Each day more family records are published online. Earlier this year, more than 3000 genealogists attended the first RootsTech conference in Salt Lake City. DGS is bringing some of that same technology focus to Texas in our Summer Institute on Genealogy & Technology. You too can embrace this burgeoning trend to ramp up your family research ... without leaving town!

"The Genealogy Guys," hosts of the longest running genealogy podcast, bring their varied expertise to help us maximize online research. And, to use technology to organize and manage our findings. Plus spend some time getting hands-on tips for using several online sites as well as popular software programs in our breakout

Extra-added attraction: participate in a LIVE PODCAST as "The Genealogy Guys" host their program from the Auditorium at the J. Erik Jonsson Central Library on Saturday afternoon. Visit <http://genealogyguys.com> to download the most recent show as well as any earlier shows.

Lunch is included each day; discounted parking is available in the library's underground garage. The Institute begins at 10:00 a.m. each day. We hope you'll join us.
