North Texas Giving Day Update

Thanks to our generous donors we have accumulated the funds required to digitize our society's entire collection of early Quarterlies. Created between 1955 and 1994, these 161 publications contain more than 9000 pages!

Once digitized, the Quarterlies will join their successors on The Portal to Texas History:

- The Dallas Journal (1995 – 2012), and
- Pegasus: Journal of the Dallas Genealogical Society (2013 – present).

Thus our efforts to digitize, preserve, and archive this important part of our society's history will be completed, and all of these publications will be freely accessible to the public.

Results from the 2017 North Texas Giving Day event are still preliminary but as of now (mid-October) the total of our fundraising effort stands at $4,475:

- $430 – Cash donations made at our General Meetings and Fall Seminar
- $370 – Advance donations made via the DGS website
- $1000 – Rescuing Texas History Grant from the University of North Texas Libraries
- $2675 – Donations made through the North Texas Giving Day event

Overall this year's Giving Day event raised $39 million for 2,723 organizations. Since its inauguration in 2009 more than $195 million dollars has been raised for North Texas nonprofits.

DGS Hosts 2017 North Texas Society Summit

Nearly 60 leaders representing 20 North Texas Genealogy Societies met at the Dallas Public Library on Friday, September 29 to discuss Collaboration among Societies. Panel discussions focused on four areas: Membership, Marketing, Leadership, and Fund Raising. Our special guest, D. Joshua Taylor, made two presentations related to society collaboration, which were well received.

One outcome of the Summit was an agreement that several societies would jointly explore participating in the 2018 North Texas Giving Day to raise funds for The Cathy Nelson Hartman Portal to Texas History Endowment. In addition to raising funds for a valuable resource for genealogists and family historians, it is hoped that this effort will allow participating societies to increase their marketing and social media skills. Future projects will benefit from this!

The event, co-chaired by Kathleen Murray and Tony Hanson, was the second Society Summit sponsored by the Dallas Genealogical Society. There was no cost to participants other than a requested donation to offset the catering costs. A third summit is planned for September 28, 2018.

More information about the Summit, including links to audio recordings of all sessions, can be found on our website.

New Feature: Spotlight on DGS Board Members

This month's spotlight is on new DGS Board President Todd DeDecker.

Hello!

I'm Todd DeDecker and honored to be President of the Dallas Genealogical Society. This role comes at an interesting point in my life. With an empty nest, I have more time for genealogy.

I never thought much about my family history until one of my uncles showed me a stack of printed papers in the early 2000's showing our lineage. It traced our family to Belgium with entries dating back to the 1600's. Wow, this was so cool! I was interested, but didn't jump in right there. Over the next few years I did some research and stumbled on a local genealogical society.

I work for Microsoft in Irving leading a team of support engineers helping our customers with their Big Data & Data Science solutions. The Irving Genealogy Society met just down the road from work and was my ticket in! While there, I learned about the Dallas Genealogical Society and I started attending in 2006.

Over the next few years, I attended meetings when I could and did research the same way. When I could. An early find was discovering the ship that my brought the DeDecker's to America. I was so excited!

Flash to the present and I find that I may be able to get back to researching! I'll be starting with the following lines:

- DeDecker (Belgium)
- Oatman (Sweden)
- Zdun (Poland)
- Weirl (?)

I've had the pleasure of getting plugged into the DGS over the last few years, working on the website and engaging on the Board. This is such an impressive organization and I am looking forward to continuing the mission of the DGS (Educate, Collect & Preserve) with a truly outstanding team.

Sincerely,

Todd
