the last letter of 15-year-old Robert Walter McGuirk, Jr. to his father:

*"Memphis, Tenn. Dec. 20, 1906. Christmas letter to Dad.
Dear Pap: You went off without leaving ma any spondulix. You know I want to give Mother a comb, brush and mirror and I want you to send me $10 or $20 maybe.*

When you send me the money please address the letter to me for I want it to be a surprise to Mother and I have to get a lot of other presents so I will be obliged to you if you come across with about 15 bucks.

All are well, Your loving son, Walter.

P.S. Please send as soon as possible and be sure to address the letter to me so that I will give her a surprise. Don't be afraid that the money will be spent foolishly for I am an old head."

Only a few tree-shaded acres were included in the cemetery in the beginning on the crest of a hill. As settlers poured into the community, more space was taken in. The stables and lot of the Sims stagecoach stand gave way to a baseball field which in turn was abandoned for the encroaching cemetery.

Hill Crest now spreads over more than twenty-five acres and the first young trees that murmured a requiem over those first graves a century ago are now giant hoary monarchs groaning with their great age.

EARLY RICHARDSON (TEXAS) NOTES

As Told by Margie Renfrow

Margie Renfrow was born about five miles north of Richardson (Plano), Texas, in a farm house which stood where the main building of the University of Plano now stands. They moved to Richardson in the housing boom of 1955. Her mother still lives in one of the first modern brick homes built west of the Central Expressway. It is quite small in comparison to the later more modern homes.

There was an era of restlessness in the 1840's in a young nation with frontiers to conquer, especially true for the adventuresome men of Kentucky and Tennessee. It was from these states that most of the early settlers of Richardson came. These men, with their families were of strong physical and moral strength with a great faith in God.

Wagons were loaded with staples and children, the family slaves who came along and who played an important part in the long journey, cows and horses were brought along. The trip took two months from the time they left the mountains of Tennessee until they reached the prairie to be greeted by a sunset that stretched from horizon to horizon.

Fear was a constant companion because of the Indians. Buffalo herds and the abundance of wildlife caused great excitement among the children and possibly the elders as well.

Joseph Prigmore came from Kentucky. He was born in Kentucky in 1807. With him was his wife, Mahaly, born 1810 in Ohio, and five children, all born in Missouri: Benjamin J., age 12; Sarah A., age 16; Sylvesta, age 12; Jackson, age 9; and Joe L., age 7. About 1843 they arrived in Texas where Issiah and Elizabeth were born 1845 or '46, and two years later, Jane was born.

John Jackson came in 1846. He was born in Tennessee in 1798. The Jacksons and Prigmores inter-married. Robert F. Campbell and Jacob Routh arrived in 1851, John Huffines and John B. Floyd in 1852. One Creath Renfro, born in Kentucky in 1807, came to this area before 1850.

The first shelters built were mere pole shanties to live in until ground could be cleared and cabins built. The Prigmores and Jacksons settled in an area near what is now the Richland Junior College. The Floyds built the first two-story house in Dallas County, near Abrams Road and Valley View. The village was called Breckenridge, and had a blacksmith shop and a store. Due to distance between settlements at the time, the Floyd home soon became an Inn and as the area became more settled, the Inn became a stage coach stop.

The Huffines settled in what is now East Richardson, and John Huffines built one of the first finest homes in the area not too far from Greenville Road.

The Campbells settled in the north part of Richardson in the area now called Campbell Road and extends to Prairie Creek Drive.

The Rouths settled still farther north from the Campbells at what is now Renner Road and Central Expressway. Jacob Routh, a Baptist minister, established the Spring Creek Baptist Church on his property, his home also becoming a stage stop. The Rouths and Campbells came west together and started the first school of one room, the "Mt. Vale School."

In 1861, the Civil War came just as construction on homes was at a high. Men laid down their tools and prepared to fight for the South. Many did not return. Among those that took up arms were Frank Armstrong, A. D. and W. L. Campbell, Col. Coit, William Loveless and many more. The old men, women and children had a hard time, neighbor helping neighbor. Some cotton was produced and distributed by the soldiers who took over, issuing the women enough for clothing needs.

A tornado hit Richardson in 1867, sweeping through the village causing great destruction, killing a Prigmore girl and a family of slaves. Again in 1924, another tornado hit, killing one and injuring 123 persons. Property damage were nine houses destroyed with damage extending seven miles west of Richardson to three miles west of Garland.

In 1873 Jack Wheeler and a Mr. Ryley gave land for a townsite and right-of-way for the Houston Texas Central Railway. They named the townsite after E. H. Richardson, contractor for the railroad. The people of Breckenridge moved to town without delay. Texas Street and Main Street was the center of town. Buildings on the two streets were A. R. White's General Store, Allen Drug Store, later owned by the Harbens Post Office. The framework of the old Post Office is still within the walls of the Richardson Clinical Lab on Texas Street.

The private school was replaced by a state school in 1880. It was called the Wheeler School which was located where the Sun Rexall Drugs is now located. In 1900 it was moved to the Greenville Avenue location, replaced in 1914 by the red brick building that now houses the Schools Administration Offices.

In 1908, the Interurban came through Richardson on its Dallas to Dennison run, remaining in operation until 1948. People drove their buggies to Richardson and took the Interurban to the big city.

Social life centered around the Churches and the Volunteer Fire Department, as it did in surrounding towns in the early days.

On June 22, 1925, the city incorporated and elected its first mayor, T. F. McKamy. There were 106 votes cast at the meeting. The next year the Volunteer Fire Department was set up. John Jordan was Firechief and G. C. Huffhines was Fire Marshall. Richardson began to grow and had a population of 740 in 1940. The first two policemen were Chief Jack Stultz and Officer J. W. Golden. Chief Stultz died soon after and his place was taken by Officer Golden. The first paid fireman was Chief Richard Russell in 1956. Richardson was still a lazy little farm town with a population of about 1,200.

The big boom came in 1955-1956 with the Central Expressway, with industries following closely and the little town of Richardson soon changed into a suburban community. "Cotton Patch to Housing Center" was the description coined by Times Herald in 1955 with the opening of Richardson Heights Housing Area. Our first 100 years are at an end with many residents not realizing we have a history. The Centennial Committee is working to make this history important, not only for the Centennial Year, but ongoing effort for community pride.

12th ANNUAL GENEALOGICAL WORKSHOP
A FEATURE OF THE ANNUAL GATHERING OF THE SCOTTISH CLANS IN HISTORIC SALADO
SATURDAY, 11th NOVEMBER, 1972, SALADO COUNTRY CLUB

Submitted by Mrs. Harry Joseph Morris, C.G., F.H.G.

Mrs. Harry Joseph Morris, C.G., F.H.G., of Dallas, who is a Trustee and permanent Chairman of the Library of the Central Texas Area Museum, Inc., again conducted the 12th Annual Genealogical Exchange at the 12th Annual Gathering Of The Scottish Clans in the Salado Country Club, at historic Salado, in Bell County, Texas, which was established in 1825 on a land grant from Mexico, by Major Sterling Clack Robertson, from which all or part of 30 Central Texas Counties were later organized.

As has been her custom for a number of years, Mrs. Morris has served as Director of the Annual Genealogical Exchange, for which a small registration donation is requested, which has been presented to the Central Texas Area Museum, Inc., for the Building Fund for the proposed new auditorium and genealogical library for the Museum, in Salado, which is located directly across the street from the historic and famous Old Stage Coach Inn, both of which stand in the shadows of what was the old Salado College, now in ruins, which was chartered from Texas in 1859.

Salado which was nominated for the capital of Texas in 1875 by Col. Robertson while he was helping to write the Constitution of Texas, and which is surrounded by 16 Central Texas Counties which were named for men who had Scottish surnames, has become the site of the Annual Gathering Of The Scottish Clans, and each year in the early part of November, becomes an exciting scene of colorful Scottish banners, tartans, with the music of the Scottish bagpipes filling the air, while there is Highland Dancing, games and contests, with everyone in the dress of their respective clans, although there are equally as many who come just because of the fun and excitement of the gala event. All of this formed a colorful and stimulating background for the opening event, which was the Genealogical Exchange!

Mrs. Morris recruited a most interested and well qualified staff to assist her with the Workshop this year. They included Mrs. Exa W. Thomas of Richardson, Texas, Author, Editor, Columnist, of Genealogical Books and Publications, in charge of Registration; and Mrs. D. A. (Betty) Mattoon, of Fort Worth, Texas, Treasurer of the Texas State Genealogical Society and Historian of the Fort Worth Genealogical Society, in charge of Genealogical Displays, to which everyone attending was invited to bring their own genealogical materials to display along with the special display assembled especially for the Workshop.

Speakers for the Program included Mrs. Harry Joseph Morris, C.G., F.H.G., F.A.S., F.M.H.S., F.T.S.G.S., Dallas, Texas, Author and Editor of Genealogical Books and Publications, Certified Genealogist, Heraldist, Lecturer, Vice President and Charter Founder Member and Fellow of Texas State Genealogical Society, Charter Founder Member and Vice-President of the Southwestern Council of Genealogical and Historical Societies, Member of many Genealogical, Heraldic, Historical, Hereditary, Lineage Societies, in America and around the World, holding Honorary Memberships in many, Fellow of Heraldry and Genealogy; Honorary Fellow Harry S. Truman Library Institute; and a Founder-Fellow of the Historical Research Institute, who began the lectures with "The 11th International Congress Of Genealogical and Heraldic Sciences, 1972", and "Heraldry In The Republic Of Texas, 1519-1846". She then introduced Mrs. Buford Curtis of Fort Worth, Texas, Author, Editor, Publisher, of Genealogical Books and Publications, Publisher of "Magazine of Bibliographies", Recording Secretary of the Texas State Genealogical Society, Charter Founder Member and Recording Secretary of

The Southwestern Council of Genealogical And Historical Societies. The subject of her lecture was "Everything You Have Wanted To Know About Publishing Your Family History." Mrs. Morris then introduced Dr. Malcolm D. McLean, of Fort Worth, Texas, Assistant Dean of Arts and Sciences, Texas Christian University, and Professor of Spanish, Texas Christian University, Fort Worth. Dr. McLean presented "The Meaning of San Jacinto", on which he is an authority. Following Dr. McLean's lecture, Mrs. Morris introduced Mr. C. George Younkin, of Arlington, Texas, Director of the United States Regional Archives at Fort Worth, who had as his subject, "Research In The United States Regional Archives At Fort Worth, Texas."

Following the usual custom, at the conclusion of the Workshop, the entire group of participants, and those in attendance, adjourned to The Old Stage Coach Inn, for a "Scotch Treat (No Host) Luncheon". Dr. A. A. Grusendorf, Founder and President of the Texas Historical Research Institute at San Marcos, Texas, gave the Invocation and Benediction with Mrs. Morris presiding. The highlight was in presenting the entire proceeds of the 12th Annual Genealogical Exchange to Mrs. Sterling C. Robertson, Executive Secretary-Program Director of The Central Texas Area Museum, Inc., for the Building Fund which has been established for the proposed new auditorium and genealogical library. At the conclusion of the Luncheon, all joined the other events and festivities of the 12th Annual Gathering Of The Scottish Clans, which included the Highland Dancing Contests, Bag-Pipe Bands, Games, with the colorful Ceiligh, Buffet-Dinner, and Tartan Ball, at the Longhorn Room, climaxing the Saturday events, on that evening, 11th November, 1972. The Church Service, followed by the picnic luncheons and the various Clan Meetings followed by the Parade Of The Tartans and Banners on Sunday Afternoon, 12th November, 1972, provided the gala ending for this annual event, which has become so very popular with "Scots or Not", with attendance from all over the United States and many foreign countries.

THE CAT SPRING STORY

Contributed by Florine Mitchell

Members of CAT SPRING AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY are indebted to Johanna Engelking for months of effort in gathering facts on the families of the early settlers of Cat Spring and their descendants -- to E. P. Krueger for his painstaking search for material on the early history of agriculture in Cat Spring area -- to Professor Rudolph Leopold Biesele for his chapter on early German settlements in Texas -- to Miss Ellen-Kloss who assisted in gathering material, and to the CENTENNIAL HISTORICAL COMMITTEE of the Cat Spring Agricultural Society:

William E. A. Weinscher, Chairman

Edmund Reibenstein

J. E. Schaffner

Walter Hillboldt

W. N. Williamson

Arthur L. Schuette

Mattie Della Mahnke, Secretary

who contributed generously of their time in planning and gathering material for this book telling the CAT SPRING STORY.

This is the story of one of the earliest successful German settlements in Texas: Cat Spring is in Austin County, a few miles south-west of the county seat, Bellville. Water was available for livestock and domestic uses. Near the original settlement is a large spring, where it is reported someone killed a wildcat and it was first called Wilcat Spring, but later shortened to Cat Spring (Katezenquelle).

Many names still prominent in the life of Texas are found in the original list of those who first settled here in the early 1830's: Von Roeder, Kleberg, Hintz, Eckelberg, Amsler, Mueller, Welhausen, Meyer, Engelking, Reigenstein, Trencmann, Vornkahl, Regenbrecht, Keuffel and Rinicke. Charles Nagel, born near Cat Spring in 1849, was Secretary of Commerce and Labor under President Taft.

The settlement was founded in 1832 when Austin County had a population of about a thousand people. The little town began to grow and by 1880 it had a gin, a saw mill, a grist mill and a planing mill. There was also a hotel, a saddle shop, a school and church.

Settlers of Teutonic origin came from various parts of Western Europe, such localities as Hanover, Westphalia, Mecklenburg, Oldenburg, Hamburg and Saxony. Others came from Switzerland and Moravia. Not far from Cat Spring was Austin's Colony on the Brazos River, a group of Anglo-Saxons almost in its entirety. Yet Cat Spring and San Felipe developed almost simultaneously, one with an Anglo-Saxon background and the other Teutonic. The cultures of these two people were entirely different; they didn't even speak the same language. They were not members of the same church. Their dress, food habits, manners and customs differed widely. However, the two groups were in complete agreement on one fundamental principle -- democracy. Anglo-Saxon settlements in the United States already had tasted freedom of speech, of the press, and of religion, but this was something new in the lives of the German immigrants. They had been subjected in the old country to political bondage, compulsory military training in peace time, wars, and a type of serfdom that approached the old feudal system. Because of this they came to America seeking those things that Americans had so long enjoyed. They found it and they stayed.

One hundred years later very little of the old town remains; remnants of foundations can still be seen but nothing of the original Cat Spring is intact. The town was moved to a new site in 1895 when the railroad came through. It is still a small town but it has a post office, several stores, two rural mail carriers and a telephone system.

These early people were strong believers in the principle of self-help. To them there was no substitute and the present generation still believes in this principle. It is not unusual to visit one of these German homes now and find the farmer repairing his own farm machinery or building a barn. These people have been known to work together to build a bridge to withstand the most severe type of flood, yet they asked no outside help. A desire to improve themselves socially, politically and economically, was the motivating force that caused these people to leave their homeland and cast their lot with other pioneers in Texas.

Although these early settlers were well educated, they knew little about agriculture. Their determination to learn found final expression in the organization of the Austin County Agricultural Society (Landwirth-schaftlicher Verein) All original minutes of this society still exist - from the date of organization until April 1941, these minutes were written in German but have now been translated into English and are published in another volume.

An unknown writer in 1883 described these people in his own language for the Austin County Times. Mr. E. A. Miller of Bryan, Texas, translated this article which reads in part: "Even in earlier days, Texas seemed to have a wonderful attraction for German settlers. Here Germans have found a new Fatherland. Here you see flaxen haired boys and girls. Their rosy complexions show that the Texas summer heat has not harmed them. You will find on the shady porch of many homes the welcoming of new families with friendship, encouragement and rest. You see the leisurely Saxon with broad Rhineland or the Pfalzer with the Schwalien, the Holsteiner with the Mecklenburger, together with a mixture of Bohemians, Czechs and Swiss, all living together peacefully.

In even greater numbers came the German immigrants after the political battles in Germany during 1848 and 1849. This caused a variety of political exiles, some of whom were noblemen, some small farmers, and others. With this influx of more immigrants, cotton became an important crop. Many log cabins were replaced by better frame houses. Farmers became more prosperous.

The younger generation now hardly realize that their parents came from so many different parts of the world. It is our hope and ambition that our State and our County will continue to develop and that our people will continue to have good government. -- By W. N. Williamson

WHO CAN FIND IT?

Somewhere out in the pasture land just south of Morton Salt, on land leased by the Company to Tom Collins, is a brass elevation marker which needs to be located for historical reasons.
