Dallas Genealogical Society Presents a Beginner Workshop

You've seen the show: "Who Do you Think You Are." Now find out how to discover who you are. Join three expert genealogical researchers in a special workshop for beginning family history explorers. The workshop covers where to begin, how to collection and document, resources and repositories, records (census, birth, death marriage, land, military, and more), and learning tools. This workshop concludes with a brief tour of the Genealogical Department of the Dallas Public Library.

Continue this exploration at a Library Lock-in on the same night (6:15 p.m. to 12:00 a.m.). DGS members and library staff will be available to answer your questions as you begin your search. The Dallas Public Library is the premier genealogical research center in Texas.

Beginner Workshop Only - $10
Beginner Workshop and Library Lock-in - $40

Register online with a credit card. Register by mail with check or money order. Printed form may be downloaded from 2010 Beginner Workshop page on website.
