Dallas Genealogical Society

Dallas, Texas

Editor's page --

As you read this issue of THE DALLAS QUARTERLY, you will note there have been many contributions made to this issue by other members of the Dallas Genealogical Society. This is appropriate, for this is your Quarterly, and should reflect what you are finding that has been especially interesting and helpful to you, for that same item will be of interest and help to others who, hopefully, may read it.

There are other offerings which have been received and which will appear in future issues. We continue to have need of long or short articles that you have, which may be reproduced in a publication such as our Quarterly. They should be of genealogical or historical nature, and it is preferred that they should be about Texas, Louisiana or Oklahoma. People reading The Dallas Quarterly do so hoping to find data concerning their ancestors who lived here or migrated through this area in the past. They go to other publications for genealogical information elsewhere.

We heartily thank those who have assisted us in any way. We especially wish to thank those in the Genealogy Section of the central Dallas Public Library, each one eagerly providing the information requested. We do thank each one. You will have the same courteous treatment when you visit.

We also thank those who have written us from many areas. Even the ones who have criticized have made a contribution, for they have pointed out ways in which improvements have been considered, and if possible, put into effect.

Please send us your Queries -- many members turn first to these pages. With this possible interchange of information we feel we do a service to you, our readers. Many libraries in other parts of the country receive THE DALLAS QUARTERLY, so your queries are in the hands of a great many people, not only Society members, but others as well, and may be for years to come.

This is your publication -- I am here to serve you! Make each issue truly yours!

Sincerely,

Marjorie Radley, Editor

BOOK REVIEWS
by Pat Schrader, Book Review Editor

Here are two reviews, both books were a joy to review.

OUR FRENCH-CANADIAN ANCESTORS Author: Thomas J. Laforest, published 1983. Soft bound, 6"x9", 246 pages. Order from The LISI Press, P.O. Box 1063, Palm Harbor, Florida 33563. $10.50 plus $1.50 postage and handling.

This is a first book in a series of books on French-Canadian ancestors, and it is a jewel! It is intended not only for the genealogist, but for the Frenchman, and for the history buff, - there's something for everyone here.

For the researcher, it contains the family histories of twentyfour craftsmen who came to the Canadian coast between 1635 and 1671. Each individual history includes the life story of the immigrant, his birth place, the date of his marriage, his wife's maiden name and birth place, and names of some of the descendants. Each one of these family histories is well documented with at least fifteen references. For the researcher whose family name is not listed in the Index, there are five Appendices to aid his research. One Appendix consists of a glossary of words which appear to be English, but are really French. Examples of these are:

bail - a lease
donation - a lifetime lease
dot - the wife's dowery

Other Appendices give the location of the many seigneuries and parishes in Canada in 1766, and also the list of sources available for serious researchers. Some of the surnames included are: Portin, Lessard, Levesque, Rheame, Vachon, and Veilleux.

For the Frenchman there are the many maps of France showing the departments as they are today, and another one which shows the provinces as they were under the Old Regime. And for the history buff, there is the well written text about people on a new shore who practiced their trades, were true to their customs, and developed a new way of life.

The book is neat with dark print. The appendices, documentation, and historical perspective make it well worth the price.

THE JAMES McCALLAY FAMILY AND PHILLIPS, McGEE, FISH, AIKEN. Author: Claudine McCallay Dollar, published 1983. Hard bound. 8"x11", 363 pages. Order from Claudine Dollar, Box 487, Blair, OK 73526. $25.00 plus $2.00 postage.

This family History is divided into four major sections and two shorter sections. The four major parts deal with the southern lines of McCallay, Phillips, Fish, and McGee, and the two shorter sections are concerned with Russell-Kimbrough and Aiken-Boden families.

Each of the four major families is traced from the earliest known (and proven) ancestor through several lines to living descendants. There is no speculation concerning relationships, dates or origins. Claudine M. Dollar relates the family stories, then states the facts, gives the sources, and concludes with her own frank analysis of each family genealogy. These are solid conclusions based on many courthouse and federal records, cemetery inscriptions, printed sources, family Bibles, and correspondence. Adding validity to this work are copies of old family letters dated 1846 (p. 18), 1863 (p.196), and 1886 (p.98).

This book is not only a handsome book with many photographs, but it is easy to use. The print is clear and black, and the margins are wide. Researchers of the McCallay family will appreciate the author's careful proof reading and the added insert between p.92 and p.93, - also the heading at the top of each page which identifies the surname of that section.

The book concludes with an eight page every-name index that appears to be accurate and complete (except for the surnames on the added insert). - - - This reviewer asks, "Where's the Ancestor Chart ?"

Pleasant Grove, Fayette Co., Texas, Feb 22, 1850

My Dear Brother RICHARDSON,

Having received a letter from my son James A. J. SMITH, and as many of our friends are solicitous to collect items of intelligence from the El Dorado of the West, and more especially in reference to the lamented demise of our beloved brother and friend, Major John MURCHISON, please give the enclosed a place in your valuable periodical, the Texas Wesleyan Banner, and oblige your brother and friend,
W. P. SMITH.

Santa Cruse, California, Oct. 4, 1849

Dear Pa and Ma.

I arrived at the residence of my uncle Joseph L. MAJORS on last Saturday evening, and can assure you my arrival gave him much joy. When I wrote you from the Pass on the Rio Grande, I was in rather bad health, but as soon as we left the river my health became good. Through the Apache country, to Black Water Creek, we had the finest kind gamma grass, a good road and the entire company in fine health; but on this stream, about four miles from the head of it, we met with our first misfortune -- the loss of our Captain, dear brother and friend, John MURCHISON. He was killed by the accidental discharge of his own gun.

We buried him the same day -- I was in his mess at that time, and did every thing in my power towards putting him away in a decent manner.

We buried him under a beautiful juniper tree, on the bank of the creek. The soil was good for a grave. I took one of my sets of sheet-iron, and put over him for a covering. We interred him in Masonic style, so far as was in our power. The dear Bro. has paid the debt that we will all, sooner or later, have to pay. He and myself had frequent conversations on the subject of religion. He seemed to be at all times firm and fixed in this thing. The following is the inscription on his grave: - "Here lies the remains of John MURCHISON, commander of the company of adventurers to California, organized in La Grange, Fayette county, State of Texas, in May, 1849, and which he conducted thus far towards its destination to the entire satisfaction of every member, when, on Saturday, 28th July, A.D. 1849, he was unfortunately and accidentally killed by the discharge of his own gun. He was a pure, humble Christian, a worthy member of the M. E. Church, South, a good Freemason, and an honest man." May we all imitate his many virtues, and pray to heaven that we may be as well prepared to die! After the interment, we took up the line of march as usual; and in a few days, came to a Spanish town. Mr. McCLURE, cousin Jordon SMITH and myself, concluded to pack and came ahead of the wagons, which we did. The wagons kept up with us several days, as the roads were very fine. The last I saw of them was on Fremont Ridge, on the Gila. The men were all in good health. I would have brought Bro. MURCHISON's son, Duncan, through with me, but Mr. CAMERON thought he had better remain with the wagons, and carry out an arrangement which his father had made with Messrs. CARLPATRICK & BOWER. I have not heard of the company with the wagons since I left the Gila. The route down the Gila is very bad -- some stretches of fifty miles, without one drop of water, and nothing but sand. We suffered a great deal for water down this stream. On this side of the Colorado, for one hundred and fifty miles, water is tolerably plenty. There is a river in the middle of the ninety mile desert, which sprung up this summer, called New river. As I came through the desert, I saw between fifteen hundred and two thousand dead mules; they were started through too early. We traveled of a night coming through the desert; the sand looked like snow. It was dreadful upon horses. We walked some four or five hundred miles, and packed our horses with mesquit beans. We arrived at Col. WILLIAMS' ranch, 450 miles from here; we shared his hospitality, and he refused to charge a cent. On my arrival at Col WILLIAMS, I had my saddle horse and two mules -- all poor. The Col. seeing my situation, took my stock, furnished me with two fresh mules, and on the eve of my leaving, remarked that if I had not money enough to carry me through, that he had plenty, and would give me as much as I wanted. I thanked him, and told him that I had what would answer my purpose. Two hundred and fifty miles from this, my cousin Jordan SMITH, Mr. McCLURE and Mr. DRURY, from La Grange, took shipping for San Francisco. I arrived at my uncle's with a first rate mule, fifty dollars in money, a decent suit of clothes, in good health, fine spirits, and in a country of money. Goods are very cheap at San Francisco. Lumber, at Santa Barbary, is worth four hundred dollars per thousand feet; here, two hundred and fifty dollars. A good beef steer $20; a cow and calf $15. A horse of this country $200. The production of this country -- fine corn by irrigation; wheat and barley of the best quality; sugar cane does well; grapes of the first quality; vineyards all through the country. This country is fine for vegetables of nearly all kinds. Oranges, Figs and other different kinds of fruit. Mineral productions are gold, silver, lead, copper, iron, stone-coal, quicksilver, sulphur, chalk, copperas, salt. As far as I have tried, the last named article is of excellent quality. Water fine; and the best stock country that I ever saw. Valleys are very rich, and the mountains are covered with oats and clover. Our common mustard grows twelve feet high here. There are but few hogs in this country; no turkeys nor bees. The meats of this country are much sweeter and better than those in Texas. We struck the mountains at Austin, and have not been out of sight of them since that time. My uncle lives near the foot of one. As yet I have had but a limited opportunity to know much about the country; but as far as I have seen I am well pleased. Timber is plenty in this region. There are, near this place, eight saw-mills. There is a beautiful view from uncle's door upon the Pacific Ocean. There have been four sailing vessels built here. The mines are not as good as they were last. I expect to visit them in the course of eight or ten days.

There were five schooners in this harbour when I arrived. If I have health I can make money in this country fast. There is a Catholic Church here, and a few Methodist Churches. I gave a dollar for a beautiful pocket Bible since my arrival here. I expect to attach myself to one M.E.Church the first opportunity. There is more wretchedness here than in any country I ever saw. All persons who conduct themselves prudently are healthy. I never have regretted sitting off to this country. Uncle sold two hundred cabbages the other day for two hundred dollars.

My regards to the neighbors and friends, generally.

Your affectionate son,

James A. G. SMITH

(The name was given in the beginning of letter as James A. J. SMITH, but is shown as James A. G. SMITH at the closing.)

Rev. C. RICHARDSON

When I left Houston, I promised to give out a description of the country over which I passed in my travels through the interior, after I found a suitable location. I travelled substantially for about four weeks after I left Houston; I went directly to Washington, thence to Independence which I made a place of general headquarters, for about two weeks. From here I travelled first, all over Washington country; here I saw some of the finest bodies of land, and the most delightful country, for the beauty and richness of its scenery that I ever saw in my life. The tide of emigration to this country, during the last three years has been very rapid, and during the last winter and present spring, has perhaps equalled that of any other part of the State. It appears from all the information that I can obtain in reference to these new settlers, that the majority of them have only made this country a temporary home or residence, until they can have an opportunity of seeing whether they can do better or not.

The extensive prairies, the rich and beautiful cedar hammocks, in connection with the Brazos bottom, all together conspire to render some of the most desirable sections of country through which I have travelled in the State.

After leaving Washington, I traversed the whole region of country up and down the Brazos River, on both sides, from a short distance below the Waco Village near to Richmond, some two or three times, and am thoroughly satisfied from what I have seen of the cotton region in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, that the Brazos bottom is the richest and best bottom land in the United States, or perhaps in the world. It possesses an eminent advantage over any other rich land that I ever saw, from the fact that it requires only one or two years with very little labor, to prepare it for the successful cultivation of cotton, and yet it has thousands of good timber for building, fencing, and other farming purposes, as can be found in the world. The farmers can make, with very little labor on the Brazos, about one fourth more than they can gather; besides they can make a very pretty profit on raising stock, attended with very little trouble.

I have not the least shadow of doubt, that the Brazos is destined to become in a few years, the greatest stream for inland navigation, west of the great Mississippi. The river being in the centre of the State, and possessing so many advantages over every other section of the cotton region, is certainly destined soon to render Texas the most opulent, wealthy, and therefore the most independent State in the Union.

J. A. HANCOCK

24 April 1850, Vol. II No. 2, p. 1

Cameron, Texas, March 25th 1850

Dear Banner:

In my last communication I gave you a description of the country over which I traveled in the region of the Brazos river; in this I shall attempt to give you a short outline of the country through which I passed in the region of the Colorado and Little rivers, which are looked upon, by travelers from every part of the United States, as one of the richest and most delightful sections of country in the world. The Colorado and Little rivers are two of the most beautiful streams of water, to their size, that I ever saw. I traversed the eastern side of the Colorado from a short distance below La Grange, to Webber's prairie. In this region I saw some of the finest and most handsomely improved situations that I have seen in Texas. Here you may see with great pleasure and admiration, at one single glance, thousands of acres of the richest, and at no distance period, the most valuable lands in the world. It was not unfrequently the case in my travels, to ride away, out upon the centre of one of those elevated, beautiful and unbounded prairies, which are so common to Texas, and there stand or sit, for a half hour or an hour at a time, alone, beholding, contemplating and admiring the rich and beautiful landscape, by which I was surrounded on every side, as far as the eyes could see; which presented to my enchanted view the most exquisitely beautiful, grand and sublime scenes that I ever witnessed. After leaving the region of the Colorado, my travels were confined almost exclusively, for two weeks, to Little river bottom and the adjacent country, from above Three Forks to the Brazos. This is the healthiest, richest and most desirable section of the country, through which I have traveled in the State, or even in the whole Southern or Western country; and is destined to soon become one of the finest cotton countries in the whole cotton region. It is now, doubtless, one of the finest and best countries for raising stock in the world. There are some as fine cotton and corn lands, in my estimation, on Little river and its tributaries, in Milam county, as any that I ever saw in any of the Southern States. The bodies of real first rate land on these rivers are not as large or extensive as those on the Brazos or Colorado; this is one particular reason why it is with me much more desirable than any other country that I have seen - every farmer can live on the ridges, and own from 100 to 3,000 acres of as good land in the bottom, extending to the bank of the river, as was ever cultivated by man. This river will, as soon as the surrounding country is put into the successful cultivation of cotton, be one of the finest streams for navigation in the State. It is a much better navigable stream than the Colorado, and will, doubtless, afford much better navigation than even the Brazos above its junction. The very best kind of water can be obtained by digging from ten to sixty feet, any where in the post oaks, adjacent to these fine bodies of rich bottom land, thousands of the finest and most beautiful situations and richest land that I ever saw, in their native state, may be bought for from one to two dollars per acre; which lands will, doubtless, in twenty years from now, sell for twenty dollars per acre. And now to you who may chance to read the brief sketch that I have given of this country - if you have your coffers filled with gold and silver, and are afraid to vest it in the uncertain, perplexing, and may I not add dangerous business of merchandising or banking, and wish to make a sure business, realize a handsome profit on your money, live happy, and lay up a fortune for your children; I say if you wish to realize all these blessings for yourself and your children, all you have to do is come to Texas (the land of promise) and invest your capital in the richest lands in Christendom, at from one to two dollars per acre. He who has never seen this country and is able to afford it, would do well to come and see for himself. The flattering prospects of its future greatness - why, sir, it would not only afford you a great satisfaction, but would doubtless be the greatest treat that you could possibly imagine, just to ride over this Pardsical country, and behold and admire, and contemplate from its present prospects the certainty, of unparalleled greatness and renown that it is destined one day of other to reach in point of agriculture, commerce, manufactures, and indeed, in every other species of improvement calculated to render a country truly great and desirable. In my next I will give you the reasons upon which I base this opinion.

J. A. HANCOCK

Vol. II, No. 3, page 1, May 1, 1850)

Cameron, Milam County, Texas April 4, 1850

Rev. C. RICHARDSON:

In my last communication I promised to give you the reasons, or grounds upon which my opinion in regard to the future greatness and prosperity of the country was founded. In the first place it is the most extensive State in the Union; and composed of the finest largest and richest bodies of land and most beautiful rivers of any other section of country in the world; or, at least this is a conclusion at which travelers from every part of the Globe readily arrive, where they have traveled pretty extensively over the State; and in addition to the eminent advantages, our State is in the centre of the great cotton and sugar region, possessing as many or perhaps more commercial advantages, or natural facilities for commerce, than any State in the Union, from the fact that cotton and sugar are the main articles of produce, which during the last twenty or thirty years, have commanded the attention, and regulated the whole commercial world. And in order that you may be fully satisfied in regard to the great and eminent natural advantages that this State possesses over every other State in the Union, for agriculture, manufactures, and commerce, I need only refer you to the history and geographical description of it, as given by the most reliable authors of our country, wherein you will see that about three or four hundred miles of the richest border of our State are open to commerce, and can in time to come, carry on a course of trade throughout every part of our delightful country almost unparalleled, with all the commercial nations of the earth; besides all of these natural facilities for external or international commerce, we possess, doubtless, more natural facilities for inland navigation than any State in the South or West. In taking a geographical survey of this State, I would direct your attention to the numerous and beautiful rivers running from the mountains on the North to the Gulf on the South, bringing every part of our widely extended State, from the Sabine, on the East, to the banks of the Rio Grande, on the West into close contact; and upon whose restless waters the rich products of our salubrious Clime and fertile soil can be easily and cheaply conveyed from point to point, almost with the speed of the wind.

Another eminent advantage that we possess over every other part of the United States, is, that our country is so level, that we can build railroads, and carry on every other species of internal improvements, that is calculated to bring with it wealth and prosperity, with more facility and less expense, than any other part of Christendom. Reader, you may doubtless think, or imagine, that all of these distinguished blessings will not be realized, until after a long lapse of time. If so, I assure you that you are very much mistaken; because there are so many superior advantages and facilities by which these glorious results can be accomplished, that I confidently believe that the day is not far distant when this will be the most independent, wealthy, and prosperous State in the Union.

Houston, Texas, Editor C. RICHARDSON, Vol II, No. 1, Page 1, 17 April 1850 Col. 3, P. 1 (Excerpt)

Matagorda, March 21, 1850

Brother RICHARDSON:-- --

Winter has left us, and bright and joyous spring, with its bland breezes, and fragrant breath, is making us, and all nature glad and buoyant. We are, too, much indebted to the author of all good for the general good health that prevails among us

Rev. J. M. WESSON, our P. E., was with us a week ago and preached with his accustomed zeal and efficacy

Rev. Mr. TICHNOR, of the Baptist Church, is with us; has preached several times for us with acceptability. I do not know whether or not the Baptist Church here will engage his services. He seems to be a young man of piety, and very respectable preaching abilities, and would no doubt prove a very acceptable pastor.
